large shareholders would be applied to for assistance, and to act on the Committee.

The Chairman said, of course any expenses of the committee would be paid, or those that the former committee had incurred.

The proceedings concluded with a vote of thanks to the chairman and directors.

AFGHANISTAN AND THE LOST TRIBES.—The mountains of the Indian Caucasus, the mountains of Cabul, are said to be visible in clear weather, from a distance of two hundred and fifty miles; lifting their hoary heads sublimely into the clear calm heavens, they well represent "the terrible crystal" of the prophet. Roving myriads of people have been attracted by this sight, as if to travel onwards and upwards, in imagination, along the mountain pathway, to the realms of glory and of rest. The traditions of the whole world celebrate these stupendous heights, many of whose light-crowned pinnacles are supposed to stand more than twenty thousand feet above the common level of the earth. Their magnificence and their mystery have drawn nations together in adoring wonder into the hills and valleys, so fruitful and bounteous and beautiful, around their feet. This region might well be thought the seat of Paradise. There are found specimens of nearly every form of living thing, whether animal or vegetable, elsewhere found in any country of Europe or of Asia; and there, too, almost every civilized nation has its representative. The oldest nations believe that thence, mankind first sprang into existence, and that God even now sits enthroned, waiting to judge all the human souls which he has made. Greeks, Romans, Hebrews, Persians, the followers of Buddha, of Brahma, of Mahomet, and even believers in Jehovah, have looked up unto their awful solitudes, and bowed in soul before their Majesty, thinking of God. Here was a high place (Bamah) for the worshippers of Bamah worthy of the name, and here the wandering tribes might believe themselves in the especial presence of Him who made the heavens and the earth. To the skirts of these mountain fastnesses many of the outcast Israelites undoubtedly resorted after their escape from Assyrian or Persian domination, and after wanderings in the north. Traces of their former possession of this neighbourhood, as well as of Bactria and Bokhara, are still extant, not only in existing monuments, but also in the traditions of the power and majesty of a national religion and polity once capable of awakening the attention of all the East, but now lost in the mist of ages.—Dr. Moore's "The Lost Tribes."

THE KING AND SEIDLITZ POWDERS.—On the first consignment of seidlitz powders to the capital of Delhi, the monarch became deeply interested in the accounts of the refreshing box.—A box was brought to the king in full court, and the interpreter explained to the king how it should be used. Into a goblet he put twelve blue papers, and having added water, the king drank it off. This was the alkali, and the royal countenance expressed no signs of satisfaction. It was then explained that in the combination of the two powders lay the luxury; and the twelve white powders were quickly dissolved, and as eagerly swallowed by his majesty. With a shriek that will be remembered while Delhi is numbered with the kingdoms the monarch rose, staggered, exploded, and, in his agonies, exclaimed, "Hold me down!"—then, rushing from the throne, fell prostrate on the floor. There he laid during the long-continued effervescence of the compound, spitting like ten thousand penny-worths of imperial pop, and believing himself in the agonies of death—a melancholy and humiliating proof that kings are mortal.

INVENTOR OF THE MINNIE RIFLE.—Minnie, the inventor of the rifle bearing his name, personally supervises an immense workshop in Paris. At breakfast, over his slice of melon, or at the butts of Nincompoes, the chief is the same man. The perfection of arms is the devouring passion of his life. Always attempting something new, always practising his arms, he may, any day, produce a good result. In France he is known as the great authority in fire-arms; and it was to him, therefore, that the Emperor appealed for advice when the new Imperial Guard was to be armed. The question was not slowly filtered through Committees and Councils. Minnie was summoned. He stated his views frankly, and gave reasons for them. The Emperor listened and decided. Minnie armed the Imperial Guard of France.

PERILOUS SITUATION.—The steam propeller "Pembroke," left Boston for Eastport and Pembroke on Thursday last week. She was out in the gale and cold weather, and made ice so fast as to be entirely unmanageable. The screw would lift itself entirely out of the water, and it was impossible to get any headway on the boat. She drifted about seventy miles—nearly over to Cape Sable—when the gale moderating, she lay there until the ice could be knocked off and steam be got up again, when she made for Eastport, arriving there at ten o'clock Saturday evening. The boat was so much injured that it will take some time to repair her and put her in sea-going order.

An exchange has the following, as an excellent system of gardening for ladies: Make your beds early in the morning; sow buttons on your husband's shirts; do not rake up any grievances; protect the young and tender branches of your family; plant a smile of good temper in your face; and carefully root out all angry feelings, and expect a good crop of happiness.

PORT, SHERRY AND MADEIRA

of a very rare and superior quality. They are pure, wholesome, and every way suitable for either Dinner or Invalids. Five years old. The extensive and increasing demand for these WINES is a sure proof of their restorative quality, and the attention of really good judges of Wine is directed to the above. This is a most favorable opportunity a first Class WINE of rare quality and flavor, at a price usually asked for a very inferior quality.

Call and examine for yourselves.
This House has no connection with any person or persons, as I am sole proprietor.
