LARGE AUDIENCE AT THE OPERA HOUSE

"Over Night" Proves an Excellent Exhibition Attraction —A Very Funny Comedy Splendidly Produced.

Two large audiences attended the Over Night performances at the Opera House yesterday and all were thoroughly pleased with the very excellent production. It is a bright, clean, sparkling comedy which causes a continuous laugh from the time the curtain rises until it falls.

"Over Night" is one of those comedies which does not depend upon rough and tumble horse play humor, the slap stick variety; neither does it drop to vulgar suggestive smuttiness to win laughs.

It is good, clean, wholesome, fun, of the kind which grows as the play unfolds and becomes stronger with you as the story of the mix up of the muchly mixed bridal tours is related.

Excepting the first few minutes of act one and the last four or five of act three "Over Night" presents a muddled state of affairs, which is a close second to the "yes" and "no" situation in Maine at the present time.

It is the story of the efforts of two newly married couples to make a wedding trip. That alone gives the author of the pieces, Philip H. Bartholomae, many opportunities and he has taken advantage of each and every one. Richard Kettle is a littlish sort of a chap, with faint evidence of mustache, a pronounced lisp, who has always depended upon Mamma to think and do things for him and now has married a pronounced leader of the suffragette movement. She is about twice his size, of distinguished presence, handsome and of the commanding type of female. In the start she proceeds to order Richard around, which he accepts as a matter of course, having been used to it from the cradle up. Percy Darling isn't that sort of man. He's a big husky person, but his new wife is a clingy little woman, the pronounced opposite of Mrs. Georgina Kettle. Kettle and Darling were in college together and they've both gotten married the same day and take the same steamer for their wedding trip. Of course, if all had gone serene with them there wouldn't have been any play. It didn't and all theatre-goers ought to feel very glad of this. Percy and Mrs. Georgina Kettle succeed in getting left at Poughkeepsie, leaving their two helpless marriage partners on board the steamboat.

About this time friends of Kettle and of Darling and persons who have admired Mrs. Georgina for her noble work as leader in the cause of woman's suffrage insist upon proclaiming Mrs. Elise Darling as the wife of Mr. Richard Kettle and then the mix is well under way. The two small persons decided that force of circumstances compels them to carry out the deception and pose as man and wife. Back at Poughkeepsie big, stalwart Percy Darling and tall, handsome, masterful Georgina Kettle find that it is absolutely necessary for them to pretend to be man and wife.

The above is the plot of the play. To tell the serious entanglements and laughable situations into which it takes the Darlings and Kettles, as well as their friends would be a long job—it requires two and a quarter hours for them to be set forth on the play house stage.

Over Night will be repeated for the balance of the week and should draw large audiences.

ORANGEMEN PAY TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED BRETHREN

Large Number of Members of Local Order Accompanied Contingent from Moncton to Attend Dedication of Monument to Memory of Late Grand Master MacRae and are Present at Funeral of George Jenkins.

A very large number of Orangemen took part in the ceremonies yesterday in connection with the dedication of the monument to the memory of the late Alexander William MacRae, who died while holding the office of Grand Master of the Orange Association in New Brunswick. In addition to officers of the Grand Lodge, officers and members of the two St. John County lodges, the various local lodges and the Prentice Boys' Association, a contingent of about fifty Orangemen came from Moncton to do honor to the memory of the former Grand Master. The dedication service at the monument was a memorable function and especially notable were the addresses of Grand Master Thomas and Past County Master Baxter.

Shortly before two o'clock in the afternoon the members of the different lodges assembled in full regalia at the Orange Hall on Germain street. A procession was then formed and accompanied by the bands of St. Mary and the Sons of England, the Orangemen marched to the residence of the late brother, George Jenkins, and then escorted the remains to Fernhill cemetery, where a burial service was conducted by Rev. W. W. Brewer and Rev. George Dawson, assisted by District Master James G. Sullivan and District Chaplain George Menzies.

After this service the Orangemen reformed their procession and marched to the grave of the late Grand Master MacRae. Gathering around the monument they opened the dedicatory service by reciting the Lord's Prayer, and then singing the hymn "Nearer My God To Thee." After this Rev. W. W. Brewer pronounced an invocation, and Rev. L. A. McLean read a portion of the cxxxvi Psalm, the brethren intoning the responses.

Lt. Col. J. B. M. Baxter, past county master, then delivered a striking eulogy of the late Grand Master MacRae, saying in part:

"'What shall we mourn? For the prostrate tree that sheltered the young green wood?
For the fallen cliff that fronted the sea and guarded the fields from the flood?
For the eagle that died in the tempest afar from its eyrie's brood?
Nay, not for these shall we weep; for the silver cord must be worn
And the golden fillet shrink back at last, and the dust to its earth return;
And tears are never for those who die with their face to the duty done;
But we mourn for the fledglings left on the waste and the fields where the wild waves run.'

"Such are the words of a great poet which may fitly be applied to the present occasion. We show to the world today by the unveiling of this monument our sense of the loss which our order and our community have sustained by the death of our late Grand Master MacRae.

An Able Man.

"Possessed of a natural fitness for the leadership of men, his ability was displayed not only in the practice of his profession but as well in the political world and in the activities of our institution which he counted as a great force in the development of our country when its energies were rightly directed. Resolute in judgment, he was always ready to press to its logical development any policy which he considered it wise to initiate and though perhaps not always understood, he trusted to time and patient consideration to vindicate his course.

"That the work of his life merited the approval of this order is amply proved by the spontaneous movement which originating in the sense of personal loss inspired by his almost tragic death, resulted in the erection of this monument.

"For his work well done we do not mourn, but our sorrow is for the family which was deprived by his early death, for the institution which lost a leader who had so lately been called to his fitting place at its head and for our country which through the passing years would have raised a greater memorial to one who possessed the qualities of statesmanship. With his voice forever silent and his activities forever stilled; with many of his hopes unrealized and his ambitions unachieved, the inspiration of his life shall yet prevail and teach us to cherish the ideal of equal rights to all men during the brief interval which shall elapse before we join him in the comradeship of the grave."

After Col. Baxter's eulogy, the gathering joined in singing the hymn "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and then the Provincial Grand Master delivered an address, in which he paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of Mr. MacRae and his work for the Orange order in New Brunswick.

Grand Master's Address.

Rev. Byron H. Thomas, right worshipful grand master of New Brunswick, said in part:

"Sir Knights, Companions and Brothers—

"God makes men by their obedience to law; men unmake themselves by disobedience.

"Dr. Alexander W. MacRae was an illustration of obedience to the laws of intelligent industry. Observe the steps in this notable career: (a) He was a preacher's babe, born in the ancient colony of Newfoundland in the year 1865; (b) He was a diligent son, he put perseverance over against his every endeavor; (c) He was a working youth; (d) An earnest student. His college career gave abundant evidence of that; (e) He was a soulful teacher in all matters of debate; (f) He was a loyal Orangeman, and all that the word loyal stands for; (g) In Orange assemblies he proved himself masterful as a presiding officer; (h) He was an heroic sufferer; (i) A gracious husband; (j) And a loving father.

"His was a brief but successful life. Here let me advise you to guard against the worship of success. The thing of worth is the manhood capable of winning success.

"Monuments have paid tribute to leaders among men everywhere. But you will allow me to say that never was a more fittingly raised to the memory of man, than this beautiful product of chisel and hammer before which we stand today.

"It is love's offering—by a great brotherhood, to the memory of a great and good right worshipful grand master. A good life never dies; great deeds are imperishable. He gathered about him the lustre and glory of good citizenship.

"But I pass to ask the question: What is this organization that is assembled before this marble shaft, an masterpiece of sculpture today? For what does it stand? I am not travelling wide of the mark when I say:

What it Stands For.

"It stands for (a) Liberty; (b) Loyalty; (c) and National Unity." These three bed-rock principles of Orangeism, were eloquently elaborated on by the speaker.

"On these three principles," he continued, "our late lamented Brother vested the superstructure of Orangeism.

"I pay a tribute to the godlike spirit of love and brotherhood, that prompted the erection of this monument. It is right that Dr. A. W. MacRae should have a memorial of this character. It is right also that our late lamented brother, and Right Worshipful Grand Master, should sleep in the soil of this Loyalist city by the sea, where the major part of his life was spent, and his public record made.

"St. John, city of my birth and boyhood, holds in its keeping the dust of my brother and companion. But his record is engraved on the tablets of enduring memory, found among over 300,000 loyal Orangemen in Canada, the land of the Maple Leaf.

"As an association we will continue to treasure his memory, and think with sacred pleasure of our brother each time we gaze on this monument, which we dedicate today to the name of one of St. John's brilliant sons, and most distinguished Orangemen.

Floral Tributes.

At the conclusion of the Grand Master's address, brethren bearing floral tributes approached the grave and literally covered it and the base of the monument with flowers.

The proceedings were brought to a close by singing God Save the King, and the lodges then formed up in line again and marched back to the Germain street hall, where they disbanded. Renwick Anderson, who was mounted, acted as marshall of the day, performing his duties in a very efficient manner. Among those who came from Moncton to take part in the ceremonies were Grand Treasurer H. G. Wadman, Grand Director of Ceremonies J. W. Clark, and Deputy County Master Gaddens.

FEATURE BILL AT NICKEL THEATRE

Crowded Houses Witnessed Both Performances Yesterday - Excellent Picture and Musical Programme.

Crowded house greeted each performance of the holiday bill at the Nickel Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening when a program of exceptional interst was shown.

Pathe's latest weekly film deals with varied subjects foremost among them being the great fire at one of the largest oil wells in California.

Another picture that attracted much favorable comment was The Sketch with the Thumb Print. This film dealt with the struggles of a cub reporter on a large newspaper and the manner in which he solved the mystery connected with a great jewel robbery. How he succeeds in his self-appointed task and the manner in which he wins a wife goes to make one of the cleverest picture dramas shown here for some time.

The third film also came in for a lot of praise as it provoked much laughter from the audiences. This picture is a Lubin comedy called The Black Window and tells the story of a childish couple who first thought it a great joke when their neighbors made such a fuss over their baby's first tooth. Later, however, they recovered from this impression.

This programme of pictures together with the pleasing orchestra and solos as sung by Miss Gertrude LeRoy and Tom Waterall, make an hour spent in the Nickel Theatre long to be remembered.

MOTION PICTURES TO BOOST PROVINCE

William Phillips will Make Tour of New Brunswick with Camera — Pictures to be Shown in England.

William Phillips of the British and Colonial Kinematograph Company, who is in the province for the purpose of taking moving pictures to be used by the local government, the C. P. R., and various other agencies, in advertising the province in Great Britain, is expected in the city today. While here he will be taken to Courtenay Bay by Percy Thomson, of the Norton Griffiths Company and given an opportunity to take some pictures of the harbor development work in progress there.

Later he will accompany James Gilchrist, the provincial superintendent of immigration, and A. B. Wilmot, Dominion immigration agent for New Brunswick, on a tour of the province, and will take pictures of such scenes as these officials deem suited to the purpose of showing old country people what kind of a country they may find here.

NATURAL GAS IS PROVING A BOON

People of Hillsboro Take Advantage of its Introduction —Business and Manufacturing Houses Findit of Value.

W. B. Dickson, M.P.P., of Hillsboro, is at the Royal. Speaking of the introduction of gas into Hillsboro, he said that the Albert Manufacturing Company and other concerns were delighted with the innovation, and the people of the town were installing gas in their houses for cooking and lighting purposes as rapidly as possible. He said the gas gave a great heat, and was particularly adapted for the production of power.

Asked what the MacKenzie interests were doing in connection with the oil shale deposits in Albert county, Mr. Dickson said a contractor from Pennsylvania was carrying on boring operations with four diamond drills. It was the intention of the MacKenzie interests to make a thorough examination of the deposits, and find out their extent before putting up a reduction plant.

Mr. Dickson is of the opinion that the result of the borings will be entirely satisfactory, and he confidently anticipated considerable industrial development in Albert county in the near future.

CHEAP FARES TO OTTAWA EXHIBITION.

The fare from St. John will be $14.30.

GREEK OFFICERS ARE RECALLED TO ATHENS

London, Sept. 2.—Greek army officers residing in Egypt have been ordered to return at once to Athens in consequence of the recent grave conflicts between Turkish and Greek troops on the frontier, according to a news agency despatch from Alexandria.

ONTARIO WOMAN'S FORTUNE

Freed From That Weak, Languid, Always Tired Feeling, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Thessalon, Ont.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a blessing to women, and I cannot speak highly enough of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others." —Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, Thessalon, Ont.
