The picture called "Always in the Way" at the Imperial Wednesday and Thursday certainly deserves all the praise with which it was greeted. It is not often in these days of audiences hardened to all dangers that one hears applause at the crisis of a moving picture. Yet the rescue of Dorothy, played by Mary Miles Minter, was greeted with applause. The scenery is wonderful, with views of tropical forests, palm-trees and bamboo thickets, the scenes of native life are most realistic.

The picture is by the Metro Company, and is introduced by a view of Charles K. Harris, the famous song writer, who is the author both of the song and the scenario. He is seen at the piano, with the song "Always in the Way" in his hand. The Imperial orchestra introduces the music of the song at appropriate moments.

The story is (now don't read this if it will spoil the picture for you, for it is too good a picture to be spoiled). Dorothy North has lost her mother who died when the little girl was four years old. Her father, Winford North, marries again a Mrs. Stilwell (played by Edna Holland), who has two small children. Dorothy is left to the care of servants, neglected and while her father is away cruelly treated.

There is a very pretty bedtime scene with the kiddies. Little Dorothy (played at this stage by a clever little four-year-old) has only her toy to say good night to her. "Always in the Way" she sighs. North leaves home, little Dorothy runs away from a cruel nurse and takes street car for "Heaven" to find her own mamma. She wanders into the home of a mis- sionary and his wife who are leaving for Africa. They communicate with Mrs. North, who is only too glad to get rid of the little girl, and with the aid of the nurse plans to give her up. Blake, a former lover of Mrs. North happens to find this out. The second part is in Africa; Dorothy (Mary Miles Minter), as the Missionary's daughter is seen in splendid contrast to the native belles. Helen Armstrong (played by Fred Coates) appears ill, and she helps nurse him, and, yes—they fall in love. Then there is a most exciting attack by Zulus, and a wonderful forest scene. Dorothy is rescued and put on a ship going to New York. Armstrong follows her, finds her, discovers she is North's daughter and all ends happily. It is a mighty good picture.

The Universal Weekly is very good at the Imperial. Especially interest- ing to the ladies were "Fashion's Or- naments for Milady's culture." The Spanish tendency in dress has brought the comb back into fashion, so the girls may now bring out that old comb of grandma's, laid away in the bureau drawer. Various styles were shown, some inlaid with gems, some which can be worn either side, under any hat, one a very handsome enameled fan-shaped side effect. Other Univer- sal pictures were of children in New York being taught athletics. "Strangle Lewis" a wonderful wrestler; subma- rines and motor boats; new 3rd track N. Y., and H. Mayer's cartoons.

Signor Gaetano Manno, who has a very sweet and sympathetic tenor voice, sings Reginald DeKoven's song "Oh Promise Me," and a pretty little encore called "What Care I?" accom- panied by the Imperial Festival Or- chestra at the Imperial Theatre this week. New songs for the latter part of the week.

Winifred Greenwood, who played "The Clean Up" at the Unique yester- day has had a stage career in vaude- ville and stock companies. For two years she headed her own stock com- pany. This picture is staged in very pretty country in the out-of-door scenes. It's plot is the gambling evil projected by a politician who is also father of the heroine. A reporter who is detailed to write up the gambling evil is in love with Miriam, her en- core called "What Care I?" accom- panied by the Imperial Festival Or- chestra at the Imperial Theatre this week. New songs for the latter part of the week.

Introducing the New Adventures of Terence O'Rourke it is felt that a very refreshing novelty will be presented the people of St. John. It is a romance of high tension quality dealing with international conspiracies and the love affairs of some royal ladies in which three of these stories and the serial will terminate on the 19th. It will, therefore, be short, snappy and interesting to the fullest degree. It takes the place of the "Broken Coin" and will assuredly prove eminently satisfactory to all ages of patrons.

FILM MANAGERS AND N. S. GOVERNMENT
COME TO TERMS.

The following despatch was received from Halifax at midnight: Halifax, N. S., Feb. 2.—After a conference with representatives of the Nova Scotia government today in which some misapprehensions were cleared up and one or two small changes were agreed with regard to the new moving picture legislation of this province, the delegation of managers of Canadian film companies expressed themselves as well pleased with the result.

It was explained that they would not be required to open film exchanges in this city, as the act only demanded that the film producers should appoint representatives here. It was agreed to reduce the cost of censoring a film from $2 to $1.

The delegation entertained the representatives of the government and the local theatre managers to a banquet in the evening, and left tonight for their homes, well satisfied with their visit.

MARY MILES MINTER
In Chas. K. Harris' Picturized Song

"ALWAYS IN THE WAY"

THE LITTLE SUNSHINE OF THE MOVIES is the name by which petite Mary Miles Minter is known in all the big theatres of America today. The winsome little golden-haired girl is yet a stranger to the people of St. John, but after today it is safe to predict she will be in the favored class along with Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clarke and others. The dramatic vehicle for Miss Minter's introduction is none other than a picturized popular song of more than twelve years ago. "Always in the Way" was sung by pretty nearly everybody at one time and the pathos it contains imparts to its words and harmony a stirring heart appeal. This is what our patrons will see on our curtain today and tomorrow—an elaborate enactment of the story of a song that captured this continent and other lands as well in the good old days gone by.
