

WOUNDED SOLDIERS FROM THE FRONT HERE ON LNER HESPERIAN

Tell Thrilling Tale of Fierce Fighting at Ypres--Were Through Battles of Aisne, Mons and Ypres, and Had Close Call from Death--One Declares He Was Terribly Treated While a Prisoner.

"The British never retire in the face of a German charge; the Germans come up bravely to the very guns--but they go back." Thus did R. Miller, South African veteran and hero of the battles of the Aisne, Mons and Ypres, sum up the opposing forces in the battle front on the western wing.

"The Germans are brave," he said, "brave in the fight but treacherous and brutal to prisoners."

Monday, April 26. Private R. Miller, of Calgary, member of the Canadian Privateers, McKinnon of Oklahoma, and Lance-Corporal R. Rutherford, of Cumberland (B. C.), both of the latter of the First Black Watch, arrived last night on the royal mail steamer Hesperian. The three soldiers, all of whom were in the trenches during three months of the most critical period of the German drive, were severely wounded in action, having been under treatment in military hospitals, are now returning home to western Canada to face uncertain future in a weakened state.

McKinnon and Rutherford are married. All were British Reservists and hastened to England on the outbreak of war; McKinnon from a cattle ranch in Oklahoma, Rutherford from the Pacific, and Miller from the middle west. McKinnon was shot through the right hip joint and lost the power of his right leg; Rutherford, who had suffered a severe wound in the South African war, was shot through the lungs at Ypres on Nov. 11, and Miller received wounds in the chest, leg and head.

Survivors of the historic battle of the Aisne, the men were members of a celebrated British unit, the first division of which was transferred to Ypres and which was responsible for the failure of the German drive to break through "The victorious British," said Lance-Corporal Rutherford, "were rushed from the field of triumph to Ypres, the line of the impending thrust by the German hordes. In one unit were 400 Black Watch and 200 Canadians, veterans all. The Huns had massed 800 strong at a point of vantage when the British arrived on the night of Oct. 22.

"As a cover for a charge before the English could occupy positions of advantage, the Germans dragged six of a farmer's family from a house and placed them in the line of fire. The Huns afterwards shot three women of the house. In the fight which followed, the Germans were driven back and 100 were taken prisoners."

Fierce Fighting. The returned soldiers said that the battle of Ypres lasted eleven days and that the British were continually charging during that time. Miller fell on the field at Ypres on October 22, his body was captured and he was taken to a German hospital. He was captured by the Germans. He was taken to a German hospital. He was captured by the Germans. He was taken to a German hospital. He was captured by the Germans.

MORE CASUALTIES AMONG THE CANADIANS

(Continued from page 1.) Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Bart, of Vancouver (B. C.), answering a message of sympathy in the death of his son-in-law and the wounding of his son, says: "If death had to call Merritt (his son-in-law), he would have chosen it in defence of his country. Canada, in its sorrow, is consoled by the bravery of her soldiers. Reggie (son) cables from Boulogne: 'Slightly wounded.'"

Eight More Named. Ottawa, April 26--(Special)--A list of eight more Canadian officers, wounded in the four days' fight near Ypres, was given out for publication at the militia department tonight. A further casualty list of 100 or so non-commissioned officers and men has come in and will be issued within a few hours, as soon as the relatives are notified.

No further official communication has been received in regard to the details of the fighting, but it is not believed at headquarters here that the list of killed and wounded among the men will be as high as might be imagined from the number of officers killed or wounded. It is pointed out that it is the duty of the officers to lead the men, and that proportionately the casualties among officers would be high. Today the Canadians are being held in reserve.

Col. Carrick, M.P., Canada's eyewitness at the front, called the minister of militia today as follows: "Canadian covered themselves with glory. Their heroism most highly appreciated at headquarters. In reserve today, after four days' fighting." "The officer reported wounded tonight as follows: "Capt. Bowen, 7th battalion, formerly 7th, 10th Edmonton Dragoons. "Major Ballantyne, 4th battalion, severely wounded, formerly of 20th Reg. "Lt. W. L. Ford, 7th battalion, of Kamloops, formerly of the Rocky Mountain Rangers. "Lt. H. J. Schorschmidt, 7th battalion, Vancouver.

"Lt. F. S. Molson, 13th battalion, formerly of the 8th Royal Highlanders, Montreal. "Lt. A. Danerac, 18th battalion, a graduate of the R. M. C., and attached with corps of guides. "Capt. Geo. Haggerty MacLaren, 15th battalion, (former residence unknown in view of the character of the fight it is considered likely that at least some of the Canadians were taken prisoners in the first rush of the German advance. It is believed that the list of killed, wounded and prisoners is available. The Germans apparently still hold part of the ground where the battle began and presumably some of the wounded are now in their hands."

The Official List. Ottawa, April 26--The following casualties were announced this afternoon, two killed and four wounded. The former are Captain Glover, Orillia, and Driver Cross, of Nanant, Alberta. The latter are Lieutenant J. V. Young, Hamilton; Lieutenant G. S. Ager, Victoria; Hon. Captain J. H. McGregor, Victoria, and Corporal Orr, Brantford.

There are also a number of names of the first rush of the German advance. It is believed that the list of killed, wounded and prisoners is available. The Germans apparently still hold part of the ground where the battle began and presumably some of the wounded are now in their hands."

Newfoundland Proud OF THE CANADIANS. St. Johns, Nfld., April 26--Great satisfaction is expressed here over the splendid work of the Canadian division in the recent fighting in Flanders, and the newspapers pay tribute to the gallantry of the Newfoundlanders. Another fact influencing the best feeling is that some scores of Newfoundlanders have enlisted among the Canadian forces, and some probably look part in Saturday's battle with them.

Empress of Britain Patrols STEAMER LANE. Highlands, N. J., April 26--One of the British cruisers doing patrol duty off the entrance of New York harbor alarmed residents in this vicinity shortly after noon today by opening fire with heavy guns, causing detonations which shook windows along the coast. The cruiser was apparently engaged in target practice.

DR. J. L. DUVAL, OF WEST ST. JOHN, ONE OF THOSE WOUNDED

His Injuries Not Serious, However, He Cables His Wife--Private McKiel--Col. Armstrong's Interesting Explanation.

A cable received yesterday morning by Mrs. Duval, of 116 Ludlow street, West St. John, from her husband, Major J. L. Duval, M.D., with No. 1 Field Ambulance at the front, told of his having been slightly wounded. It was dated "Haebrouck, April 26, slightly wounded. Writing."

Major Duval was one of the first physicians from St. John to offer his services and left here with the earliest contingent. He has been in France for several weeks, and has with him a complete ambulance detachment composed of St. John boys, with many from Fairville and West St. John. The announcement of his having been wounded would indicate that his unit was probably in the thick of the recent heavy fighting rendering first aid to the fallen in battle.

From Doctor Corbet. In a letter from Major G. G. Corbett, M.D., received yesterday morning by his wife, he says that his base hospital at Rouen, France, was filled with wounded Canadian soldiers as a result of the recent severe fighting. He himself is still quite well, although working almost night and day.

Private McKiel. A letter of pathetic interest was received yesterday by Glendon H. Allan of Fairville. It was from Rudolph F. McKiel, of Fairville, whose death in battle was announced. In his letter Private McKiel told of hard work and hard fighting in the trenches. At one time they were on the firing line for several hours at a stretch, the fighting being too hot to permit of their release. When they got out of the trenches they were sent to the rear with the expectation of getting six days rest. Before this time had elapsed they were recalled and again entered the trenches to take up the work again.

While on the firing line at one time he was busy digging when a German sniper got his range and fired at him. It was a narrow escape that time for the bullet split the handle of the shovel he was using. He wrote of Harold Duplisse, another Fairville man, who was drafted from the 12th and transferred to the Princess Patricia at the same time, as being with him in the trenches. At the time of his departure, Mr. McKiel was with the Canadians in camp at Shorncliffe, England.

Rudolph McKiel. It was the sixty pounds that were captured and recaptured, the list of officers appearing was wrong. From advice received in letters from Major Magee and other St. John officers, that Cyrus Ince was with the heavy battery as battery captain and Lieut. Ralph Hayes and Lieut. Rifenstein, of the permanent force, were also attached to the heavy battery. The fact that no casualties were reported among the Canadian officers would also lead the St. John officers to believe that it was a British battery and not a Canadian one which had been captured.

From Sergt-Major Patchell. W. H. Sharpe has received an interesting letter from Sergt-Major Holly H. Patchell, who is with the Canadians in camp at Shorncliffe, England. He writes: "If it was the sixty pounds that were captured and recaptured, the list of officers appearing was wrong. From advice received in letters from Major Magee and other St. John officers, that Cyrus Ince was with the heavy battery as battery captain and Lieut. Ralph Hayes and Lieut. Rifenstein, of the permanent force, were also attached to the heavy battery. BATTLE OF YPRES STILL CONTINUES

French Report. Paris, April 26, 10:45 p. m.--The following official statement was issued by the war office tonight: "To the north of Ypres, on the left of the battle front, we have made very sensible progress, and have driven back the enemy, inflicting on him heavy losses. The Germans have employed anew asphyxiating gases, but a means of protection has been put into service which has given the best results among our Belgian allies and ourselves. A spirited infantry engagement has taken place near Ray, to the north of Chaulnes, for the possession of an excavation caused by the explosion of a German mine. Our troops dislodged the enemy from it and have maintained the position, notwithstanding two counter-attacks."

"In Champagne, near Beausjour, the Germans attempted an attack which was immediately arrested. "On the heights of the Meuse the attacks of the Germans on the front comprising Les Eparges, St. Leny and the trench of Calonne, have suffered a complete check. Despite the extreme violence of the German effort we remain masters of the whole of the position at Les Eparges, the slopes of which are covered with bodies of dead Germans. "At the trench of Calonne our withdrawal of the day before yesterday, which was temporary and in which we suffered the loss of not a single cannon, was immediately followed by successful counter-attacks on our part. The Germans delivered their attack with not less than two divisions. "In the Vosges the enemy, after a bombardment of extreme violence, succeeded in gaining a foothold on the summit of Hartmann-Wellerkopf. We occupied at a distance of about 100 metres from the summit the positions from which we carried our attack of March 23, and it was from those positions that we set out on the 26th to capture the summit by an assault which lasted seven minutes."

Captured 1,000 Says Berlin. Berlin, April 26--(By Wireless to Guyville)--In the official statement given today by the German general army headquarters, it was announced that most of the prisoners taken in the fighting around Ypres. The official statement says in part: "The Germans hold Lizerne, on the west bank of the canal, which the French pretend to have recaptured, also on the east of the canal, the conquered terrain remains in the possession of the Germans. The number of cannon taken by the Germans rose to 45, including four English. "Northwest of Zonnebeker, the German attacks continue. More than 1,000 Canadian prisoners were taken. The total number of prisoners rose to 3,000. They include Senegal negroes, English, Turco, Hindus, French, Canadian, Zouaves and Algerians."

French Denial of German Claim. Paris, April 26, 11:15 p. m.--"The German press, basing its claim on supposed losses of the French army," says a semi-official communication issued tonight, "asserts that during the winter 28,000 Frenchmen, which is the strength of an army corps, were put out of action in a single sector of the Argonne. It was stated also that a second French army corps, which defended this part of the front, had disappeared, after being almost entirely annihilated. "It is true that this second army corps at the end of the winter was withdrawn from the Argonne, but the Germans faced it in Champagne, and to this day French success on the Pertches-Boussier front."

Mrs. Thomas Faloon of Union Mills, St. Croix, is dead, and her husband had taken into consideration the fact that he was a member of the same family as the late Mrs. Faloon, who was killed in the same battle. He left two sons and two daughters. Mrs. Faloon also left five sisters and two brothers.
