NOTICES OF

Rev. James Bennet,

ST. JOHN. N B.

"The volume is not an unworthy companion of Dr. Buchanan on the same book."—The Ho milist (London), April 1971.

"This is a bright, breezy book, both interesting and instructive. We can most conscientiously commend this book generally, as one of the most sprightly, attractive and instructive works of its kind that his fallen under our observation."—Boston Evening Traveller, May

"Every porti n of the work indicates ex-tensive scholar-hip and mature thought."— Belfast Northern Whig. April 8th, 1871.

"The force, raciness and robust manliness of Mr. Bennett's style and mode of treatment will arrest attention and excite interest in quarters where preaching or writing of the average quality would fall flat and dead."—Home and Foreign Record. March, 1871.

"So plain yet so suggestive, so practical yet so profound are these Lectures that while our read them you feel their deep truth and reality; that you are in contact with realities both visible and invisible; that you are in olise contact with the beating heart of nature and humanity, and that all their life and hope flow full and free from God alone."—Fredericton Head Quarters, March 1st, 1871.

"The production of a highly cultivated mind.

"We have read several works on Ecclediastes, and well remember the pleasure with which years ago we perused the 'Royal Preacher,' but for fine criticism, comprehensiveness of thought, striking illustration and unsstentatious, yet eloquent and forcible style, The Wispon of The King, we think, surpasses them all."

"The writer is evidently wall acquainted with the literature of his subject, and that acquaintance reveals itself almost unconsciously in every page. There is no estentation of reading or learning, but there is everywhere the gleaming forth of light which cannot be hid.

The style is simple, intelligible, graceful. It shows at once that Mr. Bennet is a man of literary enflure, who can express his thoughts with scholarly chasteness and good taste. We could not open a page without meeting some thought vigorously expressed. The work is eminently fresh and readable."—Pres. Witness, Habifax. "He reveals in the treatment of his thames strong common sense, a firm grasp of though. a logical acumen and a clear insight into human, character. Even when dealing with trite ideas he imparts to them a novelry and interest by which they are lifted into an importance they scarcely deserve. The style throughout is lucid, pure, compact, forcible,—and it is his own—the garb of his own thinking. We have met in our perusal of the book with numerous paragraphs of finished and brilliant rhetoric—fine specimens of pulpit oratory. He is never tame nor tiresome. We have not found one slip shod sentence in the volume."—Christian Vicitor, (Buptist) March 6th, 1871. Boots and Shoes, &c., No. 15 King Street,

'The lessons to be learned are drawn with a master's band, and are expressed with a combined force and beauty that we have rarely seen surpassed in the production of any author. The ordinery reader will find noth ng that is above his comprehension, and yet it would be difficult of and a common place thought or form of expression. A combination of these requisites we deem the highest me it a writer can posses.

"We will be much disappointed if the book do not command a wide circulation. Wherever a sound literature is felt to be a deside atum, The Wispon of The King has but to be known to be prized as a work that the world will not willingly let die."—Saint John Tetegraph and Journal.

"THE WISDOM OF THE KING is well worth careful reading. Indeed you cannot read much of it at once. There is a constant play of fancy about the thoughts, and often the very words, that is admirably suited to the Scripture book, of which this is an exposition, but which demands such constant attention on the reader's part that he gets tired, for he does not know where it is to end. The style is compact, lucid, often sparkling and spigrammatic, the sentence cut charply, but with a poetic fullness of original illustration that redeems them from all hardness."—Halifux Monikly Record, (Church of Scotland).

"Each chapter is so well done, so lucid, yet concise in its exposition, that it is sometimes deficult to determine which is the best and most interesting.—Stewart's Quarterly, St. John.

"A series of charming Essays. . . . Each chapter branches out into innumerable topics of a secondary and collateral nature, giving to the work a boundless diversity enriched with stores of ethical as well as of spiritual wisdom, evincing at once acute observation of social life and of human character, and containing the nohlest lessons for practical guidance. Our author's style is remarkable for its free, uncon strained flow, almost collequial at times, but invariably signalized by elegance. force, adaptation to the subject, and not seldom by originality of though in combination with terseness and beauty of expression. . There is about it a freshness, as well as a fullness of practical teaching, rarely to be met with in ordinary Biblical commentaries."—Londonderry Standard, Feb. 15, 1871.

"This is a remarkably thoughtful, solid book Mr. Beanet is evidently at home in Metaphysics and Ethics, and he is a shrewd observer of human nature in its ordinary manifestation; consequently he ranges over the lessons of the Preacher with a power of illustration which shews his mastery of the subject. The style is close and direct, and yet so lucid, that any reader may understand every sentence in the volume.

It will, we doubt not, take its place, as it ought to do, among our household expositions of this treatise or observation and Jewish wisdom."—The Presbyterian (Philadelphia), May 20, 1871.
