of the Fort, Monfr. Beaujon, invited all the officers and gentleman there to fupper with I had read formerly almost all the authors that have wrote anything about this Fall; and the laft year in Canada, had made so many enquiries about it, that I thought I had a pretty good Idea of it; and now at fupper, requested the gentlemen to tell me all they knew and thought worth notice relating to it, which they accordingly did. observed that in many things they agreed, in fome things they were of different opinions, of all which I took particular When they had told me all they knew, I made feveral queries to them concerning what I had read and heard of it. whether fuch and fuch a thing was true or not? and had their answers on every circumftance. But as I have found by experience in my other travels, and that very few observe nature's works with accuracy, or report the truth precifely, I cannot now be entirely fatisfied without feeing with my own eyes whenever 'tis in my power. Accordingly the next morning, being the 13th of August, at break of day, I fet out for the Fall. The commandment had given orders to two of the go with Officers of the Fort to me fhew me everything, and alfo fent them an order to Monfr. Jonqueire, who had liv'd ten years, by the carrying-place,
