

- hero-worship, defined, lxxi.
 anticipated, lxxii.
 never ceases, xxxvi, lxxii, lxxvi.
 proved by particulars, lxxvi.
 modern instances, lxxvi.
 Carlylean doctrine of, misunderstood, lxxvii.
 may be discarded from Heroes, lxxxii.
 little direct exhortation to, lxxxii.
 used by Hume, 293.
 reference to, 296.
- 'Hic claudor Dantes,' 321.
- High Church, tumult in, 340.
- High Duchesses, 319.
- 'his solitary Patmos,' 338.
- Histoire des Isles Mariannes*, 298.
- history, Heroes, an introduction to, lxxix.
 marrow of, lxxvii.
 value of, lxxviii.
 verdicts of, reversed, lxxx.
- History of Literature, second course, xxi.
- 'His writings,' 335.
- Hodman, 344.
- Holland, Lady, portrait of, lxxxi.
- Holland, Lord, portrait of, lxxxi.
- Holy Alliance, reference to, 319.
- Homoiousion, 312.
- Hoogstraten, 332.
- Horace, quoted, 303, 330.
- horse-shoe vein, Mahomet's, 309.
- house, Carlyle's, interest in, xi.
- Hud, the prophet, 313.
- Hugo's Cromwell cited, 351.
- Hume, 332.
 definition of hero, lxxi.
 influence of his phrase, lxxxvii.
 on Cromwell, 358.
- Hume quoted, 293.
- History of Great Britain* cited, 355, 360.
- humor, restrained in Heroes, lxi.
- Hunt, Leigh, neighbor of Carlyle, in Chelsea, xii.
 friend of Byron, xii.
 lampooner of the Regent, xii.
 original Harold Skimpole, xii.
 hero of Jenny Kissed Me, xii.
 on Carlyle's second audience, xxii.
 his method of reporting, xxiv.
 late for first lecture of third course, xxvii.
 notices Carlyle's manner, xxvii.
 a sympathetic listener, xxvii.
 argues against third lecture, xxviii.
 qualifies disapproval, xxviii, xxix.
 impressions of Carlyle's Puritanism, xxix.
 quotations from Carlyle's lectures, xxix.
 defends Voltaire against Carlyle, xxix.
 defends the Girondists, xxxii.
 disagrees with Carlyle, xxxiii.
 eulogy of Carlyle, xxxiii.
 no report of fourth course, xxxvii.
 judgment of Carlyle, lxx, n.
- Huss, 334, 335.
- Hutchinson, Col., 360.
- Huxley, lectures compared with Carlyle's, xvii.
- Hymir, 298.
- Hynde Etin, 304.
- hyphenation, Carlyle's fondness for, lxiii.