The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, quires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Tobacco For Wives.
In the early history of Virginia and Maryland tobacco was by all odds the most important crop, and it was even possible at times to secure a wife in exchange for a moderate amount of tobacco, as in later days in the west a squaw could be obtained in exchange for a small amount of whisky. In 1732 at Jamestown tobacco was made a legal tender for all debts, including customs. In about a dozen years after the founding of Jamestown by Captain John Smith an English nobleman, Sir Edwin Sandys, brought over with a ship load of supplies ninety young English maid, who immediately upon their arrival were wooed and married by the colonists, each being paid for at the rate of "120 pounds of good tobacco."

What does it profit a woman if she gain the whole world of knowledge and lose her own health? Young women students, and school teachers, eager, ambitious, and full of energy, very often neglect their health in the struggle to gain education. They eat insufficient food, and at irregular hours, they allow irregularity of the womanly functions to be established, and the result is that they become chronic invalids with all their education practically worthless. There is a plain road back to health for such as these, marked by the feet of thousands. It is the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive organs, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the delicate organs of womanhood. A cure so certainly follows the use of these remedies that out of hundreds of thousands who have tried the treatment, ninety-eight in every hundred have been perfectly and permanently cured. Constipation, with its calamitous consequences, which is a common ailment of students, can be entirely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

A NEAT BUNKO GAME

HOW THE MAN WHO THOUGHT HE KNEW IT ALL WAS FOOLED.

A scheme That Worked the Way the Betting Went and Gave No Clue as to How the Tip Was Passed to Break or Not to Break the Jug.

"It's a good thing for us, I suppose, that whenever we get it all settled and arranged in our minds that we're too everlastingly bright and crafty to be 'done' by anybody we usually get a fall that takes the perkiness out of us," said a Washington department store buyer who makes frequent trips to New York. "Up to a certain day last week, for example, I had a pretty thorough understanding with myself that there was no old kind of a New York bunko game that I'd bite on. I'd been going to New York too often and for too long a time for anything like that. Well, listen.

"A week ago Monday morning last I was standing after breakfast on the Thirty-sixth street side of the Marlborough hotel, in New York, taking a sun bath for myself and mapping out my programme for the day. Two or three other men were standing near me doing the same.

"Our attention was lastly enlisted as we stood there by the spectacle of a boy wearing a chef's cap and apron recklessly swinging an empty crocked pitcher above his head. The boy was rigged up like a hotel kitchen apprentice.

"What infernal whelps most boys are, anyhow!" remarked a sporty looking man standing near me to a plain looking individual who was standing alongside of him. "Now, just look at that cub fooling with that pitcher. It's a cinch that he'll drop it and smash it to smithereens before he gets to Seventh avenue."

"Oh, I dunno," was the reply of the plain looking man. "I guess the kid knows what he's about. He's got a pretty good clutch on the handle of the pitcher. He'll hang on to it all right."

"Bet you five he drops it before he reaches Seventh avenue," was the quick response of the man with the sporty look.

"I guess I'll take that bet," answered the plain looking man, and he proceeded his wad. The sporty looking citizen peeled a V from his roll and both men put up their money with the uniformed carriage opener stationed outside the Marlborough. Then they took up the jug together toward Seventh avenue to keep an eye on the boy, who was still swinging the pitcher wildly. I held my ground and watched the proceeding. It looked like a pretty good bet for the plain looking man until, when the boy was only about ten feet from the corner of Seventh avenue, the pitcher flew out of his hand as he was trying some singularly difficult piece of juggling with it and was dashed into a hundred fragments on a doorstep. The sporty looking man and the plain looking individual returned to where I was standing and the former took the two V's from the stakeholder with a grin, saying:

"I thought sure I was going to lose out on that when the kid got so near the corner that he couldn't do anything happening to the pitcher."

"Two days later I was standing alongside a hotel at the corner of Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, in Harlem, waiting for a downtown electric car, when I saw that same youngster, with the identical kitchen apprentice's torgery, going along Eighth avenue, again wildly swinging a pitcher. Then I cast my eyes about me, and there, only three feet to the left of me and leaning against an L's stanchion, was the sporty looking man. He blinked lazily at me when he saw that I had observed the boy with the pitcher.

"What infernal whelps most boys are, anyway!" he said to me in precisely the same words and the same tone he had used in making the remark a couple of days before to the plain looking man who had lost his V. "Now, just look at that cub fooling with that pitcher. It's a cinch that he'll drop it and smash it to smithereens before he reaches the next corner."

"What a foxy way this fellow has of making a living!" I mused. "But I'll just give him a little run for his money, so I will."

"That's the betting end of it," I said aloud to the sporty looking man, "I said about a week ago, didn't I, that I'd be willing to take myself."

"Oh, well," he replied laughingly, "any old thing to pass the time away. It's about an even thing one way or the other, I suppose."

"Just about," said I. "Well," he said good naturedly, "then I'll bet you a V that he doesn't smash it before he reaches the next corner."

"You're on," said I, and we put up our five spots with the news dealer on the corner.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Gauze Frock With Chantilly Lace. A Striking Princess Gown.

A gauze frock seen recently was in an ivory shade incrustated with large motifs of chantilly lace. The pelerine of this was composed of finely plaited mousseline and chantilly lace finished by a sky blue waistband. The hat which accompanied this was of white ermine trimmed with blue ostrich feathers.

A stunning evening gown seen recently was cut princess, with a triple skirt of black tulle and an overdress arranged in long points of jet paillettes softened by a bertha of black mousseline de soie incrustated with sequined flowers. The loose hanging sleeves were of black tulle studded with paillettes and bordered with black chantilly lace.

White and green and white and rose are combinations much in evidence among the new frocks. A smart chiffon frock cut somewhat princess was trimmed with rose and pink embroidery down one side of the bodice and all around the hem. It had a shaded wash of green and pink tulle trimmed with alencon lace, this gave lace forming a sash and tiny chemiselets.

A good many hats made of lace and tulle are worn with these light dresses. For traveling and country hats the most tattered shape has been revived, while a four cornered hat is offered instead of the old three cornered model.

MILLINERY STYLES.
Hats With Higher Crowns—Wings and Bird Trimmings.

Later on hats will assume more height in crown. The early autumn headgear shows a return to Tyrolean shapes. Some of the simple ones are trimmed only with fantastic rosettes in moire, with quaint buckles.

Birds and wings will play an important part in autumn headgear. There is a new bolero which is a kind of early Victorian sack coat with a pompadour collar. The prettiest model is in very soft cloth trimmed with moire rosettes and underleaves made entirely of lace applique.

If a woman is to wear skirts which clear the ground she must be careful in the selection of her shoes, as only the smartest should be worn with such a costume.

Linens and alpaca coats are very nice

as a protection from the dust, but a fawn or blue cloth coat lined with plaid is useful for cooler days and is always smart.

The black, wide taffeta bows tilted back on the coiffure are most attractive. Last year they were worn at the back of our hats, but now they are worn as a headress, and very charming they are. Of course they do not suit all styles, but a few women look delightful in them. How long the future for taffeta hats lasted!

The cut shows a hat of rough straw trimmed with brown tulle and two brown birds. JUDIC CHOLLET.

ARE YOU A PRISONER?

THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vice of early youth, exposure to contagious disease, or the excesses of manhood.

They feel they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The vim, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you nervous and despondent? Tired in the morning? Have you forced yourself through the day's work? Have you little ambition and energy? Are you irritable and irascible? Have you sunken, depressed and haggard looking? Memory poor and brain fagged? Have you weak back with dreams and losses at night? Deposit in urine? Weak sexually?—You have

THE SEXUAL DIFFERENCE.

It is the Most Fundamental Fact in the Social Order—Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott's Classification.

The first and most patent fact in the family is the difference in the sexes. Out of this difference the family is created; in this difference the family finds its sweet and sacred bond. This difference is not merely physical and incidental; it is also psychical and essential. It inheres in the temperament. It is imbedded in the very fiber of the soul. It differentiates the functions. It determines the relation between man and woman. It fixes their mutual service and their mutual obligations. Man is not woman in a different case. Woman is not man in a different case. Woman is not a different kind of body. Man is not a rough and tumble woman. Woman is not a pliable man. This essential difference in the sexes is the first and fundamental fact in society, which is but a large family.

These twins are not identical. They do not duplicate each other. Man is not an inferior woman. Woman is not an inferior man. They are different in nature, in temperament, in function. We cannot destroy this difference if we would. We would not if we could. In preserving it lies the joy of the family, the peace, prosperity and well being of society. If man attempts woman's function, he will prove himself but an inferior woman. If woman attempts man's function she will prove herself but an inferior man.

This distinction between the sexes—inherent, temperamental, functional—is universal and perpetual. It underlies the family, which could not exist if this difference did not exist. It is to be taken account of in all social problems—problems of industrial, political, religious organization. Should society ever forget it, it would forget the most fundamental fact in the social order, the fact on which is built the whole superstructure of society.—Rev. Lyman Abbott in Atlantic.

CARING FOR MANURE.

Some Experiments Made in Preserving It Till Wanted.
While it is always best, when practicable, to get the manure accumulations out on the land as fast as made, there will always be times on every farm when it is not possible to do this, and some means should be adopted to prevent the waste of the manure as much as possible. A recent bulletin of the Ohio station tells of experiments made in the preservation of manure with the addition of various substances. Manure from highly fed cattle that had been thrown into the open yard was divided in the spring into four parcels. On one lot pulverized phosphate rock or "bones" was added as it was piled; on a second lot acid phosphate or dissolved rock was dusted as it was piled; on another lot kailnit or crude potash salt was scattered, and on the fourth gypsum or land plaster was applied, all these materials being used at the rate of forty pounds per ton of manure. At the same time four other lots were treated in the same way, the manure being taken from box stalls, where it had been allowed to accumulate under the feet of animals. The different lots were applied as a top dressing to corn and wheat with a manure spreader, putting four to eight tons per acre. It was found that acid phosphate appeared to be the material producing the largest and most profitable results as an addition and preservative of the manure, but it was also indicated that the pulverized floats may prove to be an economical material for the purpose. The yields were uniformly larger and the increase due to the addition of preservative material in the case of the open manure than in the case of the stall manure, thus showing that the manure in the stalls suffered less loss than that in the open yard.—Practical Farmer.

Chinese "Baby Towers."

Little helpless Chinese girl-babies had until lately a very poor chance of living beyond their earliest infancy. Near every large Chinese town may be seen a kind of round tower, with an opening at some distance from the ground. These "baby towers" are for the purpose of receiving the bodies of those infants whose parents are too poor to bury them. They are flung through the office like letters into a pillar-box, and the building is cleared out from time to time. It is stated that many hundreds of girl babies were disposed of by being cast alive into these places of horror. The Celestial is, by the way, a being decidedly economical in the disposal of his dead. If he finds it difficult to pay for a funeral he simply has his relatives put away temporarily in a large jar, and ranged with many others in similar receptacles, like pots of jam on a shelf, in the heart of the mountains.
