COMMONER GRADES AS GOOD

Thousands of Barrels of Apples are Wasting in Orchards West of Toronto—These May be Saved by Purchasing Them in Bulk—Municipal and Co-operative Organizations Might Do This Work.

Ottawa, October 29.—Some misunderstanding has arisen in regard to an article with respect to the possibility of consumers securing cheap apples by buying direct from the producers, which was published in the daily papers of Thursday last.

Many of the consumers demand a high grade of apple, of fine pack, and the merchants have to sell these at a high price in order to dispose without loss of the common varieties which are not so much in demand.

OUTLOOK SERIOUS

United States Will Thus be Thrown Back Upon Her Own Resources in This Connection, Which She is Hardly in a Position to Do—Reports are Current That English Operators are Contracting on Sheep's Backs in New Zealand.

(Exclusive Leased Wire to Journal of Commerce). Boston, October 29.—The wool market continues to more than hold its own. Prices are being maintained all along the line, and activity is increasing in a quiet but perceptible manner.

It seems to be confirmed that the Australian government has forbidden the exportation of wool, and the general opinion in Boston in lieu of definite information is that New Zealand would ship no wool, and that Cape Colony would only ship through London.

As it is, values abroad are well maintained. All cables from Bradford indicate strength, although the manufacturing activities are receding. Cables from the Sydney sale last Tuesday reported offerings in the main unsuited for American use.

Reports are current that English operators are contracting on the sheep's back in New Zealand. Manufacturing conditions are improving, and blanket mills are very busy.
