CANADIAN PAMPHLET

(Economic Causes of War. By Peter T. Leckie. Published for the Socialist Party of Canada, 1920, Vancouver, B. C.)

The Canadian Socialists are promoting a sound knowledge of the causes of the world war and of the Socialist program to prevent a repetition of it in publishing and circulating Leckie's pamphlet on Economic Causes of War.

Leckie starts out squarely: "Socialists have always maintained that war was an effect of economic forces. As this is a general statement made by Socialists, I think the present time is ripe to substantiate it. This I will endeavor to do from a study of numerous books written on the war from the capitalists' viewpoint, also other books in circulation."

He then takes up each great country in detail, showing the economic foundation for the rivalries between Germany, Russia, Italy, France, England, Japan and the United States, as well as the economic causes that shaped the various shifting alliances.

Chapters follow on the exploited lands, Egypt, Persia, India and Morocco, with a final chapter on imperialism and Socialism. The pamphlet is an admirable handbook for Socialists in the discussions they are constantly drawn into concerning the war and international policy.—Milwaukee Leader.

WHAT SOCIALISM MEANS.

Aisne in 1762, was also prominent as a propounder of Utopian ideals. In conjunction with Lepelletier and others, he formed a secret organization known as "The Equals," which had, by the beginning of the year 1796, seventeen thousand supporters. The cardinal principles of this organization was the aim of society is happiness, and happiness consists in equality, which proves conclusively its Utopian nature. Babeuf was followed by Saint Simon, Fourier, and Robert Owen, all of them Utopians. That these men should succeed each other so closely goes to show, that even at this stage, the discrepancies in society were quite obvious.

When we inquire into the whys and wherefores of the existence and development of the Utopian school we find that it was due to the lack of understanding of the relation of men's ideas and actions to their environment, and also to an insufficiency of statistical data. The plans for remedying the existing evils failed accordingly. This defect was supplied by the discovery made by Marx and Engels, and embodied in their Communist Manifesto, written in 1847, and is known as the materialist conception of history. Also sufficient statistics had, by this time, been compiled to form a working basis for scientific investigation.
