The Whole Story

From Capt. F. Loye, Police Station No., Montreal: - twe frequently use Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for pains in the stom-th, rheumatism, stiffness, frost bites, chilains, cramps, and all afflictions which refail men in our position. I have no hesiston in saying that Pain-Killen is the rest remedy to have near at hand."

Curious Bits of News.

A Chinese writer says that "among the 400,000,000 of Chinese there are fewer murders and robberies in a year than there are in New York State. Half a century ago a thin stream of Niagara Falls was first led aside to turn a grist-mill. To-day a larger stream, which diminishes seriously the amount of water that passes over the fall, furnishes almost half a million horse-power.

Doctor Voges, the director of the Buenos Ayres National Board of Health, reports that during a recent trip to Paraguay he accidentally dis covered that naphthalene is an excel-lent remedy for mosquito bites. It neutralizes the poison, he says, even when the bite has caused considerable in-flammation, and if a fresh bite be rubbed with napthalene no swelling

One of the great packing-houses of Chicago has prohibited profanity upon its premises. The primary purpose of the order was to protect employees against abuse by swearing foremen or overseers. In commenting on the or-der the Chicago "Post" says: "It is one of the better signs of the times that in these days the men at the head of af-fairs are presumed to be, if not Christians, at any rate gentlemen. They find ways enough of making their wishes intelligible and effective with-out resort to bluster or swagger or the indecencies of blasphemy."

Comparisons between the cost of government in France to-day and during the last year of the empire are being made, to the disadvantage of the republic. In 1869 the total cost amounted to $385,000,000. In the year ending March 31, 1901, the expenditures amounted to $690,000,000. Meantime the population has remained almost stapopulation has remained aimost sta-tionary, and the per capita cost of gov-ernment for the last fiscal year amounted to $18. The increase in cost is due largely to the ruinous French policy of refunding debts and annual deficits and to the cost of maintaining unproductive colonies.

In Tonkin, Indo-China, there is a timber-mine in good working order. In a sand formation, at a depth of from fourteen to twenty feet, a deposit of trunks of trees has been found, and from this deposit the people dig timfrom this deposit the people dig tim-ber. It is procured in good condition, and is used for making coffing and troughs and for carving. The trunks are many of them three feet in diame-ter and forty-five feet long, being ap-parently the remains of fir-trees which were buried thousands of years ago by an earthquake. There is an extensive an earthquake. There is an extensive forest in this sand formation, and the timber, although it has been buried so long, is not in the form of coal. This somewhat strange fact is accounted for by the peculiarly resinous character of the wood and the sandiness of the soil. Access to the mines is obtained by gangways.

How Romance Had Vanished.

S romance dead?" sighed the tall Beef-And Girl, as she wiped from the marble-topped table the bits of sinkers and combination coffee which a twohundred - and - fifty - pound traveling salesman had left. "I fear me that such is indeed the case. When first I came to this place and found myself surrounded on every side by the kinding masculine eye, how thrilled I was in every fibre! Every putty-faced ribbon clerk I regarded as a potential ad-mirer, every nickel I found beneath the butter-plate I received almost as a caress. How bitterly was I deceived! In all too short a time I learned that the languishing glances cast on me, and all the apparent favors of those who came to 'No. 17' every noon, were but deceiving wiles to ensnare me into giving three slices of bread instead of two with a ten-cent order, or two portions of syrup instead of one with the ouckwheats "Thus, with the knowledge that the beings whom I served had thoughts no more ethereal than the sinkers they devoured, died my poetry within me As I ceased to feel any fervor for those around me, so I began to lose interest in myself. My voice, which was dulcet when first I called, 'Draw one-without!' has now been hardened to sordid harmony with the clattering knives and falling plates, and with the utmost indifference I enunciate, 'Brown the hash-seventeen,' 'Corn-beef-an'-New Yorks,' and the other phrases in melancholy vocabulary. No more To I view with tense interest the ple-cutter in hope that his wedge-shaped die will slip and a fraction more of cocoanut or cornstarch than the regutation allows be bestowed on a new sustomer with a blonde moustache. No more do I tip into his dish an extra spoonful of apple-tapioca, nor smile vaguely when he asks me if I know anyone who'd like to take a little blow fown to Coney some warm evening.

Naught is left for me but pessimsm and ennui. Lobsters and champagne? Bah! Food I see too much of and too often. Diamonds and silk pet-licoats? What good are clothes to me? must wear my black and white and eather belt and number 'seventeen,' and that is all. Romance? Ah-'tis lead! And as for life, I say, as does the egg man when he has boiled 'two Take it away! Take it way!" "-New York "Evening Sun."

A Fortunate Delay.

In "Life and Sport on the Pacific Coast" Mr. Horace A. Vachell relates one of his narrow escapes from a 'riend's bullet:

"My cousin and I had been camping and hunting for several days in a sort f Paradise valley. One day, during long ride on horseback, we had seen great many rattlesnakes, and killed a ew—an exceptional experience. That aight my cousin woke up and saw, by the light of the moon, a big rattler crawling across my chest. He lay for a moment fascinated, horror-struck, watching the sinuous curves of the repwatching the sinuous curves of the reptile. Then he quietly reached for his six-shooter. But he could not see the reptile's head, and he moved nearer, noiselessly yet quickly, dreading some movement on my part that should preriplitate the very thing he dreaded.
And then he saw that it was not a snake at all—only the black and yellow stripe of my blanket that gently rose and fell as I breathed. Had he dred—

A Mummy as Hostess.

AND THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY O

GUIMET, the celebrated Orientalist, who has founded in Paris a museum which bears his name, gave the other day a five o'clock tea. "to meet the beautiful Thais," relates a correspondent in Paris. Thais, as one knows, was the famous courtesan who lived in the third conturn and was as blond and third century, and was so blonde and lovely that all the gentlemen of Alex-andria lost their appetites and sleep on her account. The smartest people were invited, and, to begin with, an excel-lent luncheon was served. This was a wise precaution, for—who knows?—they might not have been able to enjoy the rare Oriental sweets of M. Guimet after they had paid their visit

Thais was a mummy visitors lying down on her narrow couch of white marble. A gossamer veil of gold was on her face, which is somewhat damaged, while in her dainty slippers of scarlet cloth embroidered with real pearls very little feet were to be seen. But she still wore her superb hair, once like liquid copper, now somewhat faded and of a vague color, though abundant and silky. Round her neck was a necklace formed by two rows of unpolished pearls. Her woollen yellowish gown is of a texture so fine that nothing of the kind could be found nowadays and she wears a bodice of orange striped silk, which is tied round her waist by a sash of the most delicate salmon-pink hue.

Beside her were many pretty things, such as a bread-basket in silver fillgree, two mugs of chiselled gold, two bronze crosses—for Thais became a Christian while she was still young and lovely-and a sort of prayer-book in light laths of pale wood. A few other mummies keep her company, most of them being also surrounded by quaint and curious things very interesting to ook at. One of the most clever lady writers was so struck by them that she is going to write a series of articles on the subject, beseeching the friends and relations of our modern dead to imitate the people of antiquity and fill their tombs with articles that were once beloved by them, so that some 2,000 years hence scholars and artists may form an idea of the Parisian civil-ization in the twentieth century.

Some Scotch Examination Papers.

London "Chronicle."

A correspondent proposes the following questions for the next matriculation examination at the Scotch univer sities: First-Geography-Draw a map of the United States, marking London, Glasgow and Birmingham. Second -Rule of Three-If a man does a plece of work in four days, how much quick er will an American do it at half the salary? Third-Political Economy -The Yankee millionaires over here state they "feel as if this were their own country." The German Emperor, when last visiting us, declared he felt "perfectly at home." Account for this. Fourth-History-Write a note on the invasions of Great Britain and the rebellion and subsequent subjugation of the Angles. Give dates of the accessions of Yerkes L. Sloan Morgan the Contractor, and the other conquerors; also of the heatification of St. Carnegie, Sav what you know of any of these. Fifth -Trade Problem-You are an English manufacturer. An extensive order is received for locomotives for a trans-African railway. Which would you do -demand an entire alteration of the railway to fit the six locomotives you have in stock, or recommend an American rival? Sixth-Travel-You are an American millionaire traveling for recreation. Which would you take back with you as souvenir-London or Paris? State your reasons for preferng one of these trinkets.

Le Gallienne as Satirist.

N the "Rambler," Numb. 210, Richard Le Gallienne, Esquire, has what he himself would no doubt call a "little paper" on "The Desire of the Star for the Moth," We help ourselves to the following excerpts: "Of course, there are very big successful Stars who affect that the Hero-worshipper Moth is a Nuisance, and build themselves Nuisance, about with Bastions of Privacy, through which no Ray of their Shining can reach the most persever ing Moth-but then, you see, they are so sure of their Moths. I wonder if the Time should come when the Flocks of little Pilgrims up to their diggy Ra diance begin to slacken, and the Roar of Moth-Wings outside their guarded Country-seats to grow fainter-and it has happened so with some very great Stars indeed!—if they would not be-come a little insecure in their Feeling of Starriness, and perhaps even at last unshutter a Window, and let slip a Beam of their celestial Selves; lest the Moths should grow discouraged, and perhaps cease coming at all.

"I have heard that some Stars of this Magnitude charge the Moth Half a Guinea for their Autographs—strictly, of course, for the Benefit of the Hospi tals. Such Stars are, you can imagine very sure of themselves. But there is another Kind of big Star that makes quite as fine a Blaze as those of which I have been speaking, yet is by no means so unsocial; on the Contrary is smilingly, even eagerly, accessible to every Moth that is so kind and appre clative as to take the Trouble to call with its Homage. It often indeed asks the Moth to stay for Lunch, and makes it promise to be sure to come again." It is somewhat unusual to find Mr. Le Gallienne playing literary satirist in this rather obvious manner. But at the moment he is living in New York, which possibly accounts for it. Possi-bly, too, suggests the "Outlook," the falling-off in the stream of moths which formerly drifted in a certain direction has filled his soul with revolt.
