Sir Richard Cartwright to the Front.

What the Papers are Saying-The Man for the Place-The Country Needs His Services—The Tory Stock is Tumbling—The Beginning of the End.

The Reform Convention held at Bruce-field on Friday last, after having heard Mr. Blake and Mr. Mackenzie explain why it is so desirable in the interests of the Liberal party and of the country that Sir Richard Cartwright 'should be in Parliament, resolved that the under-standing had at the time of the general elections should be carried out; that Mr. McMillan should be requested to resign, and Sir Richard Cartwright should be invited to fill the vacancy thus to be created, This conclusion was arrived at with some reluctance, because spected and esteemed, gave entire satisfaction to the constituency while he represented it. Mr. McMillan was one of its no man they hate worse or fear more, those who, before the general election, and there is no man in Canada better moved that whoever was chosen to repreable to defend himself or show up the moved that whoever was chosen to repre-sent the district in which Sir John Macdonald had "hived" so many Grits should be pledged to resign if a seat were afterwards wanted for any of the leaders of the party, and although he has much reason to be proud of his conduct while he was a member of Parliament he did not hesitate to carry out the pledge which he gave when he was nominated. which he gave when he was nominated. For this honourable act of abnegation and self-sacrifice, for his manly and honourable discharge of what he felt to be a duty to his party and his country, he is entitled to all credit. Many of his friends, although earnest, zealous Liberals, were unwilling to part with him, but, when the majority decided that the understanding to which they were pledged should be carried out, they proved their fidelity to their party and their devotion to the country, by loyally their devotion to the country by loyally excepting that decision, and the resolution was unanimiously adopted.
Sir Richard Cartwright is unquestion-ably one of the ablest financiers in Can-ada. Objection has often been taken to his manner, especially by those with whose views on questions of trade and finance he could not agree. But his knewledge and ability have never been seriously questioned. Even so uncompared to the could be the cou promising a Tory as the Montreal Gazette is forced to admit that, in the discussion of all financial matters, he will add largely to the working force of the House of Commons. And he is as honest as he is able. The Tory press love to abuse and rilify him, but that is because they know that the their leader heter him and because that their leader hates him, and because he so mercilessly tears to tatters the sophistries and fallacies which are the stock in trade of such financial quacks as Sir L. Tilley. There has been no man in public life since Confederaton whom they so much detest, or whom they would do so much to exclude from Parliament. For years he gave Sir John Maedenald a manly, henorable support. Even then he often raised his voice in warning while the Government persisted in acting as if the enormous importations of 1871-2-3 were proof of prosperity. We know now that he often remonstrated strongly against those acts of the Government and those parts of their policy of which he disapproved. When at length he was compelled by a sense of duty to join the Liberal party he at once became thoroughly identified with it and one of its most loyal and devoted members, bebeen made subject of accusation against him that in those years there were some deficits, the number and amount of which Tories always exaggerate. He might have had surpluses instead, but he did not believe that taxation should be increased in times of business depression. In opposition he was as faithful to duty. He has been accused of being too severely critical, of speaking too plainly of the crimes and follies of those in office, of almost taking pleasure in denouncing the misconduct of the Premier, of being merciless in exposing the falla-cies, contradictions, miscalculations, and vain vauntings of the present Finance Minister, of using knife and cautery too freely, and it might have been politic to deal more gently with his opponents sometimes. But it was hard for an honest, earnest man, possessed of such powers of criticism, sarcasm, and invections and investigations of the sarcasm, and investigations are supplied to the sarcasm. tive, not to give them loose rein when speaking of the fraudulent means by which this Government obtained power, or of the shame and delusions in which they still trade. His honesty, his ability, and, above all, his caustic frankness, caused Sir John and his colleagues to hate him so bitterly that, while other constituencies were but reconstructed by the Gerrymander Act, his was wiped out of existence. Instead of seeking a constituency in which the Grits were hived, he gallantly carried the Liberal colors in a district where success was doubtful, and he was defeated. The Liberal party are not unmindful of the services he ty are not unmindful of the services he has rendered, or of his unwavering fidelity to their principles, and in all parts of the Dominions they will thank the people of South Huron, who now give him the oportunity of once more serving his country in Parliament. As Mr. Blake stated at the convention, there is too much probability that financial questions of importance will engage the attention of Parliament next session. It is of impertance that at such a time the country should have the services of one so competent to deal with such questions.

From the Ottawa Free Press. At the Liberal convention in South Huron, yesterday, it was decided that Mr. McMillan, the present member, Mr. McMillan, should resign and make way for Sir Richard Cartwright. The above announcement will be received with satisfaction by all members of the Liberal party, and, indeed, by all men who departy, and, indeed, by all men who desire the presence of the best men in partial liament. Sir Richard was only kept out of a seat through the gerrymander. So anxious and determined was Sir John Macdonald to keep his formidable opposed to the house, that he actual little nest agree."

I too in the same business. It seems as if one your seems as if one of them had taken a pattern off the uncivilized barbarian, for he is combinated barbarian, for he is combined batting for the extermination of the Clinton High School, and has worked up to the would advise a more harmonious and generous feeling, and beg to introduce the example, "birds in their little nest agree."

New York Herald, having spent the last four years travelling in Europe. Fourteen years ago he was attending the Clinton High School, and has worked up step by step, till he reached his present jour and five thousand dollars a year.—[New little nest agree."]

AGAIN IN THE VAN. | ly wiped his constituency out of exist ence. To do so he "hived," to use his own elegant expression, the "Grits" in South Huron. Sir Richard's election is therefore a certainly. We will be glad to see him in his place next session where he will be in a position to strip the mask of hypocrisy from the self sancti-fied humbug who pretends to manage the finances of the country. Sir Rich-ard will have a splendid opportunity for turning the vials upon the heads of his traducers. Time has vindicated him. traducers. Time has vindicated him, and he will be able to retort upon Sin Samuel Tilley with compound interest for the sneers, falsehoods and misrepresentations put forth when he was no present to reply.

The Liberals want a fighting man like

Sir Richard, a fearless, able, uncom-promising critic. A man who is a terror to his adversaries, and who would be a power in the deliberations of the best as-sembly in the world.

From the Sarnie Observer. His presence in Parliament would be of great benefit to the Liberal opposition especially in dealing with the tariff and financial questions generally, The Tory press have persistantly misrepresented and maligned the ex-Finance Minister, and with their leaders have pursued him pretentious ignorance of the men who are now governing the country. We have always looked upon Sir. Richard as one of the ablest politicians in the Dominion, and a man where services inion, and a man whose services cannot well be dispensed with.

scription of the "Eclipse," Reported Lost

Wiarton, Nov. 26.—The steamer Eclipse, which left Wiarton for Sarnia, was caught in a gale on Wednesday night was caught in a gale on Wednesday nights off Pine Tree Harbor, and is supposed to be lost with all hands, as a part of the wreck and three bodies came ashore with life preservers marked Eclipse. The papers found on one of them identified him as Capt. Wm. Bush, of Sarnia, and Jas. Moore, engineer, of Thessalon. John Drew was cut loose from the steamer, Drew was cut loose from the steamer, alone on a scow, which drifted ashore at Pike Bay, and he is saved—the only known survivor.

HAMILTON, Nov. 27.—The steamer, Eclipse, which is reported lost on Georgian Bay, was formerly owned here and known as the "Julliette." She was built in Hamilton by Mr. Corpers of English in Hamilton by Mr. Cooper, of Buffalo, and ran three seasons between this city, Oakland and the Beach When first built she was so narrow and crank that she was liable to topple over. As she lay at Simcoe street wharf one holiday she careened so far that but for touching the next dock she would have turned upside down, and a terrible calamity would have been reported, for many people were on board. The steamer was given more beam by false sides, which were attached, and was afterwards known as the "Eclipse." She was sold and went to Schipse." She was sold and went to Sarnia, where she ran as a ferry, and afterwards was bought by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The vessel was taken to Algoma Mills, and ran on the Serpent and Spanish Rivers with

JOHN DBEW'S STATEMENT.

WIARTON, Ont., Nov. 27 .- The statement of John Drew, the only known survivor of the steamer Eclipse, is that the steamer left Algoria Mills on Nov. 15 for Sarnia, with the barge Etta in tow; ran into Rattlesnake harbor, Manitoulln Island, and left there Wednesday, Nov. 21, intending to make Southampton. Capt. Bush, of the barge, left me alone on the barge and went about the on the barge and went aboard the Eclipse. About 4 a.m. I dressed and went on deck, and could see nothing of the Eclipse, and could see nothing of the Eclipse, and realized that I was cast adrift and alone on Lake Huron, and a fearful gale raging. After awhile I heard the steamer's whistle several times, then I saw and heard no more of them. At daylight 1 saw land about a mile distant, and about 4 p.m. the barge went ashere on the beach at Little Pike Bay, and I jumped ashere and started for Wiarton, sixteen miles distant. I do not know the names of the crew. There were seven men on the Eclipse. Some fisher-men were out in a boat at Pine Tree Harbor, and saw three bodies floating near the shore with life preservers on, marked "The Eclipse," and what appeared to be the upper works of a steamer. One of the bodies had a watch and $22, and another $8.95. By papers found I identify one as Capt. Bush, of the harge Etta, and another as J. Moore, engineer of the Eclipse.
