THE OPEN FORUM.

Single Tax.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: I have been reading Henry George's works on "Social Problems" and "Progress and Poverty." I think they are the grandest works that have ever been placed before the human race. Every line is so based on facts that it leaves no room for contradiction. I can't see where anyone who reads them carefully can fail so see what an amount of good the single tax would bring to the masses of the people. If every man in the land would read "Progress and Poverty" there would be no lack of single tax converts. I believe the time is not far distant when the single tax theory will be adopted in all countries. Then every man born on the earth will enjoy equal rights to the earth. He will work for what he gets; but he will get what he works for, and Henry George will take his place in the very center as being the greatest man of all time, either past or present. Success to the single tax and its food for human thought!

A 19-Year-Old New Yorker Dees It-

"I Was Drunk." NEW YORK, Jan. 4.-Curt Temme, 19 years old, of Tower Place, Bedford Park; Council of the Royal Arcanum last night, August Klemfus, 18 years old, who lived with his mother at 24 East One Hundred formed the duty elicited much pleasant and Fourteenth street, with ten other commendation from the many members young fellows, started out on Monday to make New Year's calls. Shortly after midnight, when near Biggane's saloon, at One the council with a handsome photographic Hundred and First street and Second avenue, they commenced to skylark, and Temme and Klemfus had some words. Temme then drew a bottle of whisky he had been presented with from his pocket and struck Klemfus over the head with it, cutting up with general hand-shakes and fraternal through the young man's hat and striking his skull with great force. Klemfus fell to the walk and Temme ray away.

Klemfus was finally picked up by his companions and taken home to 24 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street, where he died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, without recovering consciousness.

The police arrested Temme at his place of employment, 35 Union square, where he acted as clerk for a music publisher. To a reporter who saw Temme in his cell, the latter said: "I was drunk. I know nothing of what happened, except that Klemfus kicked me in the abdomen, and I struck him. We had had no previous quarrel."

Rome, Jan. 4 .- Great distress prevails among the poor in the department of Apulia, composed of the Provinces of Bare, Foggia and Lecce, and it is feared bread riots will occur. Every precaution has been taken to preserve

order but many of the people have been rendered desperate by hunger. Rhodes' Strong Words. LONDON, Jan, 4 .- The St. James' Gazette under the caption, "A straight tip from Rhodes." Comments upon a speech made by Cecil Rhodes, Premier of the Cape Colony and the Chairman of the British an address presented to him on panions in confinement were fined $5 or his arrival yesterday at Cape Town from Buluwago. In this speech Mr. Rhodes said if a settlement in regard to the Matabeles was to be effected by the Imperial Government such action would not meet the expectations of those who bad horse, cutter and robes belonging to Mr. R. | shed their life's blood in the campaign. He would earnestly and resolutely fight the battle in behalf of the people of Cape would be injudicious to ignore the language used by Mr. Rhodes. He does not intend that the Colonial Office shall claim the spoils of his hard-earned victory over to Messrs. English & Holt, New Haven, the Matabeles. His position is a strong one, and he can rely upon influential sup-port in England, and he has the whole of South Africa at his back. If he considers it necessary to vindicate the interests of Cape Colony against Great Britain the colonists of all nations will follow him with enthusiasm. There will be an Africander party led by an Englishman, all the members of which will be animated by a common resolve. Perhaps the loss of the "United States of South Africa" will not come quite as quickly as Mr. Rhodes imagines, but the paper adds that it sees a distinct step towards separation from Great Britain. How would the Marquis of Ripon, Secretary of State for Colonies, feel, it asks, if the Cape Government should place an embargo on British immigration and pass a measure similar to the American McKinley Bill
