In the assurance given by Lloyd George that "the fight must be to the finish-to a knockout," lies deep satisfaction for the Allies, all of whom share his determination and optimism. It is doubtful if even the kaiser has the power to bring about peace now. He could surrender unconditionally, but his fellow militarists, who have lost all and might as well fight to the finish, would probably not obey him. Germany must be so changed as to make a repetition of her crimes impossible, and the only apparent way to accomplish this is to inflict suffering on her and punish to the will of civilization. Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More.

"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such a result is not impossible, despite past failures. Most thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are, when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead "Work, for the Knight Is Coming," is being warbled by militiamen, now that
