Kieff, Aug. 31.—The news that peace had been reached was received here enthusiastically. Beneficiaries.

PETERSBURG, Aug. 31.-Judging from the press comment today on peace, it would appear that while pleased with the pros-ect of the cessation of further blood-shed in the Far East, a large portion of the public is unable to reconcile itself to the loss of territory, however insigmificant. The national pride seems to be offended by the cession of part of the island of Sakhalien. Yesterday the people spoke of "Teday's shame," meaning peace. Many of the utterances show evidences of regret that the army had not been given another chance to try the fertunes of war. Though no one questions or underrates the humanity of the course followed by President Roosevelt, the plenipotentiaries and Emperor Nichlas, embittered by what they declare to be a dishonorable peace, the extreme patriots do not always refrain from criticating President Roosevelt and the Am patriots do not always refrain from criticizing President Roosevelt and the American people, who, they declare, have effended Russian sentiment by underrating the Russian preparations, strength and ability to cope with the Japanese.

"All we could have expected was avoidance of diplomatic defeat. This seems to have been accomplished."

Neither Party Satisfied The Noveoe Vremya says: "Japan The Novece Vremya says: "Japan is dissatisfied with the peace, so are we. President Roosevelt was in favor of Russia ceding the island of Sakhalien and paying an indemnity. This does not please us. This peace is only one phase in our relations with Japan which are only beginning. We shall rest and then doubtless go on, as men who have spent eighteen troublous months together, we shake now each other by the hand and say au revoir. English and American capitalists should rejoice over the peace."

the peace.

The Slavo says that peace should have been concluded before the battle of the Sea of Japan, adding: "Then we would have not lost any territory. The present agreement with Japan may result in relations which will reward us and heal the wounds inflicted on Russian patriotism by the war."

when resident here: when resident here:

This is a story of a wedding that didn't take place. It is an old story—thousands of years old—and yet it is one that has never grown stale with the telling. It deals with the love, trust and confidence of a girl—a Seattle society girl—and the alleged duplicity of a man.

The story revolves around the affairs of two young reached both well. of two young people, both well known in this city. The one is Herbert Taylor, choir master of the Plymouth Congregational church; the other is Miss Isabelle Johnson, a relative of the Gearys of San Francisco, who for the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year or two has hear living at the past year.

Taylor first came to Seattle upwards Taylor first came to Seattle upwards of a year ago. He applied for the position of choir master at St. Mark's church. Failing in that he secured an engagement at the Plymouth Congregational. Soon after his arrival he met Isabelle Johnson. He made love to her. He wooed her; he pleaded his case with the persistency of an Anthony, and in the end he won her.

Story of Another Marriage It was after he had won the entire confidence of the girl, after she was love blind at the thought and sight of love blind at the thought and sight of him, that he opened his heart and spoke of an unhappy marriage performed years ago in dear old England—a marriage that terminated in the divorce court— but declared he was as free as the wind

She believed him. She listened to the smooth, soft voice of this man, and it seemed such an explainable thing, that early marriage, so placing her hand in his she gave him her heart, entirely and completely, and for a time she was happy. The fact of their engagement was publicly announced.

On the heels of rumors from Victoria of a nature that forced investigation or a nature that forced investigation came the story that Taylor had never been divorced from his first wife, and owing to the peculiar laws of England it may truthfully be said that he has not been divorced from the woman to whom he was married at Blackpool, England, ome four short years ago.

Miss Johnson, it is said, was led to believe that Taylor was the son of a wealthy Englishman. He is said to have informed her and others that he had an income from his father equal to $200 per month, when as a matter of fact his father is a poor man.
