Long-Standing Evil

Effective Measures Taken

Since childhood Mr. A. Gail was under the shadow of a great evil, which always menaced his comfort and safety. Read what he says:

"I was troubled with my kidneys since childhood and spent a large amount of money trying to get cured. Instead of getting better, I kept getting worse until a friend of mine advised me to try Gail's Pills. I did so, and after taking one box, I was able to get out of bed and walk around. Two more boxes relieved me completely, and since then I have had no return of the trouble."

Many people have kidney and bladder trouble without knowing it. They think nothing of the backache, the pain in the sides, the constant headaches, the rheumatic, sciatic and neuralgic pains, the floating spots before the eyes, the swollen joints, the highly-colored urine—all signs of trouble—all signs which should receive immediate attention and treatment with Gail's Pills, which are by far the most effective of all preparations, and which may help you to avoid a fatal operation. They quickly relieve pain and heal the congested tissues, bringing the organs back to normal. At drug stores and dealers, like a box. Money back if no relief. Send for free sample.

LARGE INCREASE IN LUMBER SHIPMENTS

Shipments to U. S. Through Port of St. John Exceed Former Records.

St. John, N. B., April 26.—Lumber shipments to the United States through this port for the quarter ending March 31, show the very large increase of nearly six hundred percent over the corresponding period of last year. The total for the 1920 quarter was $298,559, last year same period $132,527.

"SIR JOHN MOORE" On October 10, six geese came to my place. I went out and called to these six geese, and the old gander answered. He knew me. I got twelve ears of corn, and three of them at him. Just as I did so the four geese jumped in the air, but he called them and they dropped down. Then three more ears of corn, and each time the same thing would happen; he would sound the low note, and every time he did so the geese would come down. By the time I had thrown the eighth ear he had convinced them that all was well, and they did not fly up any more. It was interesting to watch him trying to educate them to take the kernels of corn off the ear, but it was strange to them. He would get a kernel off and drop it down, but it was fully fifteen minutes before he got those geese to take the corn; when they did start, they cleaned off every kernel of the twelve ears. That told me these young geese had never seen an ear of corn before, and that they had come all the way from Hudson Bay without a mouthful and had dropped down there. The old gander had led them all the way down.

My mother-in-law's daughter and I coaxed this old gander and his five geese into the coop and she held the door while I went in and clamped a tag on his leg. After I tagged him I took him to the door and threw him out—this same old gander that had been telling his boys and girls to eat the corn and stay there and not be afraid. When I threw the gander out, did he fly to the lake? To know the Canada geese is to love him forever. You cannot show me any of his actions that only need be ashamed of, but one. The old gander went out, and when he was about two rods away he turned around and looked back. You could hear him calling for the rest of his family in that little cackling pen. He came right back to the door until every one of his family had been liberated; he stood right there and fought for them. We caught him the second time, put a cuff on each leg and named him "Sir John Moore" and we put on the tag this time of scripture: "No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." They migrated as usual, and on March 17 following, the boys said, "Look, Dad," and there was Sir John Moore, with two cuffs on his legs, looking for more corn. Five of his family had returned; he had taken care of them down in the southern states all winter, and brought them back. The last week in April they disappeared and my heart sank when I opened a letter from Fort George, James Bay, and four of the boys. The letter read: "The Indian says that seven geese came into their decoys, and they killed four of them. Each one had a tag on his leg. You know just how I would feel, although that is part of the game. To the fellow who wants to shoot, let me say this: I am not opposed to a man shooting a bird or two, but will you not join with us in limiting your bag? Remember, the bird that falls out of the air from our deadly aim gives you and me a little pleasure, but deprives thousands of people the pleasure and recreation in seeing it alive. Let us consider that; let us think it over—Jack Miner, Kingsville, Ont., in National Conference on Game and Wild Life Conservation (Commission of Conservation, Ottawa)."

After leaving school, which they usually do when fourteen years of age, the children receive in the Home two years training, which includes housewifery, the making of garments—the latter branch must indeed be valuable, for we learn that all the clothing worn by the children is made on the premises, including even their winter coats. During the last few years two or three very young children have been admitted to "The Nest," it being felt that the baby atmosphere was good for the older girls, and at the same time afforded an opportunity for practical training in babycraft.

While the majority of the girls go to domestic service, the Home Mother is ever on the look-out for those who are more fitted for other spheres of labour. Several of the Nestlings—rather fledglings—are filling excellent positions in offices as private secretaries or in charge of other girls, and the present time three are preparing to become shorthand typists. But whether they go to service or to office life, they are taught to regard all work as ennobling, and that it does not so much matter what their calling is as what they themselves are in principle and character.

"CELLULOID COLLAR" CLUB ORGANIZED St. Louis Women Form "Cotton Stocking" Club—Retail Prices Drop

New York, April 23.—The inception at St. Louis of a "Celluloid collar club" and a "cotton stocking club" were the outstanding features of the campaign against the high cost of clothing in United States Tuesday. In addition to these unique organizations combatants there were still supporting the overall and old clothes movement.

The freshman class of Columbia University voted to purchase at wholesale six hundred garments of overalls.

Five hundred sailors and naval aviators announced Tuesday night they would take part in the overall parade here Saturday. The first overalls box party appeared in a New York theatre Tuesday night, when members of the Chess Club and their friends dressed in denim and ginghams, occupied boxes. Several college students at Middlebury, Vt., wore overalls at chapel and about the campus Tuesday.

The president of Dakota Wesleyan University was attired in bib-overalls Tuesday morning when faculty members headed the first public parade of the campus overall club. An overall club was formed at Manchester, N. H., prices of men's clothing has weakened somewhat, apparently as a result of the overalls and old clothes campaign.

RECONSTRUCTED IN THE NEST

A Glimpse Of One Of The Army's Havens For Children.

Fifty-two children are at present in residence at "The Nest," a Haven established by The Salvation Army eighteen years ago for little girls, rescued from unhappy and distressing circumstances. In this Home these little ones—successors to many hundreds of similar girls—are finding comfort, protection, and motherly care. From all parts of this and other lands, letters are received from young women breathing out thanks for the Agency which lifted them from unmentionable circumstances, and not only taught them to forget the miseries of the past, but trained their feet in the way of righteousness and truth, and sent them out trained and fitted for a useful career.

"The Nest" is ideally situated. The house itself is a spacious one, with large, airy bedrooms; while the large garden is a never-ending source of pleasure to them.

A one-time greenhouse has been utilized and fitted up for the use of children requiring open-air treatment; an isolation ward does away with the fear of infection in case of epidemic, and the dining-room, with its small tables, the nursery with its variety of toys, and a well-filled bookcase makes it homelike to a fine degree.

There is also a small room set apart for the use of girls who have gone to situations, but who prefer to spend their leisure hours at "The Nest." The children come from all kinds of sad circumstances, many of them being handed over from the police courts. It seems an impossible thing that a child of five and a half can be an incorrigible, or at six and a half be a practised thief, but such are some of the "problems" being dealt with by the Warden of this Home—and being dealt with effectively as results have proved.

After leaving school, which they usually do when fourteen years of age, the children receive in the Home two years training, which includes housewifery, the making of garments—the latter branch must indeed be valuable, for we learn that all the clothing worn by the children is made on the premises, including even their winter coats. CANADIANS WIN OLYMPIC HOCKEY

Defeat Swedish Team 12 to 1 And Thus Win Championship.

ANTWERP, April 17.—The Falcons of Winnipeg, who last night defeated the Swedish Olympic hockey team by a score of 12 to 1, gained an easy victory over their opponents by the mastery style in which they played. They were considered unbeatable. The attacks of Halldorson, Frederickson and Goodman were superb, while the Swedish defence was courageous they were able to offer only a weak resistance to the lightning dashes of the victors.

WHY SOME BEEF IS DEAR Canadian women can make a marked reduction in the cost of living without aid of law or legislation. The matter is quite individual. It can be great or little, just as the housewife chooses. Indeed a slight change in the buying habits of the home might considerably improve the nutriment return for each dollar spent. It is a simple matter, depending on sound commonsense.

The real cause why the prime cuts of beef, the porterhouse, the tenderloin and the round steak, are so highly priced is that many more people in the last two years have the money to buy those parts. The supply remains relatively the same. Retail prices of the lower-priced meats are now down to a level so near cost, sometimes indeed below cost price, that the butcher-retailer must make all his profit on the higher priced cuts. Roughly, the demand is for the hindquarter cuts; the big surplus is in the forequarter cuts. If a steer were produced having nothing but porterhouse and tenderloin, things would quickly right themselves. But, unhappily, the carcass of the best steer only yields about twenty-two per cent of its total weight in loin cuts. The following table, prepared from actual returns in Toronto in the last few weeks, with prices averaged over all qualities of beef, makes it plain why a few cuts only must carry a high price if the whole carcass is to yield a profit. Wholesale cuts to ordinary butchers are taken as illustrations. These are, of course, further subdivided before the housewife makes her purchase. "Hips", for instance, include three grades of rounds. Wholesale price of whole carcasses 19 to 21 cents per lb.

Table with 4 columns: Cuts, P. C. of Carcass, Av. Ret. Price of cuts per lb., and 2c. Rows include Hips, Flanks, Loins, Ribs, Plate, Chucks, and Shank.

Average retail price of whole carcasses 24.3 cents a lb. It is desirable to impress the fact that the nutritive value of most of the cheapest cuts is excellent. The self-same careful feeding is given by the farmer to a steer whether the flesh is formed on the forequarter or on the hind. Many cuts, of course, by their nature are more suitable for boiling and stews, but it is worth noting that these are popular with many restaurant customers. Many a man lunches appetizingly down town at noon from joints which his wife would not buy. A campaign is being conducted for the next month in the United States to foster the greatest use of forequarter cuts in the hope that household prices will be more equalized. Conditions are similar in every way in the Dominion and in the States.

NEXT MEETING AT MONCTON

Orange Grand Lodge Will Meet There Next Year.

Woodstock, N. B., April 22.—Grand Orange Lodge of New Brunswick concluded its annual session during the night. The next meeting will be held in Moncton in April, 1921. L. A. Palmer of Bathurst was re-elected Grand Master.

A notable change is the election of W. H. Sullivan, of St. John, as grand secretary, the post held by Neil S. Morrison, of St. John for many years.

SUPERANNUATION TO BE PROVIDED Fredericton, April 21.—The round table conference of members of both parties in the Legislature on the question of teachers' salaries, which was originally scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until tomorrow.

The second bill goes through for the superannuation of school-teacher George W. Macdonald, formerly director of schools, who has been over thirty years in the service. He took the 1920 pension over one hundred and twenty dollars, and returned in broken health, and Prof. Alphonse Beliveau, M. A., still active as the head of the French department at the Provincial Normal School, and who has been on the staff there for more than forty years.

BLIND MEN ON HIKE TO LONDON LONDON, April 28.—Strung out in a phyl array along the country roads of England, nearly one thousand blind men are on a hike to London to lay their grievances before Premier Lloyd George. They started on their slow Coxy trudge from Manchester Easter Monday. Collected from various towns in Lancashire, they were fifty strong when they left "Cottonopolis," but as they passed city after city their numbers were swelled by hundreds of other equally unfortunate. Large parties joined the pathetic parade at Birmingham and Leicester, and now they are approaching Wiltshire, where the poverty-stricken blind of London will join the ranks. Right across England the marchers have met with wonderful demonstrations of sympathy. Collectors have been made in the towns to help them on their way, and along the country roads farmers' wives have come to their aid with offerings of food and drink. They plan a monster demonstration in Trafalgar Square, London, for April 25, and the following day they will seek an interview with the Prime Minister. The object of their march is to attract public attention to the wretched conditions in which thousands of sightless people live. They urge the need of an adequate state allowance to remove them from the cares of mere existence.
