LEMON SAUCE.
A good lemon sauce may be made by boiling the thinly-sliced rind of a lemon in the water, straining it out before adding the water to the sugar, butter, cornstarch, sugar and lemon juice. Then add one well-beaten egg after taking the sauce from the fire.

SALT WATER.
Before making coleslaw soak the cabbage in cold salt water for half an hour.

BAD ODORS.
Keep the plugs in your stationary tubs after using them and you will not get the bad odors from the pipes.

CHICKEN OR VEAL.
With delicately flavored meat, such as chicken or veal, do not serve strong vegetables, like cabbage.

W. C. T. U. POSTER
PRIZES AWARDED

Judges Praise Quality of Work Done By Students of Central Collegiate

Posters to the number of 150 were entered in the recent W. C. T. U. poster contest by students of the London Central Collegiate, and all, according to the judges, J. P. Hunt and Edward Glenn, show a high standard of artistic values, as well as of the scientific aspect of the subject, "The Evils of Intemperance."

Prize winners were announced on Saturday as follows: First prize ($5), Lucy Ford; second prize ($3), Hilda Grant; third prize ($2), Jack Trafford; fourth prize ($2), Olive Langstroth.

In addition there is a considerable list of posters deemed worthy of special commendation, and these, with the four prize-winning cards, have been entered for the provincial W. C. T. U. poster contest, for which prizes of $12, $8 and $5 are being offered. The prize-winning posters later, in company with four other very apt efforts by Gordon Francis, Miss Kron, Thelma Howitt and E. M. G., will be made into slides for educational use throughout the province.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. R. G. Stewart.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Alex. Mitchell, was well attended and most interesting. An address on "Points in Banking," by F. G. Kent, manager of the Bank of Commerce, was much enjoyed. In easy, concise language Mr. Kent explained the various banking services, such as travelers' checks, exchange, granting of loans, and other points of interest to the public. A vote of thanks was extended to him at the close of his remarks. Mrs. D. Brown read a paper on "The Beauty and Pleasure of Herbage," written by Mrs. R. E. Kips, which was also very interesting. Mrs. Joseph Feart gave a report of the meeting of the Home and School Club, asking that a first aid kit be given to the public school and a sum of about $25 be granted for prizes in sewing and in needle work. The meeting was closed by the singing of hymns.

BYRON W. I.
The regular monthly meeting of the Byron W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Wallace Merriam, with an attendance of 20. The president, Mrs. Chantler, presided. After the business meeting, Mrs. J. A. Hoshall read a paper on "The Beauty and Pleasure of Herbage," written by Mrs. R. E. Kips, which was also very interesting. Mrs. Joseph Feart gave a report of the meeting of the Home and School Club, asking that a first aid kit be given to the public school and a sum of about $25 be granted for prizes in sewing and in needle work. The meeting was closed by the singing of hymns.

DELAWARE W. I.
The March meeting of the Delaware Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Reid. The president, Mrs. Jacob Eichenberger, presided, and the attendance was good. Mrs. Donald A. James gave an excellent paper on "What Has Been Done for Child Welfare in Canada." The roll call was the name of a noted artist. Afternoon tea was served and a vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Robert Reid. The April meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Elvidge, third concession.

GRADUATE NURSES TO CONVENE IN HAMILTON

HAMILTON, March 29.—The national annual meeting of the Graduate Nurses' Association will be held here during the week commencing June 23. Among the subjects to be discussed will be the "Evolution of Nursing," "Midwifery in Canada," and another topic will be the need of or the advisability of training a graduate nurse as a nursing aide, who could remain in the home where female help is unsatisfactory, but still be supervised by a graduate visiting nurse. This, if satisfactorily worked out, would relieve the distress in homes where there are children and where sometimes the mother is ill and the husband is unable to remain at home to look after the house.

BERGDOLL NOT RETURNING.
Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the United States draft evader, whose departure from his hotel here early in the week was responsible for reports that he was on his way to the United States. Bergdoll was not seen today. He had been on a motor trip to the Black Forest and stated definitely that he was not making any preparations to return to the United States to face the charges against him.

BECAUSE HIS FATHER

KNOW BETTER.
Henry is a bookworm.

It is a matter of considerable pride to his father that he stands near to the head of his class in all of his studies and that he is a bookworm.

I have heard him say almost boastfully: "I don't know where he gets it, certainly not from me. I used to get a ranking of about 27 on the scale of 100 when I was a boy. But that fellow just laps it up."

And yet here is an incident to which I was witness in Henry's home not long ago.

Henry was seated in a deep armchair, with his beloved, dog-eared, volume of Treasure Island, when his father came into the room.

"What in the name of goodness are you doing stuck in the house, with your nose in a book, a beautiful afternoon like this? Why aren't you out skating with the other boys?" he demanded.

"My skate is broken and I haven't anything to do if I go out but just stand around, and there's no fun in that."

"No fun in that? Great Scott! What are you young people coming to these days? Why when I was a boy I found something to do. I didn't sit around the house waiting for someone to come and drive me out. Nobody had to tell me to get out into the fresh air. Put up that book and go out of doors. You read altogether too much anyway."

And with very poor grace, Henry put away his book and went out into the yard where he wandered aimlessly up and down, "getting the fresh air."

Now my quarrel with Henry's father lies in this—that he closes his eyes to the fact that he is dealing with a condition, not a theory.

The fact still remains that it is unfair and unreasonable to expect a bookish, study-loving boy to be impelled by the same motives that moved his athletic father to seek out the gang and their games when he was a boy.

Henry should be out of doors more. Very well. But how unreasonable to seek to accomplish this end by degrading the very trait by which he excels in that scholarship of which his father is so proud.

The theory is that Henry ought to know better than to stick in the house with a book on a sunny winter's day because his father knew better when he was a boy. The condition remains that Henry is a different type of boy and must be dealt with differently.

If Henry's father were a wise man, he would have listened to Henry's perfectly legitimate excuse for not being out and then, perhaps, have suggested that they take a walk together, or that they go and try out the new skis.

When parents learn to say, "Come, instead of 'Go';" and "We," instead of "You," when they learn that the children can be led, when they can't be driven, we shall find a condition of mutual trust and confidence and an eagerness on the child's part to co-operate.

And since it's so simple, I wonder why more parents don't adopt that course.

JACKET IS SHORT.
This short jacket of embroidered satin, that may be worn with any straight-line type of frock, is very popular with the Parisienne. It may be worn open at the neck or wrapped closely to give a Russian effect.

WATER ICES.
Water ices are a cooler and fresher ice cream, but the crank need not be turned constantly. A few turns every five minutes is enough.

Sprise Nests Will Show Gay
Variety of Wares On Easter
Morning, But Larders Will Be Stored As Well

The Easter egg vogue grows in popularity among the little folks of London each year, and each returning festival sees a greater variety in Easter egg styles and colors.

All of which may sound like an advertisement for shop windows, but it isn't. The vast majority of Easter eggs tinted in London owe their gay designs and pastel colorings to the skill of some lovely right-kind-of-mother, who thinks it worth while in planning her Easter festivities to include a nest of jolly colored eggs.

But there are children aplenty in London who haven't a right-kind-of-mother, or any kind at all, for that matter. And yet it chances that the Bunny saints visit them just the same on Easter Even, because the mothers' clubs of this city are one vast organization of over a thousand mothers, so big-hearted that the circle of their own family needs is not big enough to satisfy them.

A POPULAR CUSTOM.
It was one of this kind of mothers who thought of Easter in the homes and orphanages and who a couple of years ago set in fashion the egg show, which promises to be carried out again this year on a very large scale. There are several orphanages in London, the Ronald-Roy Gray Home, the Children's Shelter, the Protestant Orphan's Home, the Creche, and, with anywhere from 50 to 60 folks each, Eggs, as any mother will tell you, are a useful part of the spring diet of any little person, so that all the eggs that come showing at the Easter season are not fancy ones in bunny nests, but the delightful, fresh variety as well, from the clean, straw chicken runs, where the biddies get busy and busier as the spring sun gets hotter and hotter.

Already a number of the clubs have sent out their call for eggs in several instances the April meeting will be marked by the presentation of dozens of eggs for use in one or other of the children's homes of the city. The idea is again catching hold, and, as last year, it is expected that the "jolly weeks of April" will see a great many "showers" arranged, sufficient not only to supply the immediate needs of the season, but to pack for use later in the season.

There will also, it is believed, be at least one real Easter egg for every child in every home in London on Easter morning. Mothers' clubs are like that. They do the necessary thing first and then they always add a nice, jolly "trill" for good measure.

C. G. I. T. PAGEANT
CHARMING EVENT

Girls of First Church Point a Moral In a Delightful Fashion In Saturday's Presentation

One of the most successful entertainments of the season was that given by the C. G. I. T. groups of First Methodist Church in the church parlors on Saturday afternoon. Besides a splendid musical program, the girls presented a delightful allegorical pageant which made a deep impression on everyone present.

The pageant, which is entitled "The Way," is from the pen of Miss Grace Hallam and Mrs. H. B. Camp, and was particularly well suited for production by a group of juniors. To it the local girls brought real understanding, which, when taken with the careful preparation they had given it, made the offering one which will not soon be forgotten.

The story of the pageant is of a young girl who falls asleep and is visited in dreams by all the virtues, who recommend themselves for her use. She wakes with the desire to live the full life of a Christian woman, but being a little bewildered at how to begin, she is visited by a representative of the C. G. I. T. organization, who explains that by following the C. G. I. T. code she can attain the fullest development.

The cast of this little drama included Misses Isabelle Mortimer, Lillian MacCormick, Helen Radford, Margaret Plewes, Irene Rutherford, Evelyn and Lillian Foxworthy, Mary Buchanan, Marion Johnston, Morine Spence, Bertha Atkinson and Edith Gaud. Other features of the program were solos by Miss Tucker, Miss Muriel Jackson and Miss Winnifred Mack; piano numbers by Miss Gladys Sharpe, and violin selection by Miss Margaret Gibson. Miss Beatrice Brown arranged the musical program. Rev. J. Bruce Hunter also addressed the audience briefly.

At the conclusion of the program afternoon tea was served, with the following members assisting at the pretty daffodil-decked tables: Misses Isabelle Mortimer, Margery Mortimer, Bertha Atkinson, Marion Johnston, Lillian MacCormick, Morine Spence and Mrs. George Blake. The team assistants were other members of the organization.
