CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

It would be difficult to conceive of conditions more favorable to the lumber trade than those which now exist. Lumber, whether white pine, hardwood or hemlock, practically sells itself. Dealers are booking large orders in advance of production and anticipate a steady trade throughout the year. In some instances orders for dry stock have been turned down on account of the scarcity in the supply of certain grades and sizes. There is no change to report in prices, for the reason that manufacturers as a whole are not taking advantage of every opportunity to boost values. Individual advances have been made on some lines, but the general policy seems to be to keep prices near the present basis and thus prevent, if possible, a curtailment in consumption. The outlook for building operations is favorable. In Toronto and Hamilton a number of large buildings are projected. In some quarters fear is expressed that labor difficulties may interfere with building to a slight extent, but on the other hand there seems to be a disposition on the part of employers to meet all reasonable demands. Considering the large percentage of the white pine lumber production of this province
