MISSIONARY INTELLIGENCE.

SEALKOTE.

Two of our Sabbath Schools in Montreal having applied through the Rev. James Black for boys at Sealkote Orphanage, the Rev. Robert Patterson, of Sealkote, writes that he is doing all in his power to meet the wishes of our young friends at Pointe St. Charles and St. Joseph Street. Mr. Patterson's letter, dated Sealkote, 16th September, is now on our desk, and in it he says he is about to start on a journey through the country, during which he hopes to find some orphan boys. Of orphans there are very many round Sealkote, but the priests and the friends of the children are generally able to keep them from the Missionaries. The Government Schools are now open, and in these no religious instruction is given, so that the natives prefer them to Missionary Orphanages.

Miss Hillier, an excellent and devoted teacher, is now at Sealkote in charge of the girls' orphanage.

BOMBAY.

Our six orphan girls at this place are now in an orphanage managed by a Committee partly connected with the Church of Scotland, and partly with the Free Church. This
