TRUE WITNESS OFFICE.

TUESDAY, Sept. 5, 1882. The money market is firmer and large sums are out to grain buyers and stock brokers, and also on merchandise. Loans on call were reported at 6 and 61 per cent. A good feature of the money market, however, is that commercial paper falling due yesterday-one of the greatest settling days of the year-was well secured by customers of the banks.

On the Stock Exchange this morning a fair business was done but at lower prices. Money was tighter, although how long the screws will remain on nobody pretends to know. WEEKLY REVIEW --- WHOLESALE MARKETS.

The fall trade continues to make fair progress, and payments failing due on Monday, the 4th inst., were quite as well attended to by purchasers as our wholesale men could expect. THE CHICAGO MARKETS.

A despatch says:—The experience of August has not been satisfactory in Chicago. The receipts of wheat during the month, aithough fair, have been much less than anticipated, and makes rather a sorry comparison with St. Louis, the figures standing 3,208,000 at Chicago and 4,947,030 bushels at St. Louis. The comparison is still more unfavorable to Chicago when it is explained that a liberal percentage of the month's receipts here came from St. Louis to fill shorts. The corn market has taken a strong downward turn, and the article seems to have lost all of its friends, the decline, which is partly attributable to the death of S. A. Ricker, who was not only a large holder, but whose wealth and cool management enabled him to sustain prices, and often bring victory out of defeat. The chief cause, however, of the severe break on the long options was due to the estimates of the Cincinnati Price Current of a crop 1,800,000,000 bushels.

A despatch from Liverpool to-day quoted THE CHICAGO MARKETS.
