Sir Arthur Currie,
Principal, McGill University.

Dear Sir Arthur,

I regret that I am unable to accept your invitation. It occurs to me that you may want my opinion of Hendel. The conversation did not turn much on philosophy or ethics the other day, so of that I cannot speak. But I liked the cut of Hendel himself, and his remarks on W. Wilson. It is the fashion to rate him down nowadays, but H., I think, is right about his work in Princeton, and the State of N. J.

Woodhead and some others of the Arts Staff think the professorship of Moral Philosophy a very important post, and they hope an excellent man can be found for it; even if the appointment cannot be made for some time.

Has H. L. Stewart of Dalhousie applied? He is a man of great abilities, and has written extraordinarily well on ethical and philosophical subjects. He edits the Dalhousie Review, among other things.
