

CHAPTER I

The first part of the history of the United States is the history of the colonies. The colonies were first settled by the English in 1607, and they remained loyal to the British crown until the American Revolution in 1776.

The second part of the history of the United States is the history of the nation. The nation was founded in 1776, and it has since grown from a small group of colonies into a large and powerful country.

The third part of the history of the United States is the history of the present. The present is a time of great progress and achievement, and it is a time when the United States is leading the world in many ways.

The fourth part of the history of the United States is the history of the future. The future is a time of great promise and opportunity, and it is a time when the United States has the potential to become an even greater and more powerful nation.

g the
ing

the Club
day and
week, as

Day," as waiting

in suc-
use, the ere are e single
er mem-
et.