

a right to be heard, but he should go right to the point and not try to take a round-about-way by attacking the Honorable Mr. Prévost and myself, in the manner he has done.

The premises have been clearly set forth by Mr. Owen : robbery of the rights of the Limit Holders ; and this is gathered from the « recent speeches made by Hon. Mr. Prévost and myself. »

I am sure many will await with anticipation to see in what manner or by what means Mr. Owen will corroborate his wide spreading declarations. That part of his Pamphlet is yet to be printed.

JOHN HALL, KELLY.
