

ones bring them food, and try all their art to make them eat. When dew falls they spread their wings to keep them dry and warm. If a man or a dog comes near, they take them on their backs, and bear them to a safe place. Should not boys and girls do like these good storks, and be kind to those who gave them birth?

LESSON VI.

	song	lawn
fat	praise	lambs
heat	chirp	bleat
sweet	hedge	park
rose	foal	clear
lark	frisk	stream

Let us go and see the fields. The day is fair. The sun gives light and heat. The rose has a sweet smell. The