DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The active pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure, came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and wretchedly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleaning remedy I would be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made as strong, ruddy and healthy looking as one could wish, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"MRS. B. C. CURRAN, "Windsor, P.O."

FOOD AND MORALS.

A Toronto teacher once said to me that she had a class of potatoes and corn. Her children had eyes and they saw not, had ears and they would not hear. If this be true of children, and I am inclined to think it is, the fault lies with the mothers. As soon as a baby can fix his eye on any point in space, as soon as he can grasp any object in his hand, he begins to receive impressions of the material world. His senses: feeling, seeing, tasting, hearing and smelling, are exercised first; and upon the clearness of the impressions he receives depends his intellectual power. We adults are content to let the child be a puppet and press for toying with the motions of the world because we do not rightly see and hear. The kindergarten has recognized the importance of training these much-neglected senses and has games to exercise and strengthen them. The children shut their eyes and name objects of sight, or smell, or hearing. A more advanced game is to name and contrast two sounds, two flavors or two odors. Great thinkers claim that a perception of love is beautiful in nature, that comes to a child by means of the senses, leads directly into a discernment of the beautiful in the moral world.

Mental scientists divide the senses into two groups: the higher, touch, hearing and sight, relating to the outside world, and the lower, taste and smell, relating to the body.

Because of this division, the education of children has been directed to the training of the eye and ear, and the lower senses have been neglected.

The sense of taste, which is to judge between wholesomeness and unwholesomeness of food, has become degraded and is appreciated only as it gratifies pleasurable sensations. It is said that nine-tenths of the intemperate drinking begins in gluttony and ungratified feelings of "Spicing" the food. Neglect in educating the lower senses, Froebel says: "In early years the child's food is a matter of very great importance, not only in that it means he made indolent or active, sluggish or mobile, dull or bright, inert or vigorous, but for his entire life. Parents should remember that simplicity and frugality in food during childhood enhance man's growing trade and the best habits of vigor. Who has not noticed in children, over-stimulated by spices and excited by only starchy and sugary food, greater power, threatening to rob man of all his dignity and to force him away from his duty."

The mother who holds herself responsible for what her child shall wear and yet does not feel that she is answering to the world for what she shows that she regards his outer appearance more than his health of body or moral strength.

Miss Billie Burke

ONE OF MISS BILLIE BURKE'S PRETTY DRESSES.

Women know that the theatre is the place to go to see the very newest and the most fetching things in the way of frocks. Not only are the clothes worn by the actresses who visit the city from week to week the latest creations of Mme. La Mode, but they are worn by people to whom the art of dressing is almost as great an essential as their dramatic art. Not only are the beautiful toilets seen on the stage exceptionally charming and artistic; they are chosen, too, with an eye toward effect, the present modes being adapted to the expression of the personality of the actress as well as to suit the role she plays.

Miss Billie Burke, who comes to the Princess Theatre all next week, has a number of opinions on the subject of dress. "A woman's most beautiful

Called It "The Better Half"

At a local club room the other evening a group of well-known sportsmen were discussing the merits of the coming season. As an introduction and to start things off right one of the group ordered "one complete bottle of Canada's best whiskey." One of the experienced waiters, who had been only a few days in the club's employ, produced the whiskey, and a certain amount of common sense—why, speaking Radnor Water is the better half of the whiskey, the only thing that makes whiskey worth drinking."

A New Face Without Surgical Skin Peeling

"I do not approve of the surgical operation of face peeling," says Julius Galt, a well-known oculist. "It is too dangerous. There's a better way of removing offensive complexion and one that is entirely safe and rational. Ordinary macerated wax causes the skin to gradually and gently. Unlike the surgical process, the skin is not forcibly scraped off, but is gradually and gently removed by the wax, and from ten days to two weeks are required to complete the transformation. There's no pain, no discomfort.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN

Rose. To rid your skin of that shiny, greasy, yellow look and make it appear charming and youthful, you can use nothing better than a lotion made by dissolving a ounce of salicylic acid in half pint water (or hot water), then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. This lotion will clear the skin, make it soft, make it smooth and velvety, and give you a beautiful complexion. It costs very little, will not show on the skin like powder does, and when you use it you will find your eyes greatly strengthened, clear and sparkling. No remedy has ever been found to equal this excellent tonic for correcting weak, inflamed eyes. It makes them healthy and strong and is used by many actresses to make their eyes sparkle.

M. W. To permanently remove those hairs, mix a little powdered salicylic acid with water, then spread on hairy surface. Let it dry, and with a fine brush, wash the skin and the hairs will fall out. This is a painless method, and after using the delicate skin is left soft and without a blemish.

N. B. K. For your chronic condition of ill-health take a tablespoonful of the following tonic before each meal: Dissolve in half pint alcohol, half cup of sugar and one ounce barbed, then add one ounce of salicylic acid. This excellent tonic is made by using the best of the salicylic acid and blood-purifying properties of salicylic acid. It is a tonic for the system, and after taking a few doses you will note the improvement in the condition of your health. It is a great energizer and health restorer.
