TIPS TO ASPIRING GRIDIRON STUDENTS

Walter Eckersall says that when a student appears as a candidate for a football team, he should remember these things: That the coach's word is law and gospel. That the player knows less about his needs than his train-

That hard work, regularity and willing sacrifices are the three gridiron virtues. That condition counts for more than pounds of flesh. That condition is a prize that is won by those who labor. That victory is worth more than all a player gives up. That there is only one time to play football while there is much time coming for amusements.

Clymer, who is leading the league, has made 57 hits in 40 games.

Washington leads the American League in stolen bases, with 165.

Charley Jones, of the Washingtons averages just a hit a game, as he has 90 in the same number of games.

Nicholls, for a youngster, has proven ball down, as his 25 sacrifice hits prove.

The Athletics lead the league doubles and home runs, but are way down in triples, having but 35 in 116

Young Milan, the National's young outfielder, has cracked out 14 hits in 10 games, among them a double and three endangered, for the reason that both we play Boston, New York and Washtriples.
