HIT WITH A FARE BOX

And Then Arrested for Assaulting the Conductor.

Following an altercation with Conductor Warnock (No. 845) Geo. Symonds, a trainee attached to the Dywida, a trainee attached to the Dywida, was taken from an east-bound King-street car at 12.30 p.m. by Plainclothesman Wilson and P. C. Hutcheson. He is held at the Court-street station charged with assaulting the conductor.

One version of the affair is that Symonds, being the aggressor, struck at the conductor, who was standing on the rear platform at the corner of King and Yonge, and that the conductor struck back with the fare box, when the motorman, hearing the disturbance, stopped the car and came to the aid of his conductor.

In front of the King Edward, where Symonds was arrested, a crowd of indignant spectators gathered—all anxious to vindicate Symonds and cast the blame on the conductor.

A number of the passengers insisted upon registering their names as witnesses on Symonds' behalf. Several people say they saw the conductor make the first pass with the heavy fare box.

Among the names voluntarily offered the police as witnesses were: Frank Knowlton, 306 East Gerrard-street; Frank Leslie, 107 Carlaw-avenue; J. Durham, 107 Carlaw-avenue, and Robert Burns.

Get Ready for the Races.

Do not put off getting everything ready for the races. You are sure to be entertaining friends, and a case of radnor water is the wisest of all precautions. Nothing mixes as well with Scotch whiskey or rye as this famous, purely Canadian mineral water.

Floyd Poucher, a boy living in Westmoreland-avenue, was painfully burned by falling into a bonfire.

Willis Purvis peeped into Mrs. Frank Powell's sitting room at 176 M'N-street Monday night. He was caught at it and warned to cut it out. He repeated the trick and was fined $5 and costs in police court yesterday morning.

OTHELLO'S AGITATION GONE

Spence and Hales: "Avast, thou horrid spectre! Unreal spirit, hence!"

—From The Lance.

THE BREWERS' MISTAKE.

The Lance: The brewers have been making a mistake, and a serious one. They have been taking the temperance agitators literally. They have in some way misled into believing that these gentlemen were concerned about temperance and the evils attendant upon it. They have supposed that what the Germans and Chownes and Spences and Shearers and Hales were exercising about was the vice of drunkenness, and, deluded and deceived by the perverted utterances of these and such as these, the brewers have gotten it into their heads that the statements concerning temperance, and their kind have been indulging, were inspired by an honest, if exaggerated, fear of the too common use of intoxicants. Influenced by this belief, the brewers have been trying to produce a beer which, while satisfying the public demand, would yet meet the requirements of their teetotal friends by being non-intoxicating.

They are wiser now, because they have found out something hitherto unknown of by them. They have learned that what the "temperance" people, or their self-constituted leaders, crave for with such unappeasable yearning is not temperance, but temperance agitation. Beer that won't intoxicate is infinitely more hateful to your professional temperance man than the old-fashioned kind, for once the people take to drinking it, the agitator's occupation will be gone. Naturally enough, the walking delegates of the Temperance Jawnsmith's Union are up in arms against non-alcoholic beer. Why, think of the carefully studied impromptu perorations, the denunciation of the drink demon and the rum fiend, which would be lost and unuseful once the people go in for the "less than three per cent." article. How could Controller Spence carry on a campaign against beer that had no more joyfulness in it than so much tea? How could Hales become eloquent in denunciation of such a harmless, innocuous tipple? What earthly excuse could there be for passing the collection plate for some imported temperance orator if the flowing bowls contain only stuff that, under no conceivable circumstances, will sting like a serpent and bite like an adder?

The brewers should have a care. All the signs point to a hard winter, with an abnormally large army of unemployed and out of money. Surely at such a time, with a near future so foreboding, an army of unemployed temperance and moral reform ex-agitators should not be let loose on the community. Then the brewers should be warned by the fate of the old man who made a failure of the attempt to please everybody, and lost his ass into the bargain.

Seriously, ought not the temperance people to be pleased at the substitution of non-intoxicating beer, for even such a mildly exhilarating beverage as lager or light ale if lessening the vice of temperance be their aim, this would do more than many temperance lectures and much sumptuary legislation.

APPLES, ORANGES FIGS AND PRUNES

The God-given Cure for All Diseases of Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Skin.

Few people seem to realize how important—how absolutely necessary—it is to keep the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin in proper working order.

They wonder why they have Sallow Complexions—Indigestion—Head-aches—Rheumatism—while all the time their systems are clogged and poisoned with waste tissue and indigestible food which these organs should have removed.

What they need are Fruit Juices—nature's provision for keeping the eliminating machinery of the body working right. "Fruit-a-tives" are the concentrated juices of fresh, ripe fruits, combined in such a way that their medicinal action is greatly intensified. They stimulate and regulate the action of Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, thus clearing the system of the accumulated waste and poison, purifying the blood, and banishing those distressing troubles that make life miserable.

No other remedy has ever been discovered that does this so effectively as "Fruit-a-tives." 50c. box—6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HOW JAP BRANDY WORKS.

Clarence Harvey Narrates an Experience of His Own.

The old saw, "a rolling stone gathers no moss," cannot be applied to stories about Clarence Harvey, the versatile comedian of the Imperial Opera Co. One has just come to light through his role as Tweedledee in "Florodora."

Long and hard Harvey tried in his earlier stage days to give a real good scene of a drunken man, but his efforts always fell flat until he visited Japan, several years ago. One day he related his marred fall along these lines to the British consul at Yokohama, stating that in his endeavors to get the knack of being humorously drunk on the stage he had gone so far as to sample every known brand of whiskey, but that it was all to no purpose. Either the whiskey failed to put it into his blood, or if it did, that happy moment had arrived when he was no longer able to "sit up and take notice." The consul recommended a particular brand of Japanese liquid refreshments. Harvey repaired at once to a little cafe in the neighborhood of the consulate, but as it tasted and looked harmless, and he could feel no effects, he concluded a huge joke had been played upon him. Everything went through his head until after he paid his score and started to walk back to the consulate. With the first stride his left leg got a kink into it and in the endeavor to untangle it he landed into a basket of vegetables. He thought that by keeping on the move it would work out all right. His course down the street, however, took on an oblique diagram and the more he tried to straighten out the faster he found he was moving along. The staid Japanese crowded the doorways of their little shops in wonderment at the peculiar antics and pedestrianism of this strange fellow.

SCOTT—Suddenly at 153 Spadina-road, Toronto, on Tuesday, the 15th Sept., 1908, Mary Agnes (Minnie), beloved wife of Frank A. Rennick, eldest daughter of Andrew Smith, Esq.

Funeral (private) on Thursday, the 17th, at 3 o'clock, interment in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Next morning he told the consul that his education had been complete and was cheap, as it only cost him 55 cents and costs. Harvey says Japanese brandy lodges in the legs.

Helen Fler, aged 19, a chorus girl with the Cherry Blossom Co., is in St. Michael's Hospital with symptoms of typhoid fever.

New buildings are imperatively necessary in several departments. It is time the equitable was settled which excludes harvest and farm machinery from the fire. This is a big Canadian interest of which view to the fair is something. There is a big silverware industry in Toronto. Why do not Honorary Freeholders and President George let the people see what can be done in this line?

Since the burning of the transportation building the magnificent carriage exhibit of former years is no more. The manufacturers' building is already much too small, and the process building is filled with exhibits which should be elsewhere to give process work more room. A new poultry house is promised, but the other stock should be regarded also after the recent experience in the Union Stock Yards, one shudders to think what the result of fire in the fair cattle sheds. Those burned two years ago were replaced in wood, but in these days of concrete construction this material should be insisted upon for all future replacements. It has been aptly suggested that if any fire building is undertaken the public might be regarded in the laying out of the stables. No doubt a view of the

ABOUT THE EXHIBITION BACKWARD AND FORWARD

Some Suggestions, Not in the Spirit of Carping Criticism, Which May Be Worth Consideration.

Now that the great Toronto fair—the Canadian National Exhibition as it is becoming generally recognized to be—is out of the weatherwood, enthusiastic citizens may indulge in a little hallooing on the magnificent results of the show of 1908.

Providence has been gracious, as the clergymen acknowledged daily in their prayers at the directors' luncheons, and a grateful patriotism may well inspire the breasts of Canadians as they consider the gathering together of the assembled wealth of the Dominion in the stately buildings in Exhibition Park.

A substantial surplus may be anticipated from the receipts of the fair. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and if the farmers murmur at the dry breezes, the exhibition directors are correspondingly rejoiced.

The feature of the fair to the general public was undoubtedly the military spectacle in the evening and the splendid fireworks which followed. Soldiers are always popular, but set in the picturesque frame of the Crimée panorama, and with the stirring and favorite airs from the fine bands, the performances of the local regiments raised the enthusiasm of the spectators to a high pitch.

In the variety performance as The World has suggested in former years, no sorrow would be felt at the elimination of the "death-defying" feats which are supposed to attract crowds. The people who morbidly desire to see their fellow creatures risking death merely for the purpose of amusing idle onlookers is not a type to be stable products may be cleaned and skill there are in abundance for the cultivation of nerve and courage, and the exhibition may well foster such displays, but it is to be hoped that the "death-defying" elements may be omitted from future programs. Fortunately the victim of last week's accident is recovering, and the will not repeat her hazardous act.

A suggestion has been heard that if big circus could be prevailed upon to give its performances in the hippodrome, with the menagerie as a side show, the results might prove highly satisfactory. Of the magnificent spectacles of the New York hippodrome could be duplicated with success.

The music this year was perhaps not quite so notable as in years when the crack bands of Britain paid a visit to Toronto. But the music was quite as good as that of the past. The plan in the number of pieces in the bands, quite as artistic. The band of the Royal Canadian Regiment and of Winnipeg City will be remembered away with greater comfort to the public. The covered arena project seems to have been sidetracked, although its desirability is becoming more pronounced annually.

In the way of attractions, Dr. Orr might have made a success of an athletic field day, when the Olympic notables could have displayed themselves. A volunteer firemen's tournament could also have been developed into a feature for one day during coming fairs.

The one thing that insistently demands attention is the transportation service. Street cars must be brought into the grounds if the crowds that attend the exhibition are to be increased. The street car people declare that the limit has been reached under present conditions. No one can imagine the result had sudden rain descended any evening last week.

President George, Honorary President McNaught, Manager Orr and all concerned in the great enterprise must draw long deep breaths of relaxation and satisfaction that their annual task has been so commendably accomplished. In spite of some flaws the general result has been worthy of all praise, and public and exhibitors alike will yield them due tribute of approbation.

It would be as if wind that did not blow the exhibition H. J. P. Good, and the air currents were auspicious which drifted him into the publicity department. Mr. Good has done wonders for the press and public in supplying and circulating information about the fair and a large amount of its success flows thru the channels he opens.

The nonlucry court was formally opened for business at the old stand in the city hall yesterday, but none of the cases called were ready to be gone on with, so Justice Latchford adjourned.

WHEN DOCTORS AGREE!

HAT "doctors differ," is proverbial, but there are many points upon which the medical profession is practically unanimous. One of them is, that of all stimulants, the safest and most wholesome is a good, well-matured whisky.

The advice of one of Canada's most distinguished physicians was:—"In Scotland drink Scotch, In Canada drink Rye."

In each country you can be sure of the age and quality of the native product, the sale of new whisky for home consumption being forbidden by law.

In Canada, the best Rye Whisky is Corby's "Special Selected"

Because:

It is absolutely pure whisky, being manufactured entirely from the best and cleanest grain, without admixture of coloring or flavoring matter of any kind.

Its excellent flavor is derived entirely from the pure grain.

Its mellowness is due to its age, and its age is certified by the government label.

Do not ask simply for Rye. Ask for Corby's "Special Selected."

EPWORTH LEAGUERS GOING OUT TO CHINA

Unique Missionary Farewell Meeting at Elm Street Methodist Church.

Rev. T. E. Bartley presided at what he termed "the most unique meeting ever held in Elm-street Methodist Church" last night. It was a farewell service to 14 outgoing missionaries to China. The church was thronged.

Rev. James Allen of the mission board said it was within the memory of ministers still in the ministry when many of the churches which were now sending out missionaries were themselves supported by grants from the home mission field. At one time a Methodist home missionary who went to Port Hope had to preach in the shoemaker's shop. Port Hope was then full of whiskey and sin and nicknamed Sodom. That was but typical of the Christian mission work in Ontario.

J. Leslie Rook extended a farewell on behalf of the Epworth Leaguers of Toronto.

M. A. Brillinger, Ph.D., who goes to the mission hospital, accompanied by his wife, and will be supported by the Central Methodist Church, Toronto, gave a brief address on the responsibility of Christians to take the Gospel to the heathen.

Mrs. Brillinger expressed herself as happy to go to the land where the Gospel was so needed.

Rev. W. B. Albertson, who with his wife will be supported in China by the Sunday schools of Manitoba, said that while in the home mission work for four years in the far west he had felt a call to the foreign work and was grateful for the opportunity to go to China.

T. Edgar Plewman years ago, when he finished his time as an apprentice, to the printing in Toronto, set his mind on foreign mission work. Miss Leah A. Ker had from childhood been deeply interested in the missionary cause. She was very grateful for the privilege of going out to be a teacher of missionaries' children.

Miss Ethel H. Plewman was glad to go out as a missionary nurse to the missionary hospital in company with Miss Switzer, graduate of Toronto General Hospital Training School.
