

GERMANY WILL NOT MAKE A SURRENDER

All Indications Point to Severance of Relations With the United States.

OFFICIALS ARE SILENT

Note Has Not Been Given Out for Publication in Papers.

Received today from Mr. Gerard, was closely guarded, it is understood that the ambassador informed the department he had been assured immediate consideration would be given to the note.

It became known tonight that several messages have been received from Ambassador Gerard during the past day or so. It was stated authoritatively, however, that they transmitted only expressions of editorial opinion from German newspapers.

Despatches from the ambassador are looked for momentarily to give definite information regarding the views of German officials, the manner in which the note was received and forecasts of the action which will be taken by the German Government in response to the demand of the United States that it declare and effect an abandonment of the present methods of conducting submarine warfare.

Bernstorff Away, Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, writes in Washington today. He left early this morning on a week-end trip.

BERLIN, Thursday, April 20, via London, April 21, 4:35 p.m.—The American note in regard to submarine warfare is now in the hands of the German Government. It was delivered this evening to Foreign Minister Von Jagow in the case that there is no attendant circumstances to mark the unusual importance of the occasion.

Owing to the length of the note and the appendix to the delayed arrival of one section of the note, it was not ready for presentation until late in the afternoon. Ambassador Gerard then rolled the document in a magazine to protect it from a light rain which was falling in the city.

The note probably will not be published here before Sunday, and no comment by the German press is expected before that time.

A NOLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, and no one can possibly tell the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly.

It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. The receipt of the American note to Germany concerning Germany's submarine warfare. No expression of opinion is obtainable from the foreign office, where absolute reticence is maintained.

The ministers and other officials who were entitled to it received a copy of the note this morning and were engaged during the day in studying the document.

LIGHT INFANTRY CAMPAIGN IS PROGRESSING STEADILY

Lieut.-Col. Hagarty has been granted his commission as a combatant officer of the active militia during his tenure of the command of the 201st Battalion, C.E.F. He is also an honorary lieutenant-colonel in the corps of School Cadet Instructors, and holds a seat on the cadet committee of the department of militia and defence.

The recruiting campaign of the 201st Toronto Light Infantry is progressing steadily. Allowance should be made in the case that there are for the self-imposed restrictions under which it is recruiting. Already many high school-militants from Toronto and outside points have joined, and have been given passes to enable them to complete their studies. These and fresh recruits will be coming in after Easter. On Thursday the came from Collingwood and three from Port Elgin.

many additional worries, and the prospect of greater troubles looming ahead will make them more desperate than ever.

It was confirmed yesterday by the British general staff which now has the Mesopotamian campaign under its control, having taken it over from the Indian office a short time ago, that 3,000 Turks were killed during their recent retreat from the British Tigris corps. The British Tigris corps, the Turks also suffered heavily in wounded, and of the 10,000 men who took part in the charge, it is not improbable that 9,000 were put out of action. Many German officers led the Turkish charge and fell before the British fire. The assault of the Turks on the British, it seems, was owing to blundering. They believed that part of the British forces had been cut off from their supports by the floods, but in reality these supports were moving up to the front at the time. The Turks charged the British line in dense formations as their German schoolmasters had taught them, and they went down before the scientifically trained Britons like ninny-pins. The British losses in killed, wounded and missing, were under 3,000.

Germany has officially received the strong demand from President Wilson that submarine warfare against merchantmen cease, and the outcome is obscure. The only guidance for a prediction is found in what recently happened. It will be remembered that the new piracy campaign had been slated to begin on the first of the United States Congress, before that date, backed the president in his anti-piracy policy, and Germany, which had first intended to disregard the United States, made a volte face, kept her boats in harbor and then dismissed Von Tirpitz, partly because he lost a great many submarines and partly because his dismissal was intended to signify to President Wilson that the sinking of merchant ships would be abandoned as rapidly as the enemy. If Roussians are sent to the front at the time, the Turks charged the British line in dense formations as their German schoolmasters had taught them, and they went down before the scientifically trained Britons like ninny-pins. The British losses in killed, wounded and missing, were under 3,000.

This new found ability of the allies to shift men from the east to the west, and, if needed, from the west to the east, negates the former advantage that the Germans and Austrians had in their central position. The Germans have been able to move from one theatre to another, men, at the rate of an army corps every ten days or so. By reason of the sea transport and the carrying capacity of shipping, it is probable that the allies, by the use of Kola and Ekaterinograd, will be able to transfer men backwards and forwards as rapidly as the enemy. If Roussians are sent to France, Roussians can be sent to Saloniki and in this way the continued neutrality of Roumania will not be an obstacle to the allies in their campaign to redeem Serbia and to invade the central powers on their flank.

On the British front the Germans have, evidently, been given enough of the fighting about Ypres and St. Eloi to last them for several days, for they did not advance to the attack yesterday. The bulk of the operations on the British front yesterday consisted of mining activity near Fricourt, Souchez, Hulluch and Givency; of trench-mortar fighting south of Arras, and of artillery duels between Souchez and La Bassée Canal and in the neighborhood of Ypres.

In the Balkans the allies are steadily going on with their preparations for an offensive, and the Italians have extended their front in this theatre by occupying Thanassi, Fasogon, and the Klorka heights in northern Epirus, near the Greek-Albanian frontier. When the allied advance does come, it will be in two columns at least, moving from Avlona and Saloniki.

want me. I desire to tell them all I know. "Why have you not answered the summons sent you from the public accounts committee and the Davidson Commission in the past?"

"The only request for my appearance which I received was from the Davidson Commission, answered by wire saying I would go to Ottawa when I was wanted."

"Are you going on to Ottawa this afternoon?" "No, I shall remain in Osgoensburg today and until I am wanted in Ottawa."

"Your absence and failure to appear have given rise to a good deal of talk in Canada."

"Has been Very ill. To this Col. Allison made no reply, but rather vigorously shrugged his shoulders. There is there a pause, he said: "I could not have come sooner in any event, I have been pretty sick."

"Do you contemplate modifying the statement which you made before Sir Charles Davidson that you would not realize a cent from any business done for Canada?"

"No, I do not intend to modify that statement. I did not make a cent out of what I did for Canada."

"What about profits from business which you placed for the Russian or the French Governments?"

Mr. Henderson intervened with the statement that he had promised Mr. Hellmuth that Col. Allison should not discuss with anyone matters which were to be enquired into by the Meridol-Durt commission, and Col. Allison did not directly answer the question.

"You stated to the Davidson commission that you had received from the purchase of pistols or revolvers from the Colt Company for Canada, and afterwards Mr. Stone of the Colt Company stated that he had tendered you a commission or gratuity and that you had taken half of it. It is fair to say that you had received for services which you had given the company in England and France, but he did not make it clear that it was not also to compensate you for what you had done in getting Canadian business for the Colt Company?" asked the interviewer.

"What was the sum you accepted from the Colts? Mr. Stone did not say."

"I do not remember, I could not state precisely. What I took from the Colt Company was less than half what they tendered me. I did not understand that any part of it was for what I had done in Canada."

"It has been said that you paid the Colts money for pistols and revolvers which they could have been obtained by dealers and by other governments."

"That is not correct. Canada got these pistols at a price because I am certain of that."

"How did you come to get into this business of supplying the British with arms for Canada in purchasing war supplies from the United States?"

"At the opening of the war General Hughes sent for me and asked me to go to the United States and see what could be obtained and especially to see that prices were kept down. I did this work for General Hughes, and I would do anything for him. He thought I could do the work and I tried to do it."

"Knew of No Pact. "In the house of commons a contract was read for a large fuse order agreement indicating that in anticipation of the war, the Canadian Government and the British Government had entered into a million dollar contract. Mr. Allison said he had never seen the contract or the agreement and that he knew nothing of them."

"There was another memorandum of agreement indicating that you, Lignanti and Cadwell might be dividing the $475,000 which was the share of 'Youakum.'"

"I never heard of it." "Have you received any profits out of the fuse contracts?"

"No." "Are you to receive any?" "I am not to receive a profit realized from the contract. So far I have received nothing. I am going to find out if there is anything coming to me."

"There was never any discussion of profits or profit-sharing between myself and General Hughes. Such a thing was not thought of between us. As I said before, General Hughes asked me to see where in the United States I could find orders for war supplies, and instructed me to see that the prices were kept down. That is all that I ever endeavored to do."

"Did Not Let Contracts yourself?" "No, I did not have the authority to let contracts. All that I was authorized to do was to ascertain where supplies, which were badly needed, could be obtained, and to see that the prices were reasonable. When I would report to General Hughes he would send me to the shell committee and they would accept or reject the offers as they chose. I also undertook at the opening of the war to get supplies from the United States by cable which was fear of an embargo which might prevent this."

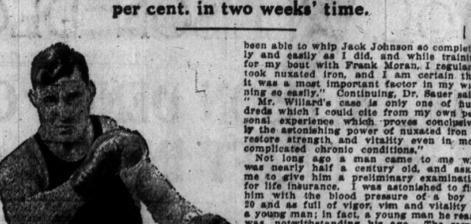

"What have you to say of Lignanti, the musician, and your relations with him?" "I did not know Lignanti as a musician but as a business man. Before the war he had relations with me concerning a fuel saving device, for which he controlled the patent. After the war began I received from him offers to supply steel munitions and war materials of various kinds. I think that I got most of these offers submitted them to the authorities for their acceptance or rejection."

"Were any of them accepted? Did any business result for Lignanti?" "I do not think so. I never heard

"I made no profit from any such transaction." You must have also at Ravigny when the 'Well, I did not.'"

"What were you doing the work for?" "I did the work because General Hughes asked me to do it. I would do anything for him."

"There is not a word of truth in any such report. What I did I did out of friendship for General Hughes. What he did he did for the British cause, I believe. There was absolutely no arrangement for a division of profits, and there were no profits to divide."
