ssc and 60c, but later you could buy all you wanted at the lower level.

Butter ran around 55c to 60c a pound, the some odd lots were sold at 50c, and good butter it was, too. An easier feeling was everywhere apparent, and if a man or woman failed to grasp the fact they were usually given the go-by and somebody else got a chanch to clear up. Taken all round, it was a good market.

Potatoes were selling retail at $1.25 a bag as a rule. On the tracks they are quoted at $1, and going out to the trade at from $1.15 to $1.20.

The poultry prices are very little changed with comparatives again the mand for the most part quiet.
