This institution has sustained during the year a very great loss, by the untimely death of the late Mr. Thomas Morland, who for the last eleven years faithfully discharged the duties of a member of the Committee of Management, and upon all occasions used his influence with his friends and the public to enlist support and sympathy for the Hospital.

For many years he was in the habit of paying every Tuesday a visit to the patients, saying a few kind words to them, and looking after their comfort.

So identified with this charity had his name become that soon after his decease a number of his and its friends subscribed and collected a considerable sum of money to be applied to the erection of a children's hospital, in connection with this institution, and to be called by his name, in commemoration of the interest he had always taken in its welfare.
