berths Nos. 2 and 3 at Sand Point was not sufficient for the large steamers coming to St. John. In the ordinary course of events this complaint reached the Dominion Public Works Department, and instructions were recently received here for careful soundings to be taken at these two berths. For the past four or five days, men employed from the office of the resident engineer have been taking the soundings. It was decided that while Nos. 2 and 3 berths were being attended to, the remainder of Sand Point might just as well be covered, so the whole wharf is receiving attention. Soundings will not be completed for at least a week, but from what have been taken so far, it is found Yesterday was a day which will long be remembered by yachtsmen who were on the river. In the afternoon a heavy gale sprung up and the yachts returning from up-river had a strenuous time in Long Reach where the water was unusually rough. Most of the boats were returning to the city with the sails well reefed.

completed for at least a week, but from what have been taken so far, it is found that the C. P. R. complaint was perfectly justified, and that the depths are not sufficient for the safe handling of the large boats. No definite report will be made for some little time, but it is altogether probable that the city will be called upon to do some further dredging at these berths before the opening of the winter season. The berths are supposed to have been deepened for a distance of 120 feet from the face of the wharf, but have been recently dredged to a distance of only 60 or 70 feet, and even within this area there are spots where the depth is not sufficient. The funeral of the late Charles Con-nell took place from the hospital yes-terday afternoon at 2.30. Rev. Father Meahan read the burial service in the Cathedral and interment was in Sand
