It is a Liter Fill.—Many of the aliments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, perculiar larly nucespitole to the disturbance that come from Irregular habits or lack of cars in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention to sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Fills Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

Free and easy expectoration immediately relieves and frees the throat and lungs from viscid phiegm, and a medicine that promotes this is the best medicine to use for coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs and all affections of the throat and chest. This is precisely what Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a specific for, and wherever used it has given unbounded satisfaction. Children like it because it is pleasant, adults like it because it relieves and cures the disease.

The Ticket Came Back,

A recent number of the Railway Journal contains a well authenticated story of a railway ticket which took a sudden journey on its own account.

As a north bound train on the Colorado and Southern road passed one of the stations a passenger in a torward car raised a window, and in an instant his ticket was blown from his hands out of doors. The passenger naturally gave it up for lost, and was very much surprised when the baggage master handed it to him a

It appears that when the ticket flew through the window a south bound train was passing. The suction of that train, which was moving at a rapid rate drew the ticket along with it, and as it passed the rear end of the north bound train it blew into the door of the smoking car. There it was found by the beggage master.

Dr. A. A. Cemmon, the English astron omer, in illustrating recently what the telescope and the microscope have done in extending the powers of vision, employed the following figures: Imagine the size of an eye, and therefore of a man espable of seeing in a natural way what the ordinary eye sees with the aid of a large telescope, and also the size of a man who could plain be assembly his network are about many and the see of the size of a man who could plain the second that the second sees and the second second

A bear story with an element of novelity related by Dr. J. Winslow Ayre in his " Life in the Wilds of America." The incident occurred on the Little Misseuri River Dokota.

A young Indian told, us one morning that he had seen an old bear and cub on the bluff of a small creek on the opposite side of the river. Several of the party at once took a small boat started in search of the game resolved to take the cub alive and keep it it for a pet.

They preceeded up the creek for a hunded yards or more. Then, hastily clambering up the bluff, they soon found the cub in a recess of the rocks, but the dam was not to be seen.

they were not in a bloodthirsty mood. By means of a rope they secured the cub without difficulty, but when they began to drag it down the cliff it made a noisy protest, and by the time the men entered the boat with their prize, they discovered the old bear bounding downward in pursuit. Just at the mouth of the creek a large rock projected over the water, and toward this point the bear advanced.

Several shots were fired at her, but not one took effect. The men thought that they could easily row away from her; but to their consternation just as they were abreast of the rock she sprang from the extreme point directly into the boat !

The celerity with which the gentlemen vacated the premises was really astonish ing. Over the side of the skiff and into the water they plunged and swam to land, regardless of guns and wet clothing. The situation was ludicrous, or would have been so to persons in a less perilous position.

Meantime the boat had acquired sufficient headway to carry it down the river in midstream, with the bear still in it. Later it drifted ashore and was recovered, but the bear had escaped.

The Catch About it.

The business of fire insurance seems to have been a good deal of a mystery to the niddle-aged Englishwoman who, according to the Leeds Mercury, called at an agent's office and said that she wished to insure her house.

'For how much?' asked the agent. 'Ob, for about two hundred pounds.'

'Very well. I'll come up and investi-

'I don't know much about insura she said.

'It's very simple, ma'am.'

'If I'm insured for two hundred pounds and the house is burned down, I get the money, do 19' 'Certainly.'

'And fhey don't ack who set it afire?' 'Oh, but they do. We shall want to know ail about it.

'Then you needn't come up,' she said, as sbe rose to go. 'I heard there was some catch about it somewhere, and now I see where it is.'
