ITALIANS GAIN MORE GROUND ON CARSO PLATEAU

Rome, via Paris, Aug. 6.—The following official statement was issued from the Italian general headquarters dated August 6, has been made public here:

There are no important events from any part of the front on which to report.

"On the Carso Plateau, however, we have been able to make further progress. We have taken 160 prisoners, one of them an officer."

"Last night one of our dirigibles bombarded the enemy's encampments around Lake Doberdo. It was shelled by artillery but returned safely to its shed."

"Another dirigible effectively bombarded the railroad junction of Opirna (northeast of Trieste). On its way back it was attacked by an Austrian Zeppelin, which dropped inflammable bombs upon it. Our dirigible succeeded by its fire in setting the Zeppelin on fire and returned to our lines unharmed."

Rome, Aug. 6.—An official statement today says:

"Last night one of our dirigible balloons flew over the Austrian fortress of Pola and threw bombs on several points that had previously been bombarded."

"For reasons which it has been impossible to establish the dirigible fell into the sea and its crew consisting of three officers and three men were made prisoners."

CAPTAIN OF SHIP LOADING AT DORCHESTER WAS GERMAN'S PRISONER

Dorchester, Aug. 4.—The Davidson Commission which was scheduled to meet in the County Court today was unable to open on account of a breakdown of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Railway which made it impossible for witnesses in certain parts of the county to get here.

The commission will open tomorrow morning at ten o'clock when witnesses from Pt. Elnin and other places in Westmorland county will be heard in reference to purchase of horses in the said county.

Sir Chas. Davidson and members of the commission were taken for a motor boat sail down the bay as far as Grindstone Island. On the return Sir Chas. and party visited the ship Wray Castle and were entertained by Capt. Sharpe, who gave an interesting account of his experience as a prisoner on a German warship. Capt. Sharpe's ship was torpedoed by Germans and he and his crew made prisoners. Capt. Sharpe protested against his treatment to German command until he was told he would be allowed to go to officers' mess, but he refused and said he would remain with his men and share their treatment.

WARSAW STORMY PETREL AMONG CITIES OF EUROPE

Dates from Latter Part of the Eleventh Century and Has Passed Through a Checkered and Stormy Career.

There is an appropriate, grim suggestiveness in the English form of the name of Poland's capital, the stormy petrel among cities figuring prominently in European political history, and which occupies therein a niche comparable in some respects to that of Constantinople itself. For the citizens of this country it has an especial interest, not so much as the perpetual deep well-spring of forces directed toward the freedom of Poland, or as the vestal virgin of the sacred fire of liberty in Europe, but from its identification with the name of the supreme national hero and ardent lover of universal freedom, who, in his twenty-fourth year, so gracefully and wholeheartedly threw himself into the revolutionary movement which culminated in the independence of this country.

Beautifully situated on a hill overlooking the western bank of the broad Vistula below its junction with the Pilica and the Weprz, and above its confluence with the Bug, Warsaw has for centuries been a great prize, an attractive object to the eye and heart of the world's conquerors. It is a city embellished with palaces, magnificent avenues unsurpassed in Europe, and public buildings containing priceless art treasures. Here are to be found two of the finest specimens of the work of Thorwaldson, the monument to Copernicus and the equestrian statue of King Poglowski. Its university, founded in 1817, suppressed in 1832 and re-established in 1869, has about 1200 students, and a library which still boasts some 400,000 books and manuscripts. The place it fills in the educational and national life of Poland is below, far below, that occupied by the University of Cracow, which, with a population only one-third that of the capital, has three times the attendance at its corresponding higher educational institutions, but knowledge is here imparted through the native tongue. The Roman Catholic Cathedral, dating from the thirteenth century and containing the tombs of many illustrious Poles, the Church of St. Alexander, built by Tsar Alexander I in 1832, and the Jesuit church of the Transfiguration, are magnificently adorned with sculpture and paintings. The national Valhalla is the Cathedral of Cracow, "the cathedral in which the sword of Poland has been sheathed and the shield of Kosciuszko." The citizens of those cities, and of the other artificial divisions of the country, are now compelled to fight against one another. Think of it!

Warsaw dates from the latter end of the eleventh, or the beginning of the twelfth century, becoming subsequently the residence of the powerful dukes of Masovia, and, in the middle of the sixteenth century, during the reign of Sigismund Augustus, superseded Cracow as the capital. In 1656 it was taken by the Swedes under Charles Gustav, who lost it the following year, and re-conquered it after the three days' bloody battle of July 28-30, 1656. Ten years later practically the whole country was in his hands, and retained for a brief period. Charles XII. of Sweden captured it in 1705, but in the following year peace was made, and it became free again. The seizing of the town by the Russians in 1764 was the precursor of the first partition of Poland, nine years later, between Russia and Prussia, being divided up again in 1793. The next year Warsaw was again taken by Russia after the bloody assault on Praga, the important historic, fortified suburb on the opposite side of the river. It was in this fatal year of 1794 that "freedom shrieked" when Tadeusz Kosciuszko was wounded and taken prisoner on Oct. 10 at Maciejowice, 50 miles up the Vistula, and Poland disappeared from the political map of Europe. The third and last partition, to date, was consummated by Russia, Prussia and Austria in 1795. Frederick William II, of

Arrested Last Night.

A telephone message was received in the police station last night at 10:30 o'clock that a woman was waylaid on the corner of King street east and Wentworth street. Inspector Wickham, with Detective Barrett and Patroleman Brigon hastened to the scene and arrested Vernon Thorne and charged him with assaulting and beating his wife. It was said that the couple having been living apart and last night Thorne followed his wife about the streets and finally assaulted her at the above place mentioned.

ture re-birth yet realize the cherished hope of Kosciuszko? Will Warsaw yet rise again as the proud, rejuvenated capital of a free country of an independent Fair Land of Poland? The answer lies on the laps of the gods.

WANTED EVERY AVAILABLE MAN.

Every available Farm Laborer in Canada is required in the West. At least fifty thousand helpers are wanted. The crops are enormous—high wages and months of steady employment for all. If the demand is to be met the East must supply thousands of these laborers. The question of the hour in Canada at present is that of harvesting the crops of the Western Provinces. Canada is now the Great Breadbasket of the world, and this year we cannot afford that an ounce of her yield shall go to waste. Let the farmers of the Maritime Provinces get their home work cleaned up quickly, and take the Winnipeg excursion trains leaving St. John August 17th and 24th. Twelve Dollars to Winnipeg.

Choose the name of any man who has become famous during the war, and make a sentence, the words of which commence with the letters in his name, in their correct order. Here is an example of what I mean: "Admiral Sturdee"—Seeing Troublesome Underwater Raiders, Drove Everyone Eastward.

I will give a valuable scouting book to the sender of what I consider the best sentence.

Send the scouts' contest coupon, correctly filled in, with your sentence, to Scout Editor, The Standard, St. John, N. B. All attempts must reach this office by August 12th, 1915.
