Some Great Mistakes That Are Made

"Good Roads Campbell" Condemns System of Statute Labor

Admirable Address of Deputy Minister of Railways Before Canadian Club Last Night—Advice to Aldermen—The Streets of St. John—Permanent Paving.

Thursday, June 9. In the course of an admirable address before the members of the Canadian Club last night, A. W. Campbell, deputy minister of railroads, or "Good Roads Campbell," as he is familiarly known in Ontario, told us some excellent advice about the building of highways in rural districts and incidentally about laying pavement in the streets of a city. There was a fairly large attendance, among the present being Mayor Frink, Ald. McGoldrick, Ald. Hayes, and Ald. Potts, City Engineer Murdoch and Street Director Winchester.

Mr. Campbell first dealt with the methods commonly used in the rural districts in making roads and which give such poor results for the labor and money expended. The chief trouble, he said, was that very often the roads were not built in the first place and the people were wasting their money and time in trying to repair what never existed. Very often quantities of gravel or broken stone were dumped in the centre of the road and the traffic caused these to sink and the process of repairing had to be gone through year after year. Then again ditches were often dug on each side of the road perhaps for its entire length, and no provision was made for an outlet anywhere. The natural consequence was that when it rained the ditches held their fill of water, and no more.

Then, again, in almost all rural roads there were weak spots passing through sloughs or swamps. Gravel was very often dumped into these places and he had seen in some parts of the country as much as three or four feet of gravel or stone in places, whereas had proper methods been employed in the first place one-third of the material and expenditure would have been saved.

Condemns Statute Labor.

The speaker went on to refer to the methods of appointing road commissioners and path masters. These, he said, should not be subject to the whims of the political party. They should be selected because of their suitability for the position and should be continued in it, because each year's experience made them all the better fitted to carry on the work of next year. The system of statute labor also came in for criticism. Often, Mr. Campbell said, a man would come on the road without adequate preparation. One would have horses and an ordinary wagon with a wagon box, but he would not be prepared to haul gravel or other material. Another would have a plough or a scraper, and when they came to the place where the work had to be done they would discover that they had no proper gear to attach the horse to the plough or scraper. That would have to be hunted up, and before this could be done the forenoon was gone.

Then again, he went on, some people seemed to think they were entitled to have a fairly good time when they went out to perform statute labor. They would sit on the side of the ditch and smoke and talk and at the end of the day go home without having done a thing. They would think that they had had a real good gossip anyway, and let the road "go hang." If other people could travel over it they could. Statute labor was a piece of humbug and he would not be prepared to haul gravel or other material. Another would have a plough or a scraper, and when they came to the place where the work had to be done they would discover that they had no proper gear to attach the horse to the plough or scraper. That would have to be hunted up, and before this could be done the forenoon was gone.

Learn, late as it is, that thou hast done this something higher and more virtuous than the objects that are the uses of passion, and, in general, drag the puppet-like whither they will.

HUNDREDS OF BARRELS OF POTATOES WILL BE DESTROYED, HE SAYS

B. Carvell, M. P., Tells of Severe Loss to Up River Farmers—Prices Very Low.

F. B. Carvell, M. P., of Woodstock, who was in the city yesterday en route home from Ottawa, speaks of the unprecedented low prices at which potatoes are, and have been, selling, as a severe financial blow to the farmers in the north of the province. Mr. Carvell says that many thousands of barrels of potatoes will be destroyed as worthless in Carleton and the neighbouring counties.

Potatoes, he says, are now bringing no more than fifty cents per barrel in Woodstock. This is the lowest price in the history of the potato trade in this country. It means a loss to the farmer of from one to two cents per bushel. The potatoes to the railroad if the farmers have a few miles from the line, and great quantities of potatoes are being sent out to the market. Mr. Carvell spoke of the fact that on his mother's farm, which he visited a few days ago, there are 400 barrels of the very best potatoes which will be thrown away. They are nine miles away from the railroad line.

Asked as to the Valley Railway survey, Mr. Carvell said that the surveying parties and members of the local government seemed to be very busy at it.

GENERAL FRENCH INSPECTS TROOPS AT HALIFAX

Banqueted by Sir Frederick Borden Wednesday Evening

Praises Canadian Soldiers, and Approves of Interchange of Officers for Drill—Sham Battle a Feature.

Halifax, June 8.—General Sir John French, who is here to inspect the military forces, witnessed the manoeuvres of the permanent troops at Halifax today in an attack on and defence of the forts. Afterwards Sir John inspected the fortification. In the evening he was given a dinner at the Wellington barracks by Sir Fred. Borden, minister of militia, the guests including the heads of the departments and a very few others, among whom was Dr. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor), of Winnipeg.

The inspector-general, in the course of a speech, in responding to a toast in honor, said that one of the important reasons for the interchange of officers was that there should be an interchange of officers, and this accounted for his being here. He was glad that a Canadian contingent would go to England this year for the annual manoeuvres. He said that though he had not had an appreciable opportunity of testing the war training of the troops, yet he had been greatly struck by their smart appearance and physique, and devoted a passage to the necessity for military defence, to properly safeguard the advantages of our material development, and to the fact that the interchange of officers was a very important matter.

A great advance had been made, he said, in the past few years in the efficiency of the Canadian militia.

KING MEDIATES IN BRITISH CRISIS?

ALEX. JOHNSTONE IS APPOINTED

Cape Breton Man Made Deputy of Marine and Fisheries

DESBARATS FOR NAVY

Government Likely to Call for Tenders for Canadian Naval Ships Next September or October—Will Follow Admiralty's Procedure.

Ottawa, June 8.—At today's meeting of the cabinet council, J. G. Desbarats, the present deputy minister of marine and fisheries, was appointed deputy minister of the new naval department, and Alex. Johnstone, ex-M. P. of Saint-John (C. B.), was appointed deputy minister of marine and fisheries in succession to Mr. Desbarats.

During his two years as deputy minister of marine and fisheries, Mr. Desbarats has given splendid service. His administrative ability and his absolute integrity have been unquestioned, and it is generally conceded that no better man could be appointed in charge of the work of organization of the new department and the creation of a new navy.

It is understood that several other members of the present marine and fisheries staff will be transferred to the new department, but further appointments will not be made for some time, as the work of organization and readjustment of positions will necessarily take some weeks.

Mr. Johnstone, the new deputy of marine and fisheries, was one of the ablest of the younger members of the last parliament and being a maritime province man, is already well acquainted with the needs and administration of the fisheries and marine services.

The naval department is now in correspondence with the admiralty relative to plans and specifications for the ships of the new Canadian navy. It is the intention to follow, as far as possible, the same method of procedure in calling for tenders, and in insuring the best possible and most economical construction of the vessels, as is adopted by the admiralty.

Tenders for the new vessels will probably be called for next September or October.

Wants Round Table Conference

Opposition Willing to Meet Government Half Way

Nationalists and Laborites Unwilling to Compromise on Any of Their Demands

More Press Tributes to Goldwin Smith.

London, June 8.—The Chronicle announces that a round table conference on the veto question is highly probable. It says there is reason to believe that the king earnestly desires a resolute effort to find a peaceful solution of the crisis should be made by both parties.

The Laborites strongly oppose the conference, on the ground that the government's proposals represent the irreducible minimum.

Hon. Walter Long's announcement that any suggestion for a conference of the constitutional question by the government would meet with a ready, willing and patriotic response by the opposition, coupled with this evening's intimation in the house of lords that Lord Rosebery's reform resolutions would not be proceeded with immediately, raised again the hopes of a settlement without an election. Such hopes, however, are not strongly held. The Liberal demands are clear cut and undoubtedly a majority of the party with the fishermen and Laborites will firmly demand both the veto and finance legislation must go.

It is reported that the coronation will probably take place either on June 21 or June 28 next year.

Hon. Mr. Asquith announced that Hon. Mr. Burns' salary is increased to £5,000. As an encouragement to thrift the post office saving bank department will provide for depositors "home safes" tenders for £5,000 have been invited.

Tributes to Goldwin Smith.

The Times, in the course of a three column article on Goldwin Smith, says he was almost unequalled among his contemporaries as master of English prose. He was perfectly free from party bias or bias in Canadian politics. He was a determined foe of political corruption and standing alone in prestige and intimate association with the great literary and political figures of a remarkable period in English history.

He wrote nothing that did not at once command an attentive hearing. He set and maintained a standard of literary excellence in Canadian journalism which was everywhere recognized and admired. He stood for purity in civic administration, for honor as the base of political conduct. Unscrupulous tools of party dragged the lash of his cutting satire. Even those who differed from him most read with interest and pleasure his brilliant periods but in spite of the charm of his style, and the strength of his convictions and the courage with which he expressed them and the general excellence of his intentions, he never gained the place of affluence in Canadian life to which he probably aspired and to which his abilities appeared to entitle him.

Sydney, N. S., June 7.—(Special.)—Speaking of Goldwin Smith, Mr. Justice Longley said—"Goldwin Smith was in many respects the most notable man in our history. He was among the most distinguished literary men in the world and his utterances on great public questions commanded universal interest throughout the English speaking world. A ripe scholar, a profound student of history, a master of style, his contributions to the press of the day enjoyed a circulation surpassed by few living men."

"Many superficial minds regarded him as erratic and his views and opinions inconsistent with current thought, but this is the penalty that true greatness always paid."

"He did not always conform to popular sentiment, but he thought more profoundly than most and history will indicate his foresight. He was my personal friend and the many days I have spent at the Grange are among the most satisfactory and delightful of my life. He was a charming friend, a great man and Canada has no one among her distinguished sons who can now equal him in intellectual power. His place in history is secure and it is an honor to Canada that he has lived among us."

The Guardian says—"Goldwin Smith was always one of those 'intellectuals' who did not remain silent when great principles were at stake in public affairs. A more earnest and sincere seeker after truth has not lived in our time."

The Yorkshire Post says—"Goldwin Smith's literary efforts have been a stimulus to students in all parts of the world. The Westminster Gazette says that throughout the English speaking world the passing of Prof. Smith will be noted as the disappearance of one of the really conspicuous figures of his time. He was a brilliant controversialist, who gave and received strokes with the same zest. He had tried to see the sharpness of his sword-play often, and his popularity expanded until he became almost an object of veneration among the Canadian people, with whom he had cast his lot."

The Pall Mall Gazette says—"Goldwin Smith was one of the most brilliant and most deadly wielders of the pen that modern times have seen. The keen, logical, witty sarcasm, bright charm of humor in word and thought which played around the sting were the best kind of rapier play whatever the cause it was at which Smith was striking. In slavery, Irish nationalism, imperial federation, or any other cause, he was immediately and brilliantly at the point of the pen, and the brilliant neatness of the blow was admired even by the party that it smote under the fifth rib."
