

Q. Did you have a telephone?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you get your employment from?

A. Local farmers in the district.

Q. Did you make any money with this truck?

A. Not very much, sir.

Q. How much would you say you averaged a month, clear of expenses?

A. I couldn't say, sir.

Q. Would it be 25 dollars a month or 50 dollars a month or 100 dollars a month?

A. About 50 dollars a month.

Q. How much money were you making off the farmers? -- How much money were you making off the farm?

A. Not very much, sir. It was not a very big farm.

Q. What would you say your average income was, per month, in 1939?

A. It wouldn't amount to very much more than 80 or 90 dollars per month.

Q. Did you own your own farm?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who owned the farm?

A. Jim Kerr.

Q. How did you come to be in possession of this farm?

A. Had the farm on shares, sir.

Q. Did any part of this 85 dollars, or 80 or 90 dollars per month have to be turned over?

A. No, sir. It was my own share.

Q. You could apply that money in any way you saw fit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know -- Had you known your present wife very long before you married her?

A. I knew her in school.

Q. Did you marry your wife before or after Canada declared war?

A. After war had been declared.