

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

The fall elections in the United States were this year unattended by any particular excitement. The vote polled in most cases was decidedly light. In New York the Democrats obtained an easy victory for their State ticket, upon which they were solidly united. They also made very remarkable gains in New Jersey and Wisconsin. In Pennsylvania the most remarkable feature in the contest was the strength developed by Wolfe, an Independent Republican candidate for the State Treasurership, who polled 75,000. Large as was the vote given this candidate the Democrats failed to elect their nominee. In Virginia the contest was a scramble between the Democrats, Readjusters and Republicans, resulting in a victory for the Readjusters. In the other States the relative strength of parties was not changed by the elections. Congress will soon meet and the new President submit his first message. It will be looked forward to with a great deal of interest. The late elections show that the country is prepared to give him a fair trial, but if his policy prove a failure, if by close alliance with machine politicians he offend the public sense of right, he may expect a complete defeat for his party in the Congressional and gubernatorial contests of November, 1882.

JOHN B. PIET & CO.

We are pleased to know that this extensive Catholic Publishing House has reduced the price of all books held in stock by them 35 per cent. Their catalogue is extensive and varied, and the reverend clergy and others who may wish to procure any books will appreciate the new departure taken by the house to meet the prevailing competition. We hope this will be the beginning of a more widespread diffusion of Catholic reading matter. Send for catalogue to John B. Piet & Co., Baltimore, Md.

THE LATE MGR. CAZEAU.

Subscriptions are being received for the proposed cross and tablet to the memory of late Mgr. Cazeau, of Quebec. Friends are requested to send their contributions at once to Very Rev. Mr. Legare, V. G., or Mr. M. F. Walsh, City Accountant.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The cable news of Monday informed us that at a banquet Earl Spencer, Lord President of the Council, said: "Every Irish grievance will be redressed. We shall extend to the Irish all the privileges and liberty we possess, but we are willing to shed our blood against the repeal of the Union." These are strong words. Earl, very strong words. Some years ago there were many noble ears who were prepared to shed their blood rather than see the Catholic Emancipation Bill pass, but when the time for action arrived they looked up the shield. But is it not refreshing to witness the impudence of these men of great titles? We will extend to the Irish all the privileges and liberty we possess! Thanks, noble earl, many thanks! How grateful the Irish people should be for such condescending patronage. But we forget. Some allowance should be made for the inflations of a banquet.

The following is a specimen of the "stuff" that the "Boy Preacher" Harrison is giving his Protestant congregations. "The horse was pale, and the rider thereof was death!" [Sobs.] The rich man heard his foot on the hill. He heard him shake the door. "Wife! wife!" he cries, "keep him out! keep him out!" Less than ten minutes before the rich man had said: "Soul, take thine ease!" But the rider came in and put his hand upon him. The rich man said: "This must be death! Oh! death go away! Go away until I am baptized! Go away until I hear John! until I get religion!" Oh! death, death, death, death, death, death, death! I keep off from me until I am saved!" [Sobs and tears all through the congregation.] But no! God said: Thy soul is this night required of thee. God said: Required!—More than that he called him a fool. Good God! Save us from this! [Cries of yes, yes, amen.] There is no time now to pray; I am going to judge you. There is no time to be baptized; you are coming to judgment.—You have no time to seek religion; I am waiting to damn you! Thy soul is this night required of you—and he was gone!

The Philadelphia American thus views the present outlook in Ireland:—"The English dispatches point with some exultation to the immense amount of business pending in the land courts created by the Irish Land Act, as a proof of the success of that measure. It is quite true that there have been many applications for decision as to a fair rent, especially in Ulster, where the Land League has little influence. But, after all, the aggregate of applications amount to but something between two and three per cent. of the rank absurdities of the bill is that it creates some half dozen courts to decide half a million of law-suits. If even no more than a very small percentage made use of the law, the courts will find themselves quite unequal to getting through all the cases which will be brought before them, and if a majority should apply the work will never be done." The figures thus far neither prove nor disprove the failure of Mr. Parnell's "No Rent" manifesto. We infer its failure from more general considerations than these statistics of business in the courts.

HAMILTON LETTER.

Formation of Societies—New Appointments—Hard Roads to Travel—A very obnoxious by-law—A case of Diamond cut Diamond—Unnecessary Alarm—Dundas Items—Insane Swindling—Miscellaneous.

NEW SOCIETIES. Rev. Father O'Leary in St. Mary's, and Rev. Fr. Craven in St. Patrick's, are meeting with much encouragement in their efforts to form societies for young men and boys. Membership in such societies is a great help towards preserving young people in the way of moral rectitude. By entering at an early age, a taste for the rules and practices of the society is acquired, which grows stronger with advancing years, and tends powerfully to secure a moral and religious mature life.

CLERICAL. Rev. P. J. Maddigan, for a long time parish priest of Walkerton, has been appointed by his lordship the bishop to a similar position at Caledonia. The Rev. P. Lennon, who previous to his recent visit to Europe was curate to the Very Rev. Dean O'Reilly of Dundas, has been appointed to Walkerton. Both reverend gentlemen lived for many years in this city and distinguished themselves by their carrying off of their friends and parishioners into the arms of the Holy Trinity. It may not be inappropriate to state that Caledonia is the place where Father Maddigan spent his youth, so that he will have the pleasure of laboring for the spiritual benefit of others amid scenes made dear to him by early associations.

THE STREETS. The streets in the city are in a very bad condition. Many of those not macadamized are almost impassable for vehicles, those that have a thick surface of mud, while the four streets, King, Main, York and Jarvis, that are least in need of this respect, being taken up by railways, are very inconvenient for traffic. No particular blame can be attached to the authorities for this state of affairs under the present system of road-keeping. What the city needs is a more complete sewerage, a better means for carrying off surface water, and new streets. These would involve new items of expenditure, but the money would be well spent, and be more beneficial to the city at large than the purchase of sewers for which some persons so anxiously cry out.

BUILDING BY-LAW. The contractors and builders are up in arms against the by-law recently passed by the city in regard to new buildings. The law declares that partition walls must be twelve inches thick, while builders who have been making them but nine say that the former thickness is unnecessary. Persons who intend to build and who are anxious of doing so with little expense as possible of course coincide with the opinion of the builders. A movement is on foot to send a petition to the council to have the obnoxious portions of the afore-said by-law removed.

POLICE TROUBLES. The turmoil in police matters has not yet settled. The chief, who successfully brought an accusation against one of the detectives and had him removed, has been himself brought to the bar to answer certain charges laid against him by the discharged officer. He is accused of negligence of duty, of violence in the recovery of stolen money, of unwarranted destruction of police records, and of other illegal actions. The authorities are dealing with the case elaborately and with much deliberation, but the general opinion is that the ex-detective, by having the sympathy of many, will hardly be successful.

WOLF! WOLF! The cry that the Fenians are coming is again being circulated through the land, and even our Hamilton papers are not above taking it up. If they are in earnest about this matter, better authorities than those which they quote should be given; but if it is spoken of only in levity there is a likelihood that public confidence in such statements will become weak. Not many years ago this city was thrown into a state of the greatest excitement at the death hour of night by the report that a Fenian armada was approaching the Burlington canal; while the inhabitants of a lone farm house not many miles away were wildly alarmed at what they supposed to be the attack of Fenian cavalry; but when it was discovered that in one case it was only a lumber barge and in the other a poor forlorn cow, some people felt exceedingly chagrined.

MISCELLANEOUS. The movement in favor of establishing a Coffee Tavern in Hamilton still drags its slim length along. Advertising the sale of stock is the latest stage at which it has arrived.

Our Fire Brigade is rapidly acquiring lightning speed in its movements. It can now turn out, ready for work, on eight seconds' notice. Saturday last fully sustained its reputation as a bad-weather day. It rained from early morning until beyond mid-day to the deep disgust of farmers, merchants and housekeepers. The Insane Asylum on the mountain has been suffering from dishonest practices. A suspicion to that effect has existed in the minds of the authorities for several weeks, and a few days ago the suspicion was realized. Several persons were arrested, including the steward of the Asylum and a well-known butcher of this city. An employee of the latter turned Queen's evidence, and his testimony has astonished the public, who hitherto fully believed in the honesty of the accused parties.

DUNDAS ITEMS.

The recent great fire has forced a large portion of the business of this town from King to Main street. The burnt district has a gloomy appearance, and it is particularly noticeable on Saturday to anyone emerging from the stir and bustle of Main street into the almost dead silence of this section of the town.

This cheerful aspect, however, is not to remain much longer. Tenders have been let for the building of a substantial block of stores and work on the foundations have been already commenced.

The manufacturing business is flourishing in Dundas sufficiently so to attract skillful workmen even from Hamilton. The cheerless aspect, however, is not to remain much longer. Tenders have been let for the building of a substantial block of stores and work on the foundations have been already commenced.

The manufacturing business is flourishing in Dundas sufficiently so to attract skillful workmen even from Hamilton. The cheerless aspect, however, is not to remain much longer. Tenders have been let for the building of a substantial block of stores and work on the foundations have been already commenced.

CLANCAILL.

LETTER FROM SARNIA.

THE MISSION.

On Sunday evening, the 16th inst., the mission which had been preached during the week by Fathers Miller and McNeerney, of the Redemptorist Order, closed successfully. The religious exercises prescribed by the good Fathers were attended by a large number of people, and the evening devotions especially brought together most if not all the members of the congregation. During the time of the mission the church was scarcely empty. So great was the religious fervor of the people that the church was literally crisscrossed from front to back till ten o'clock p. m. Over 600 received Holy Communion, and most of these made the Jubilee at the same time. The sermons and instructions were of a very high order, and many points of Catholic doctrine were clearly and satisfactorily explained. The mission platform, erected in front of the sanctuary, the reverend fathers delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners, and portions of his discourse were so pathetic that many in the church were moved to tears. A large number of people, and the reverend fathers, delivered their instructive discourses, every word of which was listened to with the greatest possible attention and respect. Father Miller's sermon on Sunday evening was exceedingly powerful, and being the last of the mission, the church was densely crowded, many having to stand in the aisles for want of sitting room. For over an hour the eloquent speaker enlivened the hearts of his listeners