THE EDITOR AND THE SHOE-MAKER. One day an editor, hard at work trying to devise a plan to make delinquent sub-cribers pay their dues, was called upon by a shoemaker, who dropped in to give the editor some valuable hints on running a newspaper. The editor, overjoyed at the opportunity, gave the man his best cane-bottomed chair, handed him a fresh cigar and listened attentively. Quoth the shoe-maker as he lit the weed: "Your paper eeds a hundred improved features. You seeds a hundred improved features. You win't grasp the topics of the day by the right handle; you don't set the locals in the right kind of type; your telegraph news is too thin; even the paper itself is poorly manufactured, not thick enough end of too chalky a white. You don's run enough matter, and what you do nun ain't of the right sort. Your ideas about protective tariff are foolish and your stand on the Conkling matter was had, had. I tell the Conkling matter was bad, bad. I tell you these things because I want you to sout these things because I want you to succeed, I tell you as a friend. I don't take your paper myself, but I see it once in a while; and, as a paper is a public affair, I suppose I have as good a right to citicise as anybody. If a man wants to you me in fact."

"That's exactly it," said the editor, ndly; "I always bad a dim idea of my ortcomings, but never had them so early and convincingly set forth as by at. It is impossible to express my atitude for the trouble you have taken, to only to find out these facts, but to int them out also. Some people, nowing all these things perhaps nearly as ell as you, are mean enough to keep em to themselves. Your suggestions me in a most appropriate time; I have santed somebody to lean on, as it were, for some weeks. Keep your eye on the maper, and when you see a weak spot, come up.?

The shoemaker left, happy to know hat his suggestions had been received in such a spirit. Next day, just as he was flushing a boot, the editor came in and, picking up the mate, remarked: "I want to tell you how that boot strikes me. In the first place, the leather is poor; the stitches in the sole are too wide apart and in the uppers too near the edge. Those uppers will go to pieces in two weeks. It's all wrong, my friend, putting poor leather in the heels and smoothing it over with grease and lampblack. Everybody complains of your boots; they don't last; the legs are too short, the toes too nar ow and the it step too high. How you can have the cheek to charge twelve dollars for such boots beats me. Now, I tell at this as a friend, because I like to see a succeed. Of course I don't know ore about shoemaking than you do about a newspaper, but still I take an in-terest in you because you are so well dis-posed to me. In fact—"

Here the exasperated cobbler grabbed a lap-stone, and the editor gained the streets tonowed by old knives, pincers, hammers and awas sent after him by the wrathful vho, on regaining his seat, re marked that no impertment, lop-eared idiot should ever come round trying to teach him his trade.-Carson (Neb.) Feeble Ladies.

Those languid, tiresome sensations causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its elasticity; driv-ing the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permanently removed. Will you need this?-Cincinnati Saturday Night.

STORIES OF ANDREW JACKSON.

When Jackson was President, Jimmy O'Neil, the Irish doorkeeper of the White House, was a marked character. He had his foibles, which often offended the fastidiousness of the President's nephew and diousness of the President's nephew and secretary, Major Donelson, who caused his simisal on an average of about once a week. But on appeal to the higher court the verdict was always reversed by the good nature of the old General. Once, however, Jimmy was guilty of some flagrant offence, and, being summoned before the President himself, was thus addressed: "Limmy Lhave horse with you for years "Limmy Lhave horse with you for years" "Jimmy, I have borne with you for years in spite of all complaints; but this goes beyond my powers of endurance." "And in spite of all complaints; but this goes beyond my powers of endurance." "And do you behave the story?" asked Jimmy. "Certainly," said the General; "I have just heard it from two Senators." "Faith," retorted Jimmy, "if I believed all that twenty Senators say about you, it's little I'd think you was fit to be President." 'Pshaw, Jimmy," concluded the General, "clear out, and go brek to your duty, but be more careful hereafter." Jimmy not only retained his place to the close of only retained his place to the close of Jackson's Presidential term, but accom-panied him back to the Hermitage, and was with him to the day of his death

General Jackson had very little love or taste for poetry, his favorite author being Dr. Issac Watts, from whose "Psalms and Hymns" he used to make his selections for the inscriptions in the ladies' albums which were once so fashionable, when they were sent him with a request for his autograph.

It is said that, while President, he never drank any aident spirits. This was corroborated by his negro servant, who said that "Massa Jackson no drink rum, but den he drink his coffee strong enough to kill the debbil."

Sisters of Mercy who Nurse Lepers.

A Bolton, England, newspaper, in remarking on "the dreadful but common disease of leprosy," by which so many persons die in Trinida", pays the following homage to Catholic nuns: "they (the lepers) are attended in the most devoted and loving manner by French Catholic Sisters of Mercy, who have given up all—friends, home, pleasure, everything— -friends, home, pleasure, everythingand have come out to an almost deadly climate to attend these poor creatures afflicted with the most horrible disease that it is possible to conceive. I cannot speak too highly of the devotion of these truly saintly women. I feel it a duty and a pleasure to testify to the earnest, loving layor of the Roman Catholic Church in the island of Trinidad, and especially would I wish to say that more complete self-sacri-fice, more total self-forgetfulness, more noble surrender to a painful, arduous duty cannot possibly be conceived than that shown by the Sisters of Mercy laboring in the leper hospital of Trinidad.

What to Study.

Pope, the poetical philosopher, said, The proper study of mankind is man. and yet, how little is the real science of man studied. If people understood and heeded the laws of health, and if when out of sorts would resort to a common sense like Burdock Blood Bitters, many of the "ills that flesh is heir to" might be effect-ually remedied. chronic diseases should read the following from Rev. John Gregory, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, at Pittston,

My Dear Sir:- Having at various time personally, and in my own and other fam-lies, tested the great value of the medicine called Peruvian Syrup or Protected Solution of Protoxide of Iron, I most cheerfully recommend it, especially to those who are suffering from dyspeptic and nervous disorders. As a reliable and powerful alterative, it is, I think, unsurpassed; and as a tonic, free from all the objectionable features of alcoholic rem es, it is a most efficient auxiliary to the temperance cause. One of the greatest hindrance to the temperance reform at present is, as I think, the medical use of alcoholic stimulants. Whatever may be argued as to their necessity in certain cases, we have, in the PERUVIAN SYRUP, a safe and efficient substitute for those danger-ous remedies. This testimony is given unsolicited, with the hope that some who are not yet acquainted with the valuable properties of the medicine may be induced to give it a trial.

ARREST OF LAND LEAGUE ASSES.

The Kilmovee Land League were to hold their usual weekly meeting after Mass at the rooms on Sunday, when they were informed that the police would prevent the meeting. The ladies met, as prevent the meeting. The ladies met, as usual, in o e apartment. In the meantime the boys of the neighbourhood collected twelve asses, and put them in occupation of the League room. Shortly after Sergeant Donahy and a sub., named Minnogue, visited the room. The ass la-hed, and hit the sergeant on the knew whereon he hit the sergeant on the knee, whereon he turned out limping, with tears in his eyes, and in the greatest disgust, in the presence of a large crowd of people, who groaned vehemently, and cheered on the other hand thet the battle was won, as the asses in Kilmovee had joined the League.

How An Artist Treated His Visitor. To the Editor of the Salem (Mass.) Register—I would have accepted your kind invitation to visit you in your new quart-ers with pleasure before this, had not my old enemy, Mr. Rheumatism, pounced on me so suddenly. He arrived last Friday, and, without stopping to send up his card, rushed in and grasped me by the hand with such a grip thatina few hours myhand and wrist were so badly swollen and painful that I felt as though one of Mr. Hatch's coal teams had run over me. Mr. Rheumatism has been a constant visitor of mine for several years; always swells and puts on a great many airs and makes him self at home, devouring my substance and leaving me poor in flesh and pocket. Last winter he came and staid two months I then made up mymind that the next time he came I would change his diet, as he has always gobbled down everything set has always gobbled down everything set before him. I was somewhat at a loss what to feed him with, but finally con-cluded to give him three square meals a day of St. Jacob's Oil—morning, noon and night. This fare he is disgusted with, and is packing up his trunk and will leave by to-morrow or next day; says he cannot stop any longer, as he has press-ing business elsewhere. He is a treacherous fellow, and I have no doubt he in-tends visiting some of our Salem friends; if he does just give him the same fare that I did and he won't stop long. J. S. LEFAVOUR.
