HOSPITAL BOMBING

COSTS LIFE OF A CATHOLIC CHAPLAIN

London, June 22, 1918.—The War continues to take its sad toll of the clergy, and there is nothing more wonderful in the stories of battlefields than the heroic deaths of the Catholic priests in the discharge of their duty. Among such is the death of a young priest of thirty, Father Charles Whitefoord, chaplain to the forces, and formerly of the diocese of Shrewsbury. Father Whitefoord was received into the Catholic Church in France, in the Cathedral of Chartres, and it was in France that be laid down his life most nobly. In November, 1916, he was commissioned chaplain, and went out to France to take up his Since that time he had been at his post, facing danger and death continually, and at last, dur-ing the recent great offensive on the western front, while ministering to the wounded and dying men in the thick of the battle, he fell mortally wounded. He was carried to the cerps main dressing station, where he received the last Sacraments at the hands of a fellow chaplain, then he was taken to the casualty clearing station. The German planes came over and bombed the hospital, and when the priest who had administered the last Sacraments to Father Whitefoord called to see him he found the hospital a heap of ruins, and in the ruins was the undiscovered body of the dead priest.

The other victim of a German bomb in France is Father Baines, formerly a professor at Ushaw, and before joining the army a curate at a Liverpool Catholic church. Father Baines also met his death in the discharge of his duties. The Germans were bombing the place where he was, and looking out of the window Father Baines saw some Portuguese soldiers knocked down and mortally wounded by bombs. He was just going out to give the last rites of the Church to the men he too was caught by a bomb and killed instantly.

The Abbe Barbier, a young French priest of thirty one, a former pro-fessor at the Petit Seminaire at Conflans, near Paris, was crushed to death by the bursting of a shell over the dugout where he was assisting the wounded. Abbe Barbier entered the French army in 1915 as a soldier, and was promoted to the rank of sergeant. Later on he was relieved of his duties as a combatant, and was appointed second chaplain to his regiment, and it was as a chaplain that he met his death. The Abbe Nourisson, of the diocese of Paris, also met his death in action in May, and about the same time the Abbe Richard who was curate of Ivry, and was serving in the army as sergeant in an infantry regiment, was killed in action in Belgium.

Numerous instances are cited of the gallantry of the priests in the face of the enemy. Among those mentioned in the dispatches of General Plumer for their services with the troops in Italy are the following military chaplains: Father James Stack, C. SS. R.; Father Henry C. McGinity, S. J., and Father Robert J. Mc liment. In the dispatches of General Haig are mentioned these anadian chaplains: Lieut. Col. the Rev. F. L. French, who has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order, and the Rev. H. E. Letang of the diocese of Pembroke.

Among the recent awards to the the French Legion of Honor are the names of the following clergy, two of whom are serving with the colors as combatants :

Jean-Benoit Dutang, lieutenant in the 15th battalion of chasseurs (Abbe Dutang, a student at the Grand Semi naire of Belley). An officer of the first order. Has distinguished him-self in all combats by his remarkable courage and coolness. From the 15th to the 27th of October, 1916, kept his men together under a violent and persistent bombardment, in spite of heavy losses. Though himself severely wounded, he continued to give an example of the finest spirit, and only allowed himself to be taken to the hospital after he had given an account of the situation to his captain, who was then in command.

Regis Clery, captain of the 128th infantry (the Abbe Clery, vicaire of St. Pierre de Montrouge, Paris). An officer of courage and determination. The commander of his battalion having been put out of action at the beginning of an attack, he took over the command and continued the advance across the German lines, taking numerous prisoners. When the operation was over, he brought back his men in perfect order under a violent fire, being himself the last to eave the enemy's position. Twice wounded and three times mentioned. The Abbe Eugene R. C. Nicolas, chaplain to the stretcher bearers of a division. Has shown several times admirable coolness and unwearying devotion, assisting the wounded and going into the most exposed places to encourage the men. Has given the finest example of courage and heedlessness of danger. Has been mentioned four times.

CONDITIONAL BAPTISM

A correspondent writes asking us why the Church gives conditional Baptism. We may answer in the words of "Catholic Belief:"

been the case, what they received before as Baptiam was not really Baptism, either for want of intenuttered, or on account of some serious fault in the administration; and to obtain full information about every case is almost an impossibility."

If a priest is thoroughly convinced been validly bapthat a person has been validly bap-tized he may omit conditional Baptized he may omit conditional Bap-tiem. If, on the other hand, the priest is certain that a person is not priest is certain that a person is not that they may not be drawn away from their loving mother the Church. tism unconditionally. As the author of "Catholic Belief" says, condition al Baptism is given for safety's sake, Baptism administered by a Pro-testant may be valid, but owing to the laxity of belief among Protestants in the necessity of Baptism it is often to be feared that their administration is invalidated by irregularity of form or lack of right intention.

THE CALUMNIATORS OF THE CHURCH

A STATEMENT BY POPE BENEDICT

In reply to an address from Cardinal Ferrari and the Bishops of Lom bardy the Holy Father has sent an autograph letter of which the following is a translation:

To our beloved Son and Venerable Brothers, health and the Apostolic Benediction. In the profound sorrow of the present time the collective letter which you sent us on the 25th of April last has brought us no small comfort. In and upholder of justice."

Over and above the unutterable precedent and threatens to drag poor Europe down into the abyss, much grief is caused us by the insidious and crafty campaign of calumny and hatred against our person and our work, while we could conscientiously bethad in bethad in its blood, in the words of Sacred Scripture; "What is there that I Scripture;

After the outbreak of this conflagration which for the good of all we would never be turned aside." could have wished might be averted. as far as was in our power we missed no opportunity of doing or attempting anything that might soften and miligate the terrible consequences. More than once and especially in the Consistorial allocution at the begin-ning of 1915 and again more explicit-ly in the other of December 4 in the brothers, you know well the crazy and assurd calumnies which, under many and varied forms, publicly and secretly, by word of mouth and in writing, are being spread everywhere. In the country and the villages, where sorrow is deepest and on that account more deserving of regard and respect, it is being said that we desired the War; in cities, on the other hand, it is spread about that we desire peace, but an unjust peace which would be an advantage only to one of the belligerent groups. And our words are so twisted, our thoughts and intentions so suspected, our silence with regard to this or that misdeed is a secondal park were spent in writing his memorirs, "Fifty Years in the Catholic Church." He died in his eightieth year. Annid these sad and solemn happenings is to be mentioned like-wise the bright and auspicious event of the recent enthronement of Bishop Dougherty of Buffalo, as Archbishop of Philadelphia, July 10, with his Eminence Cardinal Gibbons officiating. At the same time the annuccement is made of the consecration, at St. Joseph's Cathedral, Buffalo, July 25, of the Reverend Thomas J. Walsb, D. D., as Bishop of Trenton, N. J. The ceremony thoughts and intentions so suspected, our silence with regard to this or that misdeed is so scandal ously misinterpreted, as if in such a state of uncertainty and when passion is so fercely aroused it were easy or even cassible to inflict single condemns. possible to inflict single condemna-tions on single facts which by a con-

This has been carefully distributed throughout the different departments and certainly makes the list very attractive for the Exhibitors, in the lowest devices of persecutors and information. ive from the Exhibitors' standpoint.

The Live Stock Department should draw a large entry as the prizes are and bring them into the courts. And really worth while and a win at so at the very moment when Italy London's Exhibition means considerable. If you have not received a and concord among all citizens, the enemies of religion, actually taking advantage of this unhappy time, are striving to stir up the ignorant and simple multitude against this seat of truth and justice, against the clergy, against the Catholics, sowing the seeds of discord among the different social classes. But though this perverse campaign causes us deepest sorrow, still it does not surprise us or discourage us; much less does it enfeeble us. Far from it. Called by the hidden coun-sels of Divine Providence to govern the Church, we have profound feelwords of "Catholic Belief:"

"Conditional Baptism is, as a rule, administered for safety's sake ing of our duty to defend its sanctity and safeguard its honor. And there are conjust this diffusion of calum. on their reception into the Church, from the fear, that, as sometimes has with you, beloved son and venerable brethren, protest anew with the voice of our Divine ministry, and we tion, or on account of some defect in the element used, or in the words not only of the faithful but of all honest men wherever honest men may be found.

It is your duty, and that of all the other bishops and the clergy, and especially of the priests who have the care of souls, to guard the Christian people against the enemies of the faith; it is our duty to let the but remain ever closely united to it and to its supreme pastor who has been constituted by God Himself guardian of the truth, minister of justice and charity, anchor of hope,

SIX RECENT EVENTS OF INTEREST

Many events of peculiar interest to American Catholics have been crowded together within the last two weeks. The first to be noted is the death, on July 5, of Cardinal Sebastian Martinelli, formerly Apostolic Delegate to the United States, who succeeded Cardinal Satolli to that your meeting, as those responsible claimed Cardinal at the Consistory for the government of the Church in of April 15, 1901, while still in this the province of Lombardy, you at country, and returned to Rome in once felt that "the father could not be absent from a meeting of the be absent from a meeting of the the United States. In addition to that, with exhortations, public prayers, explatory functions, with proposals for a just and lasting peace, we studied to bring nearer the end of this awful slaughter. In spite of that, beloved son and venerable brothers, you know well the crazy and assurd calumnies which, under many and varied forms, publicly and "Fifty Years in the Cethelic".
