

Japan Tea In Canada.

Canadian imports of Japan Tea this year, up to October 18, show a marked increase with the corresponding period a year ago.

The total shipments to the Dominion for the first nine months of '97 amounted to about 7,500,000 compared with the same period in '98, when it was 9,009,000 pounds, showing the enormous increase of over 1,500,000 pounds.

This is only one of the many convincing arguments that the pure, rich and delicious teas of Japan are pulling ahead year after year, and that the tea drinkers of Canada are not slow to appreciate a good thing such as these teas.

Two-thirds of the tea consumed in Canada in 1898 came from JAPAN.
