Use Canadian Soldiers For Cutting Forests

Axemen From Dominion Contingent to Make Clean Sweep of Scottish Timber

Glasgow, Sept 15—Thousands of acres of timber will fall to the woodman's axe during the next few months. It is a century and a half since the larger proprietors of the North of Scotland began planting, and Gordon, Pife, Cawdor, Moray, and Lovat all carried on afforestation. This practice continued till about fifty years ago. So that some thousands of acres north of the Grampians are ready for cutting. The Government have selected a large area of timber on the Darnaway and Cawdor estates, and formed a body of Canadians to carry out the work. These men have been selected from the various divisions of the Canadian contingent for their knowledge and experience in timber-cutting and saw-milling. A camp for three hundred men has been set up at Broadshaw, on the southern edge of the Cawdor estate, where it runs with Darnaway, and these men are to clear the timber to Culloden, a distance of between fifteen and twenty miles.

Saw Mill Running

At present only a small saw-mill is running, driven by a large traction engine removed from its wheels. The timber cut is all being used to prepare the camp, and a large Canadian mill outfit is being built. When this is completed the trees will be dragged in whole and passed along from bench to bench as they are cut up. In felling the trees are nicked with the axe on the side to which they are to fall, and then they are cut close to the ground with a saw. The men show smart axeword in clearing and cutting up the branches. As the ground is soft logs are being drawn to the mill on sledges and a strong steam winch on a sledge is used for the same purpose. The winch drags itself into position, and, being fixed there, hauls the timber forward to a position where it can be taken to the mill.

The wood being cut is sixty-five years old, and compares well with Canadian timber. The men say that it is similar in growth to what is being cut in Eastern Canada, but is of harder fibre.

The men work in two shifts one from five in the morning to two in the afternoon, with an hour off from nine to ten; the next shift goes on at 2, and works till 11, with an hour off from 6 to 7. The men handling the cut timber, where splinters may injure the hands, wear gloves to protect them.

Other camps of Canadians are at work in Rosshire. The north of Scotland is to be swept of its timber, and in the near future there must be a great scarcity. Among the subjects to be considered after the war will be that of afforestation.

Has Seventeen Relatives In King's Service

Remarkable Record of One Family of Nova Scotia Warriors

(From N. S. Highlander.)
 From Mr. Robert Gass, Shubenacadie, N. S., The Nova Scotia Highlander has received an interesting letter together with a list of his relatives, including, daughter, sons, cousins and nephews who are serving King and Country. Two sons and a cousin are in the 85th Battalion and a nephew in the 193rd Battalion, Nova Scotia Highland Brigade. These, taken with the other relatives serving, make the extraordinary total of 17 relatives of one Nova Scotian; and since Mr. Gass is an indefatigable recruiter, he also serves, independently in his way, but no less truly.

Recruits From Hudson's Bay

Indians Travel Three Weeks and 200 Miles in Canoes to Join Colors

Ottawa, Sept. 15—From the remote regions of Hudson's Bay, Mr. C. M. McCarthy, of Elk Lake, has just returned from a recruiting expedition and brings with him 50 Indians who are to join the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

With four Indian guides, who spoke three native languages, and a doctor to conduct medical examinations, Mr. McCarthy took about six weeks to do the journey of many hundred miles to the Hudson's Bay region.

Two hundred miles were done in canoes. He found the tribes highly developed. They dress very well and farm with success. The squaws, too, wear white shirt waists and other adornments which might be seen on the streets of a city.

Mr. McCarthy had no difficulty in getting his fifty recruits and describes them as being of the finest type. Physically, they are fine specimens, tall, strong and intelligent. They will make good at the front because their training fits them to become splendid soldiers. The Indians' families have been brought to North Bay and one or two other places where they will receive Patriotic Fund and separation allowances.

Mr. Albert Parsons, M. P. P., was a visitor to the 193rd lines on Tuesday. Mr. Parsons who has a son in the overseas forces, takes a keen interest in military work, and expressed himself as deeply impressed with Aldershot Camp, and with the Highland Brigade units generally.

Lt. Colonel Stanfield reported back from sick leave on Saturday, and is almost fully recovered from his operation. In the absence of Col. Stanfield, who is acting-Brigadier, Major Langford is in command of the Battalion.

Lieut. H. D. Cunningham has returned from Rockcliffe, Ont., where he recently completed the musketry course.

Cpl. L. J. Bryant, Bugler "D" Coy, 85th Battalion, received word this week that his father, Pte. Bryant, was again in a military hospital in England. Pte. Bryant has been in several engagements, and has been severely wounded at Gallioil and elsewhere—four times—but recovers and goes on fighting gallantly and unafraid.
