Moose Jaw Accident. Moose Jaw, Nov. 17.—One of the worst railroad accidents that has ever occurred near this city happened on the branch line to Outlook at late hour last night, as a result of which Fireman Roland Hilling lost his life, and engineer Butts and brakeman H. Barber were slightly injured, and considerable rolling stock was badly damaged.

Word of the disaster did not reach the city till shortly after midnight, when the fire brigade was called out to quench some burning coal that had fallen on the wreckage.

It appears that extra train No. 410 was pulled into Moose Jaw heavily laden with wheat. Just before entering Moose Jaw there is a long decline, and at the end of that a sharp curve, where the branch line turns off to meet the main line. The train was coming down this incline well under control, and so far as the engineer could see by the rays of the headlight, there was a clear track ahead. But the headlight only lighted up the line to where the curve commenced.

As the engine turned the curve the rays of the headlight disclosed an obstruction on the line in the shape of box cars blocking the way a few lengths ahead. Immediately the man at the throttle threw on the brakes. But it was now too late, and seeing that a crash was inevitable the engineer shouted to his co-worker and then jumped, landing safely at the west side of the track with no more severe injury than a cut on the head.

His companions jumped to the opposite side, the brakeman first and fireman next. The brakeman got clear, but the fireman was caught by the overturning tender. He was instantly killed, his head being completely severed from his body.

The engine went on and ploughed through the first of the obstructing cars, which proved to be loaded with soft coal. The force of the impact caused a lot of burning coal to fall onto the contents of the cars. These caught fire, and the flames soon cast a lurid glare on the scene, revealing the full effect of the disaster.

The engine had kept to the rails, but the tender had turned turtle into the ditch alongside the track, and the five cars immediately following it were reduced to matchwood. The rails were torn up for a distance of about 20 yards and the ties were flung in all directions.

It was not until one o'clock that the wrecking train appeared on the scene. Previously the city fire brigade arrived and did good work in checking the flames.

The victim of the wreck Roland Hilling, is a married man, about 25 years old, and leaves a wife and young child. A brother lives in Souris, Man., and his parents reside in England.

This was his first trip as fireman. One year ago he failed at his initial examination owing to some slight defect disqualifying him. Owing to urgent need for men he was taken in. His wife was formerly Miss McGhee, of this city.

DR. BARR, M.P., DEAD. Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Dr. John Barr, M.P., for Dufferin, and one of the best known Conservative members of the house, was found dead in bed in his room at the hotel Cecil at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon. He did not come down to breakfast this morning but his non-appearance occasioned no surprise. However, when he did not appear for dinner his room was entered by Dr. Roche, of Matquette, and Mr. J. E. Armstrong, fellow Conservative members, and he was found dead in bed. Judging from the condition of the body he had been dead since early morning. Dr. Barr was apparently in the best of health the night previous and had supper as usual.
