Chatham for ice of $6 per season or $25 a month, should live in Til-appeared before Judge Houston to-day to answer to a charge of stealing $53 from Michael Cleary. Judge Houston

Houston was appointed for Chatham Chatham. Judge Houston released Macdonald and deferred sentence until the point was settled. Macdonald's own recognizance for $400 and two sureties, James Gaittridge and George Macdonald, were taken.

Sponge Clean-Up

Every year about the first of June we make a sale of our stock of sponges. Before getting our new stock we try to clear out every sponge we have in the store.

For this week you can get any sponge we have at exactly half price—much less than they cost us. We do this because on account of their being in stock for some time they become dusty and dirty.

Routledge ballot with the figures 43 on the back was disallowed. In division 2 two ballots rejected were allowed for Robson. They had the cross on the left side of the name. In division 3 one ballot paper with a single horizontal line opposite Dr.
Routledge's name was disallowed.

Capt. Robson made a gain of two in sub-division 4. The actual count was: Robson, 76; Routledge, 50; instead of Robson 75, Routledge, 51.

The deputy in West, Missouri, subdivision 1, gave Dr. Routledge the worst of the count to the number of two votes. In sub-division 2 one rejected ballot for Robson was allowed, the cross being on Capt. Robson's name. In sub-division 3 a ballot marked with three crosses for Robson was allowed. In sub-division 7 the actual count was Robson, 41; Routledge, 53; instead of Robson, 38; Routledge, 55, as returned by the deputy. Two Robson ballots were found in the Routledge package. A third ballot with a cross on Robson's name was allowed.

In West London, only one ballot was questioned. It was marked for Routledge, and had a cross on the back. Judgment was reserved.

In sub-division 2 of Westminster a Robson ballot bore a mark, the cross on which was called in question.
Judgment was reserved.

In sub-divisions 5 and 10, of Westminster, the deputy returning officer had, in addition to placing their initials on the back of the ballots, put the number on each ballot corresponding with the number upon the poll book. The deputy returning officer opposite the name of the voter in the poll book.

The section of the Election Act, under which the objection is taken is No. 112, sub-sec. 3, and is as follows: "Every ballot paper not supplied by the deputy returning officer, or on which votes are given to more than one candidate, shall be void, and on which anything in addition to the printed number and the initials or name of the deputy returning officer on the back, is written or marked, by which the voter can be identified, shall be voided and shall not be counted.
Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained as to the omission of the deputy returning officer to sign or stamp his name or initials upon the ballot paper, no word or mark written or made, or omitted to be written or made by the deputy returning officer on the ballot paper shall void the same."

The contention on behalf of Capt.
Robson, was that the putting of the number upon the ballot, corresponding with the number upon the poll book, afforded a means of identification of the voter.

The judge expressed his view as being, strongly favorable to the contention of the voter.

Adjournment was made at 10 o'clock this morning.

Division No. 5 gave 9 votes for Robson and 95 for Routledge. In division No. 6, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15,

CADETS DO WELL

Col. Peters, D. O. C., London, District, was in the city yesterday inspecting the C. C. I. Cadets. Under the direction of Capt. Adm. Mowbray the cadet corps drilled on Tecumseh Park. They then marched to Victoria Park, advanced in line of attack across the park, and also threw out skirmishing lines. Colonel Peters was proud of the showing of the C. C. I. cadets. He said he had inspected the collegiate soldier boys at Woodstock, London and other places, and he was pleased to say that the Chatham Collegiate Institute had the best drilled corps of all. He said the uniforms of the C. C. I. was the neatest he had seen. Colonel Peters said that he believed that a boys had not been drilled in target practice, but it had been impossible to get ammunition.
He expected to have a good supply by fall, and target practice would be begun in September.

Dooley on Athletics For Women.

M. R. HENNESSY having ventured to say that athletic exercise is a splendid thing for women, a fe-lite, faith said Mr. Dooley. "Well, it may be, but it's no good for the women for the men. I don't know anything that could be more demoralizing than to be married to a woman who would me a stroke a stick at golf. 'The golf' to be the room in family life.
'Twill break up the happy home. I'm a man, we'll say, that's down town from the early morning bendin' over a ledger an' tryin' to thrash a dollar or two to keep the landlord from the door. I dispise athletes. I see that all the men that have a metallic rattle when they get on a movin' street car are pounds overweight, an' wud blow up if they jogged around the corner.

"Well, I come home at night, an' no matter how I've been 'Here-you-d' all day, I feel in me heart that I'm th' big thing there. What makes me feel that way, says ye? 'Tis th' since I've physical superiority. Me wife is smarter than I am. She's had nawthin' to do all day but th' housework an' puttin' in th' coal an' studyin' how she can make me do somethin' I don't want to do that I wud want to do if she didn't want me to do it. She's thraigned to th' minyit in havin' her own way. Her mind's clearer, mine bein' full iv b'w' had-in'; she can talk better an' more frequent; she can throw me family in me face, an' whin har-d put to it, her starry eyes can gleam with tears that I think are grief, but she knows different. An' I give in. But I've won, just th' same.

"But now, how is it? I go home at night an' I'm met at the door by a male jorney. Me wife's th' champion lady golfer iv th' Ivy Leaf Golf Club; th' finest oarslady on th' canal; a tinnin' player that none can rayst without injury. She can ride a horse, an' I cudden't stay on a merry-go-round without clothespins. She can box a good waterweight, an' she's got medals for th' broad jump, th' on-sports she isn't good at is cookin' an' washin'. This large lady, a little peaw-ish because she's off her thrive, meets me at th' door an' begins leavin' orders before I have me shoes off. 'Tis jut th' same as if I was back on th' hoist. She doesn't argy, she doesn't weep. She jus' says, 'Say, you, an' an' say I to meself, 'What's th' good?
I cudden't cross that guard, an' me reign is ended. I'm back to th' ranks iv it.

"It won't do, Hinnissy. It's a blow at good government. 'Twill disrupt th' home. Our fathers was r-right. They didn't risk their lives in th' limbs bemarrin' these female Sharkeys."

THE Earl-Marshall's notification to the peers and peeresses of Great Britain in thout vastly amusing. It strikes us here as might an attempt to go back with pride to the ancestral missing link, whose skeleton it appears has been found in the farthest East. There was something grand and handsome in the distinctive costumes that Louis the Fourteenth invented. The aristocrat and the plebe-ian or fadling peasant, had their manifestation of the Earl-Marshall strikes us as the triumph of smallness, the exaltation of pettiness. Could Swift have been thinking of a similar notification in his time when he wrote about the war between the Big-Endians and the Little-Endians? A consequence of the notification will be to make American heiresses scorn offers of marriage from noblemen higher than dukes. They will know now that dukes only have strawberry leaves on their coronets and four rows of black snips of fur on their ministerial caps. Barons who can only wear two rows of the black snips will be held of small account in the hellish preserves of the United States, and so, we may say, will be earls or fadling peasant, had their manifes-
