AN UNPLEASANT PASSAGE

CAUGHT NAPPING. HALIFAX, Nov. 24, - Yesterday the fleet set sail on a cruise in the offing about 11 a.m, the weather being splendidly fine. But before noon rain had begun to fall and by five o'clock the ships were all back at their moorings, and there was every prospect of a dirty night, and it was supposed the Sarmatian would not try to make the harthe faster ship could not be far off, and by nine o'clock the SIGNAL LIGHTS IN THE CITADEL showed that a large steamer was in sight. She had in fact been at the mouth of the harbour by seven o'clock, and after waiting for a pilot had run out to sea. In an hour she made another attempt to find a pilot, and failing in this Capt. Aird ran in without one and anchored under George's Island. By nine o'clock the Cunard tugboat went out for the mails, which were in charge of Mr. Tilson, and the Duke ran in the steam launch of the Black Prince.

This morning broke beautifully bright, and after breakfast your correspondent chartered a small boat, was pulled down the harbour by the brawny arms of two merry-hearted fishermen, and in half an hour from the wharf was alongside the black hall of the Sarmatian, lying still and safe after what an old salt like Capt. Shortly after eleven o'clock the Cunard tug conveying Sir Hugh Allan came along side, followed at an interval of a few minutes by the launch of the Bellerophon with Vice-Admiral Inglefield on board. Then another little puffer came dancing over the waves, and snugly ensconced under a canopy in the stern was seen the Duke of Edinburgh, who was met at the gangway of the steamer by Lord Lorne's aides-de-camp in full staff regimentals. The Duke wore a captain's uniform and looked remarkably well. He came to invite the Princess and some others of the party to'

In the Court of Queen's Bench, on Satur lay, before Chief-Justice Hagarty and Mr. Justice Armour, Mr. Blackstock applied for a rule nisi in the case of the Queen v lark, calling upon the Crown to cause why the prisoner Clark should not be discharged. Mr. Fenton appeared for the Clark was convicted in May, before the Police Magistrate, for having sold liquor without a license on the 31st of March last. An appeal was taken to the Sessions of the Peace, and the matter came properly before them, but the presiding judge held that under Section 71 of the Crooks' Act he had no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal, because that Section declared that an appeal must lie to the Judge of the County Court in Chambers, and he therefore dismissed the case. The Police Magistrate. on this decision, sent the prisoner to the common gaol for thirty days. He objected that this Section 71, Chapter 181, of the revised statutes was ultra vires of the Local Legislature, in that it assumed to take away the right of appeal to the General Sessions. The first point to decide was whether the offence in itself was a criminal one or not. That point was settled in the case of the Queen v. Roddy, 41 Q.B. The offence then was for selling liquor on Sunday, but that selling liquor on Sunday, but that would not make any material difference between the two cases. Judgment was given by the late Chief Justice Harrison, who decided that it was a criminal offence. He contended that the effect of the section might and Towards

Blowing by al HighFresh

He contended that the effect of the section referred to was to alter the procedure in criminal cases, if the offence was one of a criminal nature, because this prisoner had been deprived of his right of having his case tried by a jury. The British North America Act provided for this in two differences what that of the Ontario Legislature. If the offence be a criminal one, there could be no doubt that the section was an alteration of criminal procedure and beyond the jurisdiction of the Ontario Legislature. Therefore, as the prisoner was denied his trial, he should be discharged.

Mr. Feston said he did not admit this at all. He contended that even under the law which existed before, no appeal would have een granted in this case.
The Court then granted the rule.

On Tuesday morning a farmer named

During the day the unfortunate man, meeting with a number of acquaintances, took a little too much liquor and when he started for home, about three or four o'clock in the afternoon, was noticeably under its influence. After loading his boxwaggon with lime he started for home but made such frequent stops that it was quite late in the afternoon when he reached the village of Norway, about four miles from this city and nearly five miles from his residence. After transacting some business at the harness shop, he left Gates' hotel about twenty-five minutes to six and vehicle no driver was in signs. Mr. Lambie at once saw that Thompson had been buried in the lime and made every effort to extricate him but without success, until he was aided by the others who soon presented to her, and, now it was all over, thought perhaps, the experience of a rough voyage was not such a bad thing after all. TERRIBLE RAILWAY DISASTER. THE AWARD PAID.

Two Great Western Railway Express Trains in Collision at Winona.

One Passenger Killed and Ten Seriously Injured.

Hamilton, Nov. 24.-This morning at 2.18 a serious collision took place on the Great Western railway at Winona crossing, about twelve miles east of this city. The New York express, which leaves here at 2 a.m., passes the Chicago express leaving Clifton at 1.15 a.m., at the point where the disaster took place. The train arriving first takes the siding, while the incoming train keeps on the main line. In order to allow for lost time, five minutes is given it to remain at this station, and it is the duty of those on the last arriving train to see that the other is on the crossing before proceeding. How the terrible catastrophe of this morning took place is not easily accounted for in view of these instructions. As both the driver and fireman of the eastern train, which kept the main line, are disabled, no very authen-tic information upon this point can be obtained. No. 12 train left Hamilton on time at 2 a.m. with two Wagner coaches, one second-class car, and one baggage car, John Irwin being enginedriver, and Denis Delaney conductor. The other express, No. 1, left Clifton also on time with John Treble, conductor; John Holmes, driver, and J. Collison, fireman, and arrived almost simultaneously with No. 12 at the ill-fated crossing. The west ern train not being in when No. 12 arrived t was slackened up, and the brakeman ha alighted to turn the switch, when the former came rushing along the main line, and before No 12 going east had time to reach the switch a terrible collision took place. There were the same number of cars on the western as on the eastern train, the second class car containing some eight German and while one man named Dio Cherette was instantly killed. The first-class passengers who were in the rear Wagner cars escaped inhurt, as did also those on the eastern express. The force with which the trains met must have been terrific, as the engines were both dashed from the track, the western one over a slope some six feet high, and the other jumping clean off the rails. The baggage cars were then telescoped into the adjoining second-class cars, the western cars, wherein were the poor emi-grants, being crushed to pieces, and the stove being upturned set fire to the splintered and shattered wood, among which were lying the poor mangled and dying creatures. The baggage and secondcars of the other train back to this station, and are both complete wrecks, the former being teles into the carriage for more than half its length, smashing it completely. On No.

don, had his right thigh and left arm broken, and the fireman Collis-son is badly scalded on the head, face, and body. The driver, fireman, and conductor of No. 12 escaped without injury. At the time of the collision most of the poorsufferers were asleep, and were thus fearfully aroused to a sense of consciousness to find themselves mangled and bruised and half crushed to death by the debris of the smashed cars huddled upon them. The task of removing the poor victims been deprived of his right of having his case tried by a jury. The British North America Act provided for this in two different sections, and stated what was the exclusive jurisdiction of the Dominion and what that of the Ontario. After being in the cells for a short time, the door was thrown open, but McDonald refused to take his departure until released by the usual course of the law. After spending a night and part of a day in the open cell, he was finally compelled to take his departure, as the damp, foul air of the place was injuring his health. The Municipal Council of Port Dalhousie have offered a reward of $500 for such information as will lead to the arrest and conviction of the incendiaries who have used such loss there this year. Messrs. Muir Bros. offer a similar sum, and Messrs. John Lawrie & Co. offer $100. The New York Tribune says potatoes will be worth $4 per barrel in that city before the spring, unless supplies are sent in from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. A great many New England farmers have not enough potatoes for their own families to last them through the winter. The usual winter emigration of French Canadian farmers from Montreal to the United States for the purpose of working in factories during the season has commenced. During the past few days large numbers of Canadians have left, principally for the States of Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New Hampshire. A vote on a new by-law granting a bonus to the Arthur junction railway is to be taken shortly in West Luther. The father of Alfred Labelle, nine year real on the 10th inst., from fever and smallpox, has taken proceedings in the Police Court against a friar employed in the St. Denis street Academy, who, it is alleged, chastised the youth, who was a pupil under his care, so severely some time before his his care, so severely some time death as to hasten the lad's end.

Says the Manitoba Free Press :- "The Montreal wing of the noble army of commercial travellers-Messrs. Shorey, Stevenson, Jack, and Whitham-arrived this morning by stage. They travelled from St. Paul to the end of the tracklaying on the St. Vincent extension by rail, thence by mule power to Emerson, and staged the rest of the way to the commercial polis of the Great North-West."

It having been rumoured that the Que bec Government had negotiated a loan for three millions of dollars with the Bank of Montreal, Hon. Mr. Joly stated that an attempt had been made to negotiate a loan for the balance, $1.500.000, of the three

A Washington despatch to the New York press says:—"Persons on the Canadian border have made complaints to the State Department against United States Consuls and commercial agents at various ports on the lakes. The principal charge made against these officers is that in the verification and certification of invoices, excesthe alleged excessive charges ranging from fifty cents to $3 in each case. Affidavits setting forth these facts have been received at the Department, and an investigation

The city attorney of Montreal has prepared a defence on behalf of the Corporation for the refusal to pay the volunteers called out on the 12th of July last. The plea of the defence filed, sets forth that the law authorizes the troops to be called out by three magistrates to aid the authoritie when they are unable to cope with any trouble which may arise. In this case the plea alleges that the meeting of the magis-trates which had been called decided most ananimously, that it was not desirable or necessary that troops should be called out, and placed the whole conduct of affairs in connection with the troubles in the hands of the Mayor; and in view of this fact it was not within the jurisdiction of the magistrates, some of whom resided out of the city, to call out the military and saddle the city with the expense. Halifax must be a paradise for suscep tible young men. Says the Reporter anent the marriage question: "Here down by the sea, the girls are first-class. The latest and most melancholy victin of the marine monster idiocy is a Mr. John Windham, who declares that while boating on the Ottawa river last week he saw a beast at the Rideau Falls answering this description :—"It appeared to be about fifteen or twenty feet in length and rose in dipping down and lifting his back, from which were two large horns about three feet in length and bending towards the tail in spiral shape. Between two large red eyes, and well up on the forehead, was an ning through which came groans as if the animal was suffering. The head washaped like that of a lion, but seemed t have no mouth. The body was jet black. The head was covered with long rough hair, while the lower part of the body seemed to be scaly." The monster paid n attention to the observer's august presence, although that gentleman states he must have seen him. "When the moaning ceased, the animal," says Mr. Windham sunk as if by his own weight." A writ of attachment has been issued at the instance of some of the depositors, and the estate is now in the hands of an assignee. As yet nothing can be ascertained as to the extent of the liabilities, but rumour states that they will be nearly $50,000 in excess of the available assets, and that several parties in the neighbourhood will be almost ruined by the suspension, having deposited all their money in the institution. Mr. Stewart has always borne the character of being an up-right and honourable man, and had the right and honourable man, and had the confidence of every one, but it is stated that for some months he has been engaged in extensive speculations, such as floating patent rights, etc., and these turning out unsuccessful, he has fled, not having the courage to face the ruin that stared him in the face. At the time of leaving he had but a small amount of money in his possession, although he left several thousand dollars in the bank, which, had he been desirous of appropriating, he might easily have taken with him."

The 'surface show' has been pronounced by several of our mining experts to be re-markably good. With a little exploration, the discovery will be pronounced a bonanza. Those who are at all sceptical as to the character of the mineral produced, may have their doubts set at rest by examining the specimens which are now on exhibition at Messrs, Marks' Bros. office. The excitement produced around town by this discovery, for the past two or three every street corner may be seen a group of men discussing the 'find,' and examining specimens through a magnifying glass. The vein may be traced with the greatest ease from the lake shore in a northerly direction across the square in front of Messrs. Marks

The Imperial Parliament. NEW YORK, Nov. 23 .- The Herald's London special says the decision to summon the British Parliament is the result of a row in the Cabinet. It will be remem a row in the Cabinet. It will be remembered a committee announced its intention to call upon the Premier to urge the necessity of an extra session. Lord Beaconsfield semi-officially announced he would not receive the deputation, but the Marquis of Salisbury, Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. Cross insisted at the last Cabinet meeting that the scadilion of last Cabinet meeting that the condition of affairs in the East was sufficiently grave to justify an extra session. Lord Beaconsfield strenuously objected, but he was finally defeated. The real cause of the stubborn opposition to the Premier was that his colleagues were afraid to give in any further to his policy. The Queen will sit in the Council on Wednesday, at which the date of the assembling of Parliament will be fixed. It is probable the session will last about a fortnight.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 23.—The Guardian's London correspondent telegraphs that at the Cabinet Council yesterday there was a scene of severer conflict than had taken place at the departure of Lord Derby. It ences were arising on the Afghan question. The issue of the ultimatum is now believed to have been the result of a compromise for the purpose of conciliating the more pacific section of the Cabinet. There was at the same time a rumour of an intention to summon Parliament so as to meet the scruple of some of the Ministers on a constitutional question involved in the war. That party to-day carried its objects. Its chief members are pointed out by the report as Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. Cross, who also received a considerable amount of support from Lord Salisbury.
