

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1893

TOPIC OF THE DAY.

Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Finance, delivered his budget speech, in the House of Commons, yesterday afternoon. In our next issue we will give our readers a report of the speech, so that they may know the present and prospective financial standing of the Dominion.

A certain Chicago paper, which has had its finger in every false disclosure by the muckrakers' journals from the Muckraker's Ministry to the Missing World, has at last made a local hit. It has opened a competition among the women of the Windy City, who are notoriously the biggest footed females on earth, to find one who can claim a Cinderella slipper measuring 7 1/2 inches from heel to toe. Although there are not likely to be many bona fide competitors, Chicagoans are disposed to make it appear that the competition is a popular refutation of long standing slanders on the reputation of their wives and daughters—Empire.

Massachusetts requires each party in an election contest to make a declaration of its expenses in the campaign. The record of the presidential contest shows that half a million dollars was paid out on behalf of various parties. The number of votes cast was 390,660. The average expenditure on each voter who came to the polls was, therefore, $1.30. If the rule in Massachusetts holds throughout the Union the 12,068,595 votes cast for the various presidential candidates must have involved a campaign expenditure of over $15,000,000. This is the lawful expenditure; the bribery money probably amounts to a great deal more.

Here is a pretty picture drawn by the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune about the Hawaiian delegates lately arrived there. By a coincidence their rooms are in close proximity to the sleeping quarters of Prof. G. K. Smith, of Canada, who favors the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to that province of Great Britain, so that to-night two parties of annexationists will sleep under the same roof at the National Capital. The two "sleeping parties" are on the interesting mission of advocating the sale of their respective country's political independence. Even the worst offenders sleep soundly so these probably do—Exchange.

Says The Montreal Star: "We are always told that the American politicians do not want to injure Canada. They simply adopt measures entirely because of their benefit to the United States, but which unfortunately do incidental harm to us. This is a pretty theory which has had several tight witnesses in the past; but it will hardly survive the recent action in connection with the cattle trade. Surely no Canadian will be innocent enough to imagine that the American Government really fears that our notoriously healthy cattle will infect theirs—pleuro-pneumonia. They might as well shut out Canadian mail matter on the ground that they are apprehensive lest we smuggle some immoral literature into their pure and offenseless mail bags. The excuse is to obviously hypocritical; and it is to be hoped that no Canadian journal will attempt to convince the people that anything but a deliberate and malicious blow at Canadian prosperity. They have begun a war of conquest."

We deeply regret having to chronicle the death of Kelly Kelly, which took place at his home in Summerside on Sunday afternoon last, after a protracted illness. He was born at Downham in 1833, and was consequently in his sixty-first year at the time of his death. He was educated at the old Central Academy and St. Dunstan's College, and studied law with the late Judge Watters, at St. John's, N. B. In 1855 he was admitted to the bar, and practiced in Summerside until his death. He took an active part in politics and was twice elected to the House of Assembly. In 1871 he was appointed a commissioner for the construction of the P. E. Railway, which office he retained in the following year, when the construction of the Cape Breton Railway was also entrusted to him. He was a member of the Executive Council of the Province, and in 1874 he was appointed a member of the Board of Agriculture. He was a man of high character and a devoted citizen. He is survived by a wife and several children.

There is great distress in Chicago. Skilled bookkeepers, well educated and well trained business men, old and young, respectable and well-to-do, are being thrown out of their homes and children are being thrown in thousands to the streets. Many who will not appeal for help are slowly starving to death. It is a sad thought that these things can happen, but it is lamentably true.

The nation seems to think that in the construction of doing some work for the people, the Conservative party, the virtues of the Government through golden spectacles. It is the natural thing in the world for the office of the Minister to think of "golden spectacles" in connection with the people. He is not a man of ordinary intelligence, and he is not a man of ordinary character. He is a man of high intelligence and high character, and he is a man of high intelligence and high character. He is a man of high intelligence and high character, and he is a man of high intelligence and high character.

POPE'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

It is not often that the world is afforded an opportunity of witnessing the celebration of an event so grand in itself, and with which are intertwined so many glorious memories as that which takes place in Rome on Sunday—the celebration of the Episcopal Jubilee of Pope Leo XIII. A half century of sacerdotal or episcopal life, in itself an event of much importance and of unusual occurrence. But when we consider that he who, on this occasion celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of his consecration to the episcopal office is none other than the successor of St. Peter, the Vicar of Christ, the spiritual guide, father and teacher of three hundred millions of Catholics, it is not to be wondered at that the occasion is taken advantage of by the faithful in all parts of the world to give expression to their unswerving fidelity, loyalty and devotion to him who sits in the chair of the Prince of the Apostles.

In the annals of the Papacy no name stands out more brightly than that of Leo. St. Leo the Great, the fourth pope, was the first of the line, and he was the first of the line. He was the first of the line, and he was the first of the line. He was the first of the line, and he was the first of the line. He was the first of the line, and he was the first of the line.

Greatness of intellect and the possession of vast and accurate erudition, with the power to lead and rule men, added to power and lofty motives must always challenge our admiration. All these the sovereign pontiff possesses in an eminent degree. His brief encyclicals and allocutions are gems of thought, and masterpieces of ecclesiastical learning. His knowledge of diplomacy is extensive and his facility of life is of such an exalted character as to win golden opinions, even from his enemies. During the fifteen years of his Pontificate his voice and pen have been constantly employed in promoting unity and good will among all nations, and in condemnation of the evil evils that constitute the bane of modern society.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

Joachim Vincent Raphael Louis, a Frenchman of "type" "par excellence," followed the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

SLANDERS SLANDERED.

When the occasion, from time to time, is given to the ignorant and malicious regarding Canada, its Government institutions and people, which find expression in some of the newspapers published in the United States. The most reliable feature in connection with these libels on our country and its people is the fact that the material for them is not unfortunately furnished, if the articles themselves are not inspired or written by renegade Canadians who, for filthy lucre, so far debase themselves as to truckle to the lowest and most ignominious instincts of the enemies of our country. The vilest and most insulting contribution to this species of calumny that has yet come to light, is a two-column and a half article which appeared in the New York Herald on the 22nd of Jan. last. The article is illustrated and has about a half column of sensational headings, in which are given such "travels" as "scrubbers," "seavengers," and other equally insulting epithets find a place. The article is most insulting to Prince Edward Islanders and should be resented by every Islander having a spark of manhood or patriotism in his bosom. The following extracts will serve to show the malignity of the writer:

To the east of New Brunswick, the Province of Nova Scotia, and out in the ocean is the Province of Prince Edward Island. These three form what is known as the Maritime Provinces. There are two cities, St. John and Halifax, in this territory of national reputation and a strip of land known as Acadia, with its fishing ports, for the greater part, the land is poor, the people are ignorant and want to know every hand. Inevitably rises and there is ever been a hostile and angry feeling toward this condition of affairs exists close to the line, and a people, standing here and viewing, first the Maine people, their homes and land, and then those upon the New Brunswick coast, will not hesitate to quarrel with us in the possession of the good things of this world than their foreign neighbors.

In view of all these facts it is not to be wondered at that laymen and ecclesiastics, princes, prelates, and men in all walks of life should flock to Rome on the occasion of the jubilee, in order to lay at the Pontiff's feet, in the name of the countries they represent, their tributes of devotion and love.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

Years after year the inauguration of a new pontiff is a great event. But for a few days the world is in a state of excitement. The Pope is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence. He is a man of high character and high intelligence, and he is a man of high character and high intelligence.

From the time that the "P. L." have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence.

Continuing the article says: "From the time that the 'P. L.' have always professed and developed a more religious and more patriotic character. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence. He was a man of high character and high intelligence, and he was a man of high character and high intelligence."

A Bad Cold

It is not generally realized, but it is a fact that a bad cold is a very serious disease, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care. It is a disease that is often fatal, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care. It is a disease that is often fatal, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care.

CURED BY

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a very good medicine for a bad cold, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care. It is a disease that is often fatal, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care. It is a disease that is often fatal, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care.

HAWKER'S TOLU

Wild Cherry Balsam. It is a very good medicine for a bad cold, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care. It is a disease that is often fatal, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care. It is a disease that is often fatal, and it is one that should be treated with the utmost care.

THE POPULAR DRUG STORE

1881, Reddin Bros. 1893. Happy and Prosperous New Year to all. WE ARE NOT in the presumed dispute, Doctors versus Druggists. Twelve years of honest dealing have made both Doctor and Patient our customers, and has earned for us the name of THE POPULAR DRUG STORE.

TEAPOT FREE!

With every 5 Pounds of our Tea bought at either 26, 24, or 22 Cents per pound, we will give, free of charge, ONE BARTHWATER TEAPOT. Our Tea has given excellent satisfaction lately, and it is too well known all over the country to require any puffing on our part.

REWARD OFFER FOR CASH

And payable to the party presenting the article inquired after in EXTRA DISCOUNT SALE. REUBEN TUPLIN & CO., Kensington.

EXTRA DISCOUNT SALE FOR CASH

for the next few weeks as a reward for their past favors, and as they have a larger stock of Men's Laced and Long Boots, Ladies Boots of the newest styles, Children's Boots, special lines than they wish to have at stock taking, they will give an exceptional discount for CASH.

REUBEN TUPLIN & CO.

1881, Reddin Bros. 1893. Happy and Prosperous New Year to all. WE ARE NOT in the presumed dispute, Doctors versus Druggists. Twelve years of honest dealing have made both Doctor and Patient our customers, and has earned for us the name of THE POPULAR DRUG STORE.

REUBEN TUPLIN & CO.

1881, Reddin Bros. 1893. Happy and Prosperous New Year to all. WE ARE NOT in the presumed dispute, Doctors versus Druggists. Twelve years of honest dealing have made both Doctor and Patient our customers, and has earned for us the name of THE POPULAR DRUG STORE.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisement for a lost dog, a reward for a stolen horse, and other notices. A reward for a stolen horse, a reward for a stolen horse, a reward for a stolen horse.