

THREE MORE ARRIVALS From Northern Sealfishery.— Eagle, Bloodhound and Neptune Filled on Deck and below.

The sealing steamer Eagle, Bloodhound and Neptune returned from the northern sealfishery last evening loaded with seals on deck and below, the three ships bringing in a total of 89,000 between them.

EAGLE.
The s.s. Eagle, Capt. Edward Bishop entered the harbor at 6.30 last evening, reporting for 21,000 young harp seals. The Eagle left Pool's Island on March 11th with the other wooden ships. On March 13th she was alone and the following day Capt. Bishop found the main body of seals about 70 miles N.E. of the Funks. The ship was "burnt down" but the crew had to wait till next day before they were allowed to kill. On the 15th, 16th and 17th of March a total of 35,000 seals were killed. In other words the Eagle had her load panned by St. Patrick's Night. The Neptune was the only ship in sight up to that time, having reached the patch the second day after the Eagle. On the 4th day the Florizel, Sable I, and Bloodhound got into the patch followed by the Erik, Terra Nova and Sam Blandford. Soon the patch was cut up and Capt. Bishop estimates that 220,000 seals were taken out of it. The work of picking up the Eagle's seals lasted for more than a week; owing to the ship being jammed and unable to get after her pans. This made heavy hauling for the crew. On Monday morning last the Eagle had 29,000 stowed down and 2,000 on deck. Capt. Bishop found that this was all his ship was able to carry and bore up for home. Adverse weather was met coming along and the ship harbored at Seldom-Come-By and Pool's Island. Several of the Eagle's crew suffered from colds during the spring, but there were no serious cases of illness. Dr. Russell, who is seriously ill, was brought along in the ship from Yallogfield. The Telegram adds its voice of congratulations to Capt. "Ned" Bishop, the discoverer of the main patch of seals for 1916.

M. C. L. I.

The subject of debate at the M.C.L.I. last night was: "Has Religion conferred greater benefit upon the world than Science?" Mr. T. Gillingham, leader for the affirmative, contended that science and religion were inseparable and that science was the product of religion. Scientists themselves claim that religion is the greatest force in the world. It was the religious spirit that permeated Martin Luther, John Knox and the martyred Bishops Crommer, Latimer and Ridley. Mr. Gillingham quoted Huxley as saying the success of the British nation depends on the nation's progress. He was supported by Messrs. Joyce and Matthews. Mr. Leader Curtis, for the negative, contended that the subject referred to three distinct words: "Religion," "World," and "Science." Religion could not therefore be called Christianity. He argued that Religion referred to man's moral and spiritual welfare, and that the greater work of conquering nature was left almost entirely to science. Mr. Curtis was supported by Messrs. A. H. Edmonds and O. S. Winter. On being put to the meeting the affirmative won by a small majority. The annual meeting will be held next week.

Increase in Price of Fat

Yesterday forenoon the crew of the Sable I, struck for an increase in the price of fat from $4.75 to $5.75 per cwt. $1 increase over last year. After consulting W. P. Conker, President of the F.P.U., the men asked $5.75 for fat and Mr. Harvey consented to pay over the price mentioned. The increased price values the cargo approximately $8,000 more than was at first offered. The crews now in port will net over $100 per man.

Mission Fathers Visit Sealing Steamers

This morning Mission Fathers Robert, Hubert and Vincent (P. Colubian) not being present, accompanied by Rt. Rev. Mons. McDermott, visited the Southside on invitation of Mr. J. S. Mann and Mr. E. A. Brown, Ring, of Messrs. Bowring Bros., Ltd., who took the ecclesiastical party across the harbor in the firm's launch. The clergy were taken on board the sealing ships Eagle, Sable I, and Neptune now discharging, witnessed the handling of the fat and were shown through the sealing plants and had the different process of manufacturing seals explained to them. The missionaries thanked Messrs. Mann and Bowring for their courtesy and were greatly pleased with their visit. They were favorably impressed and expressed their appreciation of what they saw.

Pathetic Story From Verdun.

Paris, March 20.—A most pathetic incident of the battle of Verdun has just been reported. It begins with the following telephone conversation:
"Hello! Is that the farm? Who is speaking?"
"This is the Post Commander talking."
"How many men have you there?"
"Fifteen."
"Leave your Senior Sergeant in charge of the redoubt. Take eight men off and cut a strong German patrol, but look out for a cross fire. Report to me immediately on your return."
This conversation occurred at midnight. An hour later the German patrol had been annihilated, and the picket returned to the redoubt carrying a lieutenant mortally wounded. The Post Commander sprang to the telephone.
"Hello! The coup succeeded, but Lieutenant X. is dying. Can you send a doctor?"
An exclamation of grief came from the other end of the line. There was a pause, then an impassive voice was heard saying:
"Never mind the doctor. Run immediately to the dugouts: The Germans are about to attack. I am sending you three platoons of reinforcements."
A pause ensued and then the same voice resumed in broken tones:
"Hello! Are you still there? Kiss Lieutenant X. for me. He is my son. Good-bye."

DIPHTHERIA OUTBREAK

Three cases of diphtheria have been reported to the Health Authorities from Fox Hill, P.B. The patients are being attended by Dr. McDonald.

OUR YOUNG WOMEN

are so often subject to headache—are languid, pale and nervous—because their blood is thin or insufficient. They are not really sick and hesitate to complain, but they lack that ambition and vivacity which is their birthright. They do not need drugs—but do need the tonic and nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that makes richer blood, fills hollow cheeks, suppresses nervousness and establishes strength. Nourishment alone makes blood and Scott's Emulsion is the essence of concentrated nourishment, free from wines or opiates.
If mother or daughter is frail, pale or nervous, get her Scott's for one month and see the betterment. It has a wholesome, "nutty" flavor. Avoid substitutes. At any drug store.

On the Fifth Plane Tree.

(By T. Gibson Bowles, in the lively "Candid Review.")
On the fifth plane-tree by Hotten Row, counting westward from Albert Gate, there sits just now a young Thrush. He is a last year's bird, now trying and tuning up his song. He throws the whole of his eager little soul into it. His trills and quavers and luscious full-throated single notes swell into bursts that fill the air with his joy. For he is getting ready to give his youth; he is looking for that pairing day which is soon to bring to his song the undiscovered incomparable she that is to complete his life, and to carry it on in other generations of Thrushes. Love and Life are before him.
It is his habit, rain or shine, to take the air in the early morning. And I cannot but pause under the plane-tree to listen to the feast of song. The days now are all very sad. Our own are away running the hazards of the war—too many of them already gone for ever. The prospect is uncertain, the event is distant. Sorrow, calamity and disaster threaten; we are all troubled and anxious.
And here comes to us this sweet songster, instinct with life and beauty making divine music to assert his youth and life, his fullness of hope and gladness—as though to assure us that our fantastic tricks matter at last nothing; that our sadness and sorrows are small and petty compared with the vast ever new joy in life of untouched and untouched Nature; that even now there is even for us consolation; and that, even if not for us, yet for those who follow us there are better days to come, and please God, a happier generation.
Sweet Thrush!
