The Walworth Patricide.

Our neighbours across the line are afflicted with a grievous disease which seems to be as wide spread as it is unnatural. While we are yet discussing the legal quibbles which are used to obtain a respite for murderers, and if possible secure their acquittal, we are startled by another and still more aggravated outburst of the national disease. It is not necessary to enumerate the many examples which in a measure swarm throughout the States—they are still fresh in the memories of all, but, as though the present record was not enough to chill our blood, we are called upon to record an addition to the number, which not only adds in number but also in fatality. We refer to the recent Walworth patricide.

Frank H. Walworth, by means of a false message, obtained an interview with his father and then shot him through the head and heart in a most brutal and cowardly manner, which leaves no doubt that it was premeditated. The deceased was a son of Chancellor Walworth. The family were in good circumstances and occupied a prominent place in the social arena in which they moved. In consequence of some domestic difficulties the husband and wife separated, and according to the murderer, the former annoyed the latter; but this does not detract in the least from the guilt of the patricide. He has been studying law and evidently understands the peculiar shading necessary to hide in a measure the lurid hue which enshrouds the horrible atrocity, and with this object in view he says in speaking of the interview: "He used some very insulting language, and put his hand in his pocket as though to draw out a pistol, when I shot him. He then came towards me, and I fired three other shots at him. When I fired the last shot at him, he had me by the collar." It has been proved that the deceased had no fire-arms in his possession, and if the motion spoken of took place at all, it was not with the intention of producing the latter, but we are inclined to view it as an entire fabrication suggested by the position in which the confessed patricide found himself. It also savors of inconsistency, for in the first part of his confession he informs us that the deed was done because the father used insulting language in his communication with the wife and mother, then we are told that it was because of this motion. Walworth has been committed to trial for murder in the first degree, and now we suppose the matter will pass into the hands of lawyers whose plea will be insanity or unpremeditation and if the trial does not end in a mockery of justice will at least be almost indefinitely prolonged. The murderer, who should stand condemned by all finds no condemnation in his own breast, and plenty of sympathy from the degraded populace, and not only from them but also from some journalists. We may give, as a specimen of the means used to excite sympathy, the following extract from the Saratoga correspondence of the Troy Times. We blush for the dignity of the press while we do so.

1873 THE LION! THE LION! 1873

GREAT COMMOTION IN THE DRY GOODS TRADE and a Tremendous Rush at our Mantle and Millinery Rooms.

On all hands we hear of dull trade. "Nothing doing," says Tom, Dick, and Harry, but it is not so at THE LION. Still great haste and activity at the leading house. The spring trade is opening beautifully, thus encouraging us to greater endeavors in the public weal, and the reason of our success is apparent. Our Goods are all direct from the manufactory, and none can do a successful business unless those who buy from first hands, for which our Establishment has long been noted, and has raised the standard of our House (combined with the energy of the proprietors of the firm) to the present proud position, and more especially for the last two years, so that our daily sales are almost equal to the combined trade of the same character in the Town of Guelph.

OUR MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

Our Millinery is a complete success this spring, the taste inherent displayed by Miss McDonald is captivating all hearts, and places her high in the ranks of first-class Milliners. Combined with the genuine popularity of Miss Sutherland, thus making our rooms the centre of attraction.

Genuine Thing!

10 per cent. off for Cash

As Mr. STEWART is leaving for the British and Continental Markets in July, he has determined to reduce his large stock of Dry Goods and Clothing by 20,000 this month. To effect this he has resolved to allow a discount of 10 per cent. on all purchases of $1 and upwards. So rare a chance of securing cheap goods seldom occurring, the public should avail themselves of making and saving money. Quotations of prices being no real criterion of cheapness, an inspection of goods is solicited.

Coltons will be sold at the Genuine Cost—and are exempted from 10 per cent. reduction.
