MADAME LAURIER.

The Gentle and Accomplished Wife of the New Canadian Premier.

The Detroit Free Press has the following personal sketch, which is so well written, that it must be from the pen of a Canadian who knows all about the estimable lady, whose penportrait is given:

Mme. Laurier, wife of Wilfrid Laurier, the coming Premier of Canada, is of French-Canadian gentlewoman, For who has been seriously ill for French society at the capital during many years she has not only led in Parliamentary sessions, but has fulfilled with gentle dignity all those other manifold social offices which fall her distinguished husband, Mme. Laurier is a handsome woman of about cate features, clear blue eyes, silvery hair, a fresh, girlish complexion, in youthful contrast to the graying tress-
