

Weather Forecast:

Warmer

2nd YEAR. No. 22369.

SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 12, 1915. SIXTEEN PAGES.

PRICE TWO CENTS.

HOME
EDITION

BEAR NOW READING GERMAN HORDES TURKS TIRED OF GERMANY; WOULD ARRANGE PEACE

AUSTRIAN "SURPRISE" ATTACK REPULSED BY ITALIANS' FINE WORK

Enemy Led Into Trap, Then Swept by Rain of Bullets and Scattered by Infantry—Numbers Fall Over the Precipice With Their Guns.

[Canadian Press.] Udine, Italy, June 12.—Details have just reached Udine of the driving back by Italian troops of an Austrian expedition which attempted to surprise an Italian position near Montebello on the Isontro River line.

An Austrian force was composed of 7,000 men, divided into three columns. They were supported by twelve mountain guns on mule back, which had been taken from the fortifications at Tarvis. The endeavor was to surprise the Italians in the rear. The Austrians advanced through narrow passes. They were, however, quickly seen by the Italian sentinels, and the alarm was passed along the Italian lines.

Then Came Change. The Italians took their positions quietly and were careful to keep out of sight, thus deceiving the Austrians into believing that their advance was being made successfully. At a given moment the Alpine troops and the Bersaglieri opened fire simultaneously. The rain of bullets was kept up until the orders came for a charge. Shouting "Long live Savoy," the Italians dashed forward.

Fell Over Precipice. The Austrians fought desperately, but they were thrown into great disorder and compelled to withdraw. Some of the mules with mountain guns on their backs, as well as a number of men, fell over a precipice. The losses of the Austrians are said to have been great. The Italian forces which are advancing from Montebello in the direction of Trieste have two immediate objectives; one is to gain possession of the coast on the Gulf of Anzono and the other to command the good road which comes down from the mountains at Nabsredina, which is half-way between Montebello and Trieste.

RUSSIANS TAKE VILLAGES FROM GERMANS

Important Victories on Banks of the Dniester River.

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN

Complete Defeat of Enemy Inflicted on River's Left Bank.

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, June 11.—Vladimir, June 12.—Additional successes for the Russian arms with the capture of many prisoners and guns are chronicled in an official statement issued tonight at the war office. Probably the most important of these victories was on the Dniester, not far from Stry. Several villages also have been captured by the Russians on the left bank of the Dniester in the same region. In this fighting a section of the Prussian Guard is said to have suffered severely. The report states that Stanislaw was evacuated voluntarily.

Many Repulses.

"On the night of the 10th, and the following day the Germans after a furious bombardment repulsed determined attacks from the west of Shavil on the front of Koujlice, Rakievo and Einoraitz. Several times during the night they reached our barbed-wire entanglements, but each time were thrown back, leaving piles of killed and wounded. "In the region north of Shavil an enemy detachment, composed principally of cavalry, advanced slightly in the direction of Saknow, coming from the west. Important Success.

"On the left bank of the Dniester from Shavil to Beligola we assumed the offensive, and on the morning of the 10th gained an important success, taking by a vigorous night attack 500 prisoners with guns, mitrailleuses and other booty. "The enemy continued his fruitless attacks in the region of Mosiska. "On the right bank of the Dniester we continued our attacks on the 10th, repulsing the enemy on the front between the Rivers Tyssmenka and Swica, capturing many prisoners, quick-firing and other booty. In this region the enemy, to cover his retreat, dispatched a train of five armored automobiles supported by infantry toward Stry and Mikolow, but the accurate fire of our guns compelled the train to beat a rapid retreat. "In this action the head of our infantry column developed an energetic offensive and made prisoners the entire fifth company of the 79th Austrian regiment. Enemy Completely Defeated. "On the left bank of the Dniester on the front of Olichowice and Bukasowice, the fighting has been obstinate since the 10th, for the villages of Olichowice, Nowochine, Wyszneue and Kozara, terminating in the complete defeat of the enemy, who was thrown across the Dniester. The enemy here suffered especially severe losses among a section of the Prussian Guard in the village of Wyszneue, where we captured ten guns, eighteen mitrailleuses and many prisoners. Evacuated Stanislaw. "Attacks by the enemy on the 9th on the bridgehead, near Halicz, were repulsed. The deployment of our troops on the line of the Dniester above Halicz rendered necessary a corresponding modification of the front of troops occupying the front line. In executing this manoeuvre our troops evacuated Stanislaw without fighting. Near Podolice we repulsed a German attack. Further south in the direction of Otrzywe we captured eleven hundred prisoners during a counter-attack on the 9th."

SENTENCE COMMUTED

Percy Scott, of Kenora, Not to Hang on June 16.

[Canadian Press.] Kenora, June 12.—The sentence of death passed on Percy Scott for the murder of Fred Lewis, a homesteader, near Dryden, has been commuted to life imprisonment. Scott was to have been hanged June 16.

LATEST VICTIMS OF SUBMARINE WARFARE

Steamer and Trawlers Sunk and Crews Landed in Britain.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 12.—The trawler Waago has been sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea. The members of the crew of the fishing boat have been landed at Hartlepool.

STEAMER TORPEDOED.

[Canadian Press.] Liverpool, June 12.—2:38 p.m.—The British steamer Leucaria was torpedoed and sunk off Kilmorynch today. The crew was rescued.

TRAWLER A VICTIM.

London, June 12.—The British trawler James Leyman was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea. The crew was landed at Hull today. The submarine took the crew on board and then shelled the fishing boat. Later the crew was put adrift in the small boats of the James Leyman, and ten hours elapsed before they were picked up.

CHILDREN'S FLOWER DAY.

Tomorrow will be Children's Flower Day at St. George's Church, West London. Rev. Canon Sage, the rector, will address the children at the morning service.

Advertiser Illustration.

These are the colors that C. E. Freer of Guelph has presented to the officers and men of the 34th Battalion. The official presentation is to be made by Major-General S. Hughes, minister of militia and defence, and there is a possibility that this may be made on Wednesday next. Lieut.-Col. A. J. Oliver has invited the general to come here, but so far has received no reply. If Wednesday is not convenient for General Hughes, he will be asked to name a date that will be convenient.

HORWOOD BELIEVES DR. MONTAGUE KNEW OF KELLY CONTRACT

Does Not Accept Minister's Word and Gives Reasons for His Doubts—Never Heard of Kelly Giving Money To Liberals.

[Canadian Press.] Minneapolis, June 12.—When the Manitoba royal commission met again today, Mr. Coyne, Liberal counsel, asked Horwood more questions. Horwood had several conversations with Contractor Kelly, and they talked about Elliott's projected trip after Salt. Horwood said Kelly was strongly in favor of having Salt come back. He would not be sure Kelly knew all the details of the proposed arrangement, but the contractor knew that Horwood was to give Elliott $500. Whether or not Kelly knew $300 of it was for Salt the witness could not say. Mr. Coyne asked witness if he knew of the case in which Hor. Dr. Montague had awarded a contract to Kelly & Co. for some work on the agricultural college at a price in excess of Horwood's estimate. Horwood said he did. Objections were entered against pursuing this point. Their lordships said that the point carried the commission outside of its proper sphere, but that unless C. F. Wilson argued that evidence of this kind ought to be admitted on the ground that the wrong shown to have been committed in one instance would indicate a disposition on the part of the guilty person to commit a similar offence again. This Line Dropped. Their lordships, however, decided that the matter should be dropped for the time at least. Horwood was again asked if he ever told Elliott that Kelly had contributed money to the Liberals. He testified that not only had he never said anything of the kind to Elliott, but he had never heard anything from Kelly to that effect. With respect to the caissons, Horwood said that he had no doubt that Dr. Montague knew of the verbal arrangements under which Kelly was to be paid on a yardage basis. In his evidence at Winnipeg, Dr. Montague said he did not know the caissons were special work until the short session of September, 1914. Horwood thought this could not be the case, as the minister had O. K.'d the applications for payment, and was always strict about matters of this kind.

Commanders of Submarines Must Carry Out Orders

Officer Tells British Captain Sinking Merchantmen Is Wrong and Useless.

[Canadian Press.] Plymouth, England, June 12.—Capt. Smith, of the British schooner Express, has arrived here and reports that his vessel was sunk by a German submarine today. Capt. Smith says one of the officers of the submarine told him that he disapproved of submarine attacks on merchantmen, but that unless the submarine commanders carried out their orders they would be shot. The officer added, according to Capt. Smith, that submarine warfare, such as the Germans were engaged in, was useless. "Why," Capt. Smith says, "do not the big ships come out and fight?"

THE WEATHER

Following were the highest and lowest temperatures recorded in London during the 24 hours previous to 8 o'clock last night: Highest, 71; lowest, 60. The official temperatures for the 24 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were: Highest, 61; lowest, 44.

TOMORROW—WARMER.

Toronto, June 12—3 a.m. Today—Moderate winds; fair and sunny. Sunday—Southeasterly winds; showery and becoming warmer. Temperatures. The following were the highest and lowest temperatures during the 24 hours previous to 8 a.m. today: Weather Stations. High. Low. Cloudy. Victoria..... 60 52 Cloudy. Vancouver..... 58 48 Clear. Port Arthur..... 54 48 Cloudy. Parry Sound..... 58 48 Clear. Toronto..... 71 48 Cloudy. Ottawa..... 56 48 Cloudy. Montreal..... 60 48 Cloudy. Quebec..... 62 48 Cloudy. Father Point..... 60 48 Rain.

THE SHALLOW LOW AREA WHICH WAS CENTRED IN MICHIGAN YESTERDAY HAS PASSED TO NEW ENGLAND, AND ANOTHER OF RATHER GREATER INTENSITY IS NOW APPROACHING THE GREAT LAKES OCCURRED YESTERDAY OVER THE GREATER PART OF ONTARIO AND QUEBEC AND THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

The weather is fair and becoming warmer in the Western Provinces.

FORMER COMMANDING OFFICER URGES YOUNG MEN OF CITY TO ENLIST IN 7TH REGIMENT

Lieut.-Col. A. M. Smith Believes That All Should Learn to Shoot—and Shoot Straight—No Expeditionary Force Possible Had It Not Been for Militia.

Lieut.-Col. A. M. Smith, formerly commanding officer of the 7th Fusiliers, is a firm believer in the advisability of training every man in the country to shoot, and to be able, in case of necessity, to defend himself, his home and his country from attack.

"I agree with Capt. Murphy," he said, "that every young man in the country should learn to shoot and shoot straight. In these days when the men of every country except the English-speaking people are trained soldiers it is distinctly dangerous to bring up a race of men unacquainted with arms."

Not a Provocation. Lieut.-Col. Smith believes with ex-President Roosevelt that the ability of a nation to defend itself in case of attack not only does not constitute a provocation to other nations, but is most likely to preserve it from aggression, since the knowledge that an efficient defence can be made is likely to make an enemy chary of attacking.

The possible argument that universal military training is likely to result in a militaristic spirit is met by Lieut.-Col. Smith with the reply that it is a well-known fact that the man who has the self-reliance which comes from a knowledge that he is capable of defending himself in case of necessity is less inclined to provoke a quarrel than the man who has not that knowledge.

No Autocracy in Britain. Lieut.-Col. Smith believes with ex-President Roosevelt that the ability of a nation to defend itself in case of attack not only does not constitute a provocation to other nations, but is most likely to preserve it from aggression, since the knowledge that an efficient defence can be made is likely to make an enemy chary of attacking.

The possible argument that universal military training is likely to result in a militaristic spirit is met by Lieut.-Col. Smith with the reply that it is a well-known fact that the man who has the self-reliance which comes from a knowledge that he is capable of defending himself in case of necessity is less inclined to provoke a quarrel than the man who has not that knowledge.

There is no danger, either, he contends, of an autocratic militarism in the British Empire such as obtains in Germany, because the British law is very jealous of the rights of civilians and when soldiers are called out to quell a riot or insurrection they are regarded as civilians and subject to civil law as regards their actions against their fellow subjects.

They are not exempt, even, he points out, on the ground that they obey the orders of their superior officers. If soldiers were called out in case of a riot and fired on the rioters, the fact that they did so under orders would not protect them from punishment if the law held that they had maltreated or killed wrongfully. In fact, the status would be exactly that of any civilian who might be called upon by the police for assistance. The only reason for calling on the military in case of such an emergency would be that they would be prepared with arms, whereas it would be impossible to call together and arm a body of ordinary civilians.

Praises Militia Units. Lieut.-Col. Smith also believes that more attention should be paid to the ordinary militia units. He points out that but for the existence of such corps as the 7th and similar militia bodies, the organization of the Canadian overseas forces would have been an impossibility, since, for only one reason, there would have been no experienced men to lead them.

He holds that a man who joins one of the regular militia corps for the purpose of home defence is deserving of some credit as well as the man who joins an overseas regiment.

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

FIGURED IN THRILLING RIDE ON BATTLEFIELD

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."

Quartermaster-Sergeant E. D. Latham, with London Battery at front, had two horses killed by shells while delivering a message. He was employed with The Signy here before enlisting, and his last postcard to Mr. Weekes said: "All right so far."