Provincialism Gone Mad. indebted to The Montreal Wit

for preserving, in its own columns, certain re-marks by The Huntingdon Gleaner on 'some-thing said by Sir Richard Cartwright in the thing said by Sir Richard Cartwright in the course of his speech made as the Exhibition Park, Toronto, June 29, on the occasion of the great Reform Party gathering which then and there took place. The reference is to Sir Richard's defence of his vote in the House of Commons against Colonel O'Brien's motion to annul the Jeauits Estates Act, which de-fence, The Gleaner thinks, was "peculiar." Sir Richard said: But I untit to way I ama have in the in-

But I put it to you, I put it to all the hon-est men throughout the country, how could men of the Liberal party, one of the main planks of whose platform has been that the rights of every province should be respected, that each province should be subreme in the sphere which the constitution had assigned to it—how could we turn back in our own course, be false to our own record? Upon which The Gleaner thus remarks: . The plain English of this as that the Liberal

The plain English of this is that the Liberal, ty have adopted such extreme views with and to provincial rights that they do not all warranted in interfering with a province

Recard to provincial rights that they do not feel warranted in utterfering with a province which strikes a fatal blow at the constitution. If that be the Liberalism of today we want nous of it, and brefer the old-fashioned Liberal doctrines of separation of church and state and the independence of the legislature of forsign control. According to Sir Richard's reading of Liberalism, so long as Mercier keeps within the letter of the constitution he may proceed with his work of destroying it ; if British liberty be only strangled according to rule, Sir Richard will not be "false to hus own record" by interfering to prevent the to rule, Sir Richard will not be "false to his own record" by interfering to prevent the trime. The next election will show whether the people can be blinded by such legal dust. British rights and British supremacy are be-ing overthrown in Quebco, and the call to all true Liberals is to rally to re-astablish them. Evidently The Glenner agrees with The World that, in Upper Canada, at all events, the Liberalism of to-day is something very different from the Liberalism of William Lyon Mackenzie and Robert Baldwin. The party has sadly degenerated since the old

Wait Till You See It Tried.

Writing about matters and things in On-prio, the Toronto correspondent of The Mon-eal Witness says "there can be no doubt that the National Policy is to be put on its before." This is said apropos of the millers' convention recently held here; and what the correspondent looks for is that the millers' agitation will seriously damage the Dominion Government. Well, we shall see what we shall see, by and best how into the sec. see, by and bye ; but just now we remark that, being at bottom a novement for fair Protection, and no more, a can acarcely help our Free Trade Opposition ach. But what most takes our attention these days is the assertion, or implication, that the National Policy has been tried and has failed. The solid truth is that the illers have no Protection as all on their our, the miserable 50 cents duty on imported our being more than neutralized by railway discriminations and other things in favor of American millers and against our own. The Mail the other day admitted that what Pro-tection there is is against the Canadian miller, and in favor of his American competitor, who s thus enabled to control our market is thus enabled to control our market as well as his own. It is absurd to say that Protection has failed as regards the Canadian milling trade, seeing that the trade aforesaid has not so far had any Protection at all. This is the only important Canadian m-dustry which so far has had no share whatever in the National Policy. Even opponents of the N D durit in the National Policy. Even opponents of the N. P. admit that this most remarkable piece of injustice cannot last, it will have to be remedied, or something must break. When we see perfect fair play between the two countries-when our duties on American flour are made exactly the same as the American duties are on ours-then you may say that Danadian millers have Protection, but not be-

It is something to be noted that a great part of the opposition to the millers' demand for justice, which we hear of, is placed upon the ground that they have Protection already; which is most emphatically not true. Then are people amongst us, opponents of the N.P., of course who are "cabbing" away about some-thing which does not exist. Understand this, ye perverse ones-that the millers have no ion; when they have, then we may discuss the question whether it is a success or a failure. But please wait until we see it; just now it is non est inventus.
