

WISE WORDS.

"Conduct is three-fourths of character."—Mat. Arnold.

"All service ranks the same with God."—Robt. Browning.

"There is but one virtue, the eternal sacrifice of self."—Geo. Sand.

"All experience is new to him who newly experiences."

"Jesus Christ alone can save the world, but he can't save the world alone."—Graham Taylor.

"I have grown up on the battlefield, and a man like me cares little for the lives of a million men."—Nap. Bonaparte.

"Of mighty men and of great rivers the sources are obscure."

"It is easier to do one great deed than to do a thousand little ones."—Oriental Proverb.

"Character is not a thing of words, but of life and being."—Robertson, of Brighton.

God is greater and truer in our thoughts than in our words. He is greater in reality than in our thoughts."—St. Augustine.

"The highest thought that ever entered my mind is the thought of my individual responsibility to God."—Dan. Webster.

A noted Scotch divine once said: "A wise man will not set his watch by the clock, but by the sun. Neither will he take his doctrine from the opinions of men, but from the Bible itself."

Lord Kelvin, after fifty-five years of great work in science, said: "When I think of what is yet to accomplish and what I have accomplished, the proper word to express my work is not success, but failure."

"Every man is good enough to govern himself; no man is good enough to govern another without that other's consent."—Ab. Lincoln.

"In the light of real history it will be seen that the great man is he who sees most clearly and expresses most perfectly the common opinions and aspirations of his fellow-men."
